Auburndale M. E. Church Celebrates Seventieth Anniversary This Week

Bishop Burns Speaks At Anniversary Banquet—Church Was Organized in 1863

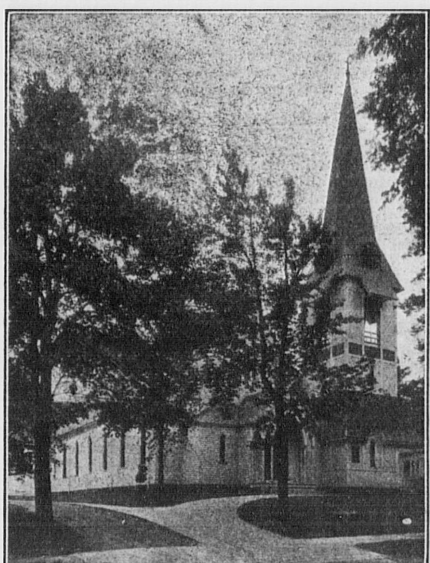

The Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church of Auburndale is celebrating the Seventieth Anniversary of the organization of the society. During the month of October the many organizations connected with the church have been observing the Anniversary under the leadership of the pastor, Mason W. Sharp. Last Sunday morning Rev. Charles S. Otto, Superintendent of the Boston District of the New England conference, was the guest speaker. Two anniversary gifts were presented to the church: a beautiful new pulpit bible and marker.

The Anniversary Banquet was held Thursday evening when a large gathering of parishioners enjoyed the program. Bishop and Mrs. Charles W. Burns, Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Otto, Rev. and Mrs. Maurice L. Bullock were among the invited guests. A fine program of music and speaking followed the banquet.

Church helped Centenary Church to achieve an enviable record. The great expanding program was thus being maintained when the World War came and disrupted everything, but Dr. George S. Butters, who holds the record for the longest pastorate in the history of this church, led his people wisely during that world crisis. The Parish House was in constant use for war work activities.

In December, 1923, a new pipe organ was presented by Miss Mabel T. Eager in memory of her parents, Mr. George R. Eager and Mrs. Olive T. Eager. This magnificent instrument was dedicated by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes.

Centenary Church has advanced steadily in membership and influence, its loyal officials and leaders, its unsurpassed choir, its young people's program, and its fine congregation, indicate a promising future.

CENTENARY M. E. CHURCH, AUBURDALE

The Anniversary celebration will continue next Sunday when Dr. L. O. Hartman of Boston will preach at the morning worship. Dr. Hartman is the editor of the Zion's Herald, and is one of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America.

The history of the church is an interesting story. In the summer of 1860 an Auburndale man named John Mero was converted at the Sterling camp meeting. He came home and opened his house for prayer and class meetings. The little group thus gathered rented the Riverside Academy building on Charles Street, and on November 4, 1860, invited the Rev. Isaac Jennison, Methodist pastor of Natick, to preach. Through that winter Methodist pastors from surrounding villages preached as they were able.

From May, 1861, to July, 1865 the work was carried on in a hall which was on the corner of Lexington Street and Melrose Avenue. At the New England Annual Conference in April, 1862, the Rev. J. Emory Round was appointed as the regular pastor. He was a young man and was instrumental in developing the infant church, but not until June 1, 1863, do we find him organizing a Methodist Episcopal Church. This he did with twelve people, known for years as "The Twelve Disciples." Their names were: George L. Bourne, Priscilla Bourne, John Deavall, Hannah Deavall, Anthony Holbrook, Charlotte I. Holbrook, Elizabeth Jackson, Ella Thompson, Dorcas Maguire, Mary Cook, Charles Ricker and William Hubbard.

In the summer of 1865 the hall burned and the little company accepted the gracious invitation of the Congregational Church, then a sturdy twelve-year-old, to worship with them until they could make arrangements for a meeting place. This arrangement was followed for nearly two years. During the interim the lot on Central Street was purchased, ground was broken with proper ceremonies in November, 1866, and the foundation stone laid on Christmas Day of that year. That year being the centennial year of Methodism in America the new church was appropriately named "Centenary." The leader in the enterprise was the Rev. C. W. Cushing, a Methodist minister who was a resident principal of Lasell Seminary. He and the Rev. W. F. Mallalieu (afterward Bishop) were the speakers at the stone-laying. In the spring the auditorium unit was dedicated, the sermon being preached by the Rev. F. S. DeHaas of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The years which followed with such leaders as Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, who later in life achieved deserved fame as the brilliant editor of Zion's Herald, and Rev. James W. Bashford, whose later career as president of Ohio Wesleyan University and as Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal

30 High School Teachers To Act In Faculty Play

Will Present "Three Musketeers" on Nov. 17

More than thirty Newton High School teachers will act on Nov. 17 and 18 in "The Three Musketeers," eighth annual faculty play, starring Raymond A. Green of the administrative staff as Raoul D'Artagnan and Supt. of Schools John Lund, Principal Paul E. Elicker, and Carl L. Swan as the three musketeers. Messrs. Green, Elicker and Swan have starred in previous faculty productions, Green as the Squire and Swan as Tony Lumpkin in "She Stoops to Conquer," 1932 Production, and Principal Elicker as John Silver in "Treasure Island." It will be Supt. Lund's first appearance as an actor.

Feminine leads are taken by Roxanna Holden and M. Roberta Miller of the French department as Queen Anne and her maid of honor, Gabrielle de Chalus, and by Mrs. Edith E. Newcomb as Clarice, Countess de Winter, known as Miladi, conspirator with Cardinal Richelieu for the control of weak-willed Louis XIII. Francis J. Foster plays the part of Louis.

Noel G. Cottrell, exchange teacher from Birmingham, England, takes the part of John Felton, murderer of the Duke of Buckingham, the queen's admirer.

Proceeds of previous faculty plays have been used to further welfare work among needy high school pupils, providing medical and dental services, purchasing clothing and eyeglasses for pupils who could not provide for themselves.

Previous notably successful productions have been "Treasure Island," which also had a very large cast, in 1932, "She Stoops to Conquer" in 1932 and "Dorothy Haddon of Vernon Hall." Francis L. Bacon, now principal of Evanston, Illinois, high school, a school of 4200 pupils, instituted faculty plays when he headed secondary education at Newton High.

Tighten Up On Beer Licenses

The Newton License Commission has announced that it will not grant further licenses for the sale of beer by common victuallers until the State authorities decide about the proposed law to govern the sale of liquor in Massachusetts following the expected repeal of the 18th Amendment. This announcement was made last week when four applications for beer licenses were held up by the commission.

Political Notes

William C. Fraser of 10 Clarendon st., Newtonville, a lawyer, has taken out nomination papers and will run for Ward Alderman in Ward 2 against Donald M. Hill who now holds this office. This makes a contest for every office to be voted on at the city election on December 12th next.

The report that Thomas King of 1317 Beacon st., Waban, will be a candidate for Alderman at the coming election is not correct. Mr. King will not be a candidate for the office.

Registration of Voters To Nov. 22

Persons eligible to vote in Newton who wish to become registered in time to participate in the city election on December 12 may register daily at City Hall until November 22nd from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., except on Saturdays when the hall closes at noon. On November 22nd registration can be had at City Hall until 10 p. m. Evening sessions for registration from 7:30 until 9 p. m. will be held at the following places: Newton Upper Falls, Emerson School, Thursday, November 9th. Newton, Newton Library, Centre Street, Thursday, November 9th. Nonantum, Police Station, Bridge Street, Monday, November 13th. West Newton, Davis School, Waltham Street, Tuesday, November 14th. Newtonville, Old Claffin School, Washington Park, Thursday, November 16th.

Newton Highlands, Hyde School, Thursday, November 16th. Waban, Albert Edgar Angier School, Friday, November 17th. Auburndale, Fire Station, Auburn Street, Friday, November 17th. Chestnut Hill, John Ward School, Dolphin Road, Monday, November 20th.

Newton Centre, Mason School, Tuesday, November 21st.

Another Auto Victim on Pike

A few days after a resident of Thompsonville was killed by an automobile while crossing the Worcester turnpike in that district, another resident of the district was hit by a car and seriously injured. On Friday night as Augustino Guernelli, 46, of 99 Florence st., Newton Centre was crossing the pike opposite Florence st., he was struck by a car driven by Herbert McLeod of Reading. He was hurled into the air, thrown against the windshield of the car and carried along for 30 feet. He was taken to the Newton Hospital where it was found he had received a concussion of the brain, lacerations of the head and right hand, and other injuries. The windshield and right door window of the car were shattered.

Temporary Work For City Workers

Thirty city employees who have been idle for many months were put to work Tuesday on the construction of drains and a sewer in conjunction with the Hammond Pond Parkway at Chestnut Hill. It is expected that this work will give about two months' employment to those engaged on it.

Forty Protest Against Proposed Paint Factory

At Hearing Conducted By Board of Appeal

Forty residents and property owners of the Nonantum section were present at City Hall on Monday afternoon to protest against the application of the First National Bank of Boston to use the property at 80 Bridge street, Nonantum, for the manufacture, storage and sale of paints, varnishes, lacquers and enamels. The property was formerly part of the big textile plant of the Saxony Worsted Company and in past years was occupied by the Shepherd Worsted Mill. It comprises a large frame and brick structure and some smaller frame buildings. The hearing was held before the Board of Appeal of Newton comprised of C. Ray Cabot, C. A. Sawyer, Jr., and John Kellar. Mr. Kellar served as substitute for Lewis H. Bacon, regular member of the Board who is absent in the South because of his health. Mr. Cabot served as chairman. Present also were Buildings Commissioner Hagemann and Chief Randlett of the Fire Department. During the hearing Alderman T. Morton Gallagher arrived.

Mr. Cabot explained to those present the purpose of the hearing. He stated that on October 4th the First National Bank had made application to use the premises for the purposes specified, but Mr. Hagemann at once refused the application because the zoning ordinance of Newton specifically prohibits a paint factory within the limits of this city. The petitioner, taking advantage of legislation passed this year, then took an immediate appeal to the Newton Board of Appeal. Mr. Cabot stated that five years ago the Board of Appeal had granted a permit for a paint factory within the city limits. But, this factory is located in a swamp at the Waltham line, isolated from residences. He said that although the law states that only abutters need be notified of such a hearing, he had requested the Buildings Commissioner to notify a considerable number of Nonantum residents, and that if it is felt that insufficient notice has been given to residents of that district, the Board of Appeal is willing to give further opportunity for the registration of objections.

J. Edward Theriault of Bridge street asked Mr. Cabot if the Board of Appeal has the power to authorize the requested use of the property, at variance with the zoning ordinance, and what power the Board of Aldermen has in the matter? Mr. Cabot explained that the Board of Appeal has power to vary the ordinance in this respect, but that if it did, the objectors can apply to the court for an injunction. He said the only power invested in the Board of Aldermen in the matter is to grant or refuse a permit to the petitioner for the storage of inflammable fluids on the premises. Such fluids would be necessary for the conduct of the business. He also gave the information that the First National Bank intends to lease the property to the Packard Paint Company; this company to have the option of purchase. The company is now operating in a former brewery at Roxbury.

Poster E. Allison of Boston, attorney for the First National Bank, said that the objections against the proposed use of the property are based on its alleged creation of a fire hazard and odors which might come from it. He said the place would not become a nuisance, that proper precautions would be taken to safeguard any fire hazards, that the locus is in an industrial zone with three factories adjoining, and that the property has been idle for a long time and it is difficult to rent it.

Henry; Waban, Edward H. Woods and Mrs. J. Earle Parker.

Boylston Street Lighted Tonight

After a couple of years of darkness Boylston street (the new Worcester turnpike) will be lighted tonight. At 5 o'clock this evening the big traffic artery which traverses the south side of the city from the Wellesley line to Brookline will be illuminated by 159 incandescent lamps of 600 candlepower each. These lamps are located alternately on either side of the turnpike, about 150 feet apart, or about 300 feet apart on the same side.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON OUTPLAYS QUINCY 16 TO 0 ON TWO UNUSUAL PLAYS

Newton high emerged a 16 to 0 victor over Quincy high last Saturday at Dickinson stadium, Newtonville, in a game in which neither eleven played particularly smart football. Two of the Newton scores were the result of unusual plays with the final tally coming at the end of a fifty-yard march. Captain Charley Thompson and his mates started from the opening whistle with an aggressiveness which sent Quincy back in their own territory. On getting the ball the Newton attack functioned to reach the Quincy 5-yard stripe where it stalled and the visitors took the ball. Attempting to kick from behind his own goal-line quarterback Asnes booted the ball almost straight up into the air. As it descended behind the goal-line Jonathan Rachig, Newton guard, dashed underneath the ball and caught it for a Newton touchdown less than five yards from where Asnes booted it. Charlie Flagg then placed the point after to send Newton away to a 7 to 0 lead within the first five minutes of play.

Again late in the third period Quincy was kicking from behind their goal-line. On this occasion the pass from centre was poor and Asnes fumbled it. As it bounced around on the ground he swung his foot at it in an attempt to kick it out of the end zone onto the field of play. It glanced off the side of his foot and outside the end zone for an automatic safety. Newton linemen were unsuccessful in their attempt to cover the ball for a touchdown as it bobbed crazily around. The two points boosted the Newton score to nine.

Midway of the final period Newton received the ball near midfield on a Quincy kick. Charlie Flagg, Newton quarterback, immediately took to the air. Three successful forward passes in eight plays gained practically the entire distance as the five line plays netted about seven yards which were largely offset by an offside penalty of five yards against Flagg and his back eleven. Flagg's first toss was to Feola for a 14-yard gain. His next to Miller for 18 yards and the third to Miller again for 13 yards and the touchdown. Kuleska rushed through the line for the point after for Newton's sixteenth point.

Quincy won the toss and elected to receive with Castoldi kicking off for Newton and booting the ball over the goal. Quincy got it in play on the 20-yard line and failing to gain in two plays kicked to Flagg at midfield. Flagg reached the Quincy 37 yard line before being hauled down. A short pass, Flagg to Mascia, netted seven yards and a 22-yard romp through a big hole at the Quincy right tackle by Treanille gave Newton an opportunity. Flagg and Mascia kicked off four yards on three tries and Mascia lost a yard on an end sweep to give Quincy the ball on downs on their 5-yard stripe. Here the freak play occurred with Roehrig displaying quick football intelligence in rushing in to seize the punt from among a wondering group of both Newton and Quincy players. Flagg's place kick was square between the uprights. Castoldi again kicked off, and after a few plays Quincy kicked. Frazier fumbled the ball on the Newton 48 and Densmore recovered for Quincy. An attempted pass was intercepted by Treanille who fought his way back to midfield after a quick start. Newton was off side on the play, however, and the ball was returned to Quincy's possession. A few plays later a Newton secondary defence player knocked down a Quincy pass receiver before the pass reached him and the interference gave Quincy a first down on the Newton 30-yard marker. Treanille stopped two plays, one for a gain and one for a loss of four yards and on the next play Castoldi kicked through to nail Asnes for a 10-yard loss as he was about to pass. Flagg kicked to Frazier on the Newton 20-yard line and the Newton back was hauled down after a short runback. Newton was penalized to the 1-yard line for roughing the kicker and Coach Sanborn sent in Sanderson Sloane, Newton's best punter who had been out of action with a broken wrist for a couple of weeks. Sloane kicked out of danger. A few plays later the period ended after Quincy had rushed twelve yards for a first down on the Newton 10-yard line.

Daley made two yards on the first play of the second period but on the next play was tossed for a loss of eight yards as he fumbled and recovered on a criss-cross play. Asnes' pass was incomplete and Newton took the ball on downs on their own 16-yard stripe. Sloane's kick was shot and was returned to the Newton 34 before the runner was downed. Again Quincy threatened but Flagg knocked down a Quincy pass on fourth down and Newton again took the ball on the 10-yard line. Flagg kicked to Frazier on the Newton 20-yard line and the Newton back was hauled down after a short runback. Newton was penalized to the 1-yard line for roughing the kicker and Coach Sanborn sent in Sanderson Sloane, Newton's best punter who had been out of action with a broken wrist for a couple of weeks. GEARY STARS IN BOYS' TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Varsity tennis players fell by the wayside as the Newton High fall bumper tournament closed this week. Captain Will Spurrier found himself ranked number two as a result of two defeats at the hands of southpaw Leo Geary, a member of last year's second team, whose sizzling baseline drives and forecourt smashing enabled him to win the school tournament handily and to keep his position at the head of the "bumper list."

Promising sophomore material, notably Clayton Mosher and Tom Slattery—pushed several veterans of last year's state championship team below the first eight in ranking. The first eight now comprise Geary, Capt. Spurrier, Victor Haven, Clayton Mosher, Tom Slattery, E. F. Bachrach, George Volpe, and Roy Merchant. Seniors not rating among the first eight were automatically eliminated from the squad by Coach Taylor. The remaining players constitute the second team for the 1934 season.

Girls Tennis Tournay

The girls tennis tournament at the Newton high school reached the final stage at Longwood last June. In the final round Miss Mancini will meet Eleana Ciccone, state junior girls' champion who defeated Miss Everts in that event. A close match is promised.

SPORT NOTES

Powers and Gulian Play
Wilbur Powers, Dartmouth half-back, and George Gulian, Harvard guard, were the only two local youths on the Newton squads to participate in the Harvard-Dartmouth game last Saturday. Powers started for the Green at left halfback and was replaced by Aleta and Bill Clark, whose touchdown run late in the game was one of the thrills of the game and which enabled the Green to pull out a 7 to 7 tie. Gulian played at right half guard and berth for the Crimson. Powers was repeatedly nailed behind the line, frequently by left end Choate of the Crimson. Powers' inability to get going was due largely to the fact that he was wearing an especially constructed jacket to protect a misplaced rib, will be in his usual place at centre against Rindge.

Coach Sanborn has shifted some of the players in the backfield and has two groups which he may use alternately as units. The starting quartet will have Charlie Mascia at the number one position, Charlie Flagg and Hallett at the two and three berths and Frazier at the number four position. The alternate group which Coach Sanborn will use is lighter but speedier than the first quartet. It will be comprised of "Baby" Feola, Treanille, Louis Miller, and Sandy Sloane with the latter doing the punting. The Newton coach and his assistants have hopes that the shift will produce results and that with the addition of a few new plays the Newton eleven will be returned the winner over Rindge. Should Newton lose to Rindge it will lose its hold upon the 1933 Suburban league honors as Rindge already has two victories to its credit. Should tomorrow's game result in a tie Newton will retain a hold on the title by defeating Brookline on Thanksgiving Day which would leave Newton and Rindge tied for the honors. If Newton can win tomorrow it will then need a win or a tie in the Brookline game to win the title while a loss in the final game would leave Newton and Rindge tied.

SPORT NOTES

Porter Wins Tournay
Muscoe S. Porter of Newton won the annual Fall singles tennis tournament at Huntington school recently defeating William O'Brien of Brookline in straight sets in the final match. Porter also won in 1931 and 1932 and for the third time will have his name inscribed on the Dearing Cup, perpetual trophy presented the school by Ernest W. Dearing of Newton.

Linberg Blocks Punt
An overconfident Tufts team lost a 6 to 0 game to Williams last Saturday night. The Tufts team was the undefeated class of college teams. Incidentally it was Williams' first score of the season. Gordon Linberg, former Newton high star line-man, was acting captain of the Tufts team. He played throughout the game at left tackle. In the third period Linberg blocked a Purple punt which rolled outside at the Williams 14-yard line. Tufts could not gain and the opportunity for a Tufts score was denied.

Places in Cross-Country

May Get Starting Berths
Coach Al McCoy determined to shake-up his Northeastern University team following the 7-7 tie with Norwich last Saturday. It is possible that two Newton youths will get the call to start instead of being reserves as in previous games this season. Bob Buell, former Newton high halfback, has been used at quarterback considerably during the practice sessions of the Huskies and Henry Furdon, former Newton fullback, has been in a similar position.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE TITLE AT STAKE IN NEWTON-RINDGE GAME

The Suburban League title for 1933 will probably be decided tomorrow afternoon when Newton High and Rindge get together in their annual gridiron battle. The game will be played at Russell Field, North Cambridge at two o'clock. Coach Sanborn and his Newton eleven have high hopes of upsetting the Rindge outfit which has proved a stubborn foe to all of its opponents to date this season. Rindge has a big and good team and one which will provide Newton with a real hard game. Newton's play in the game thus far this season has been none too consistent. Its raggedness in fact has been in its outstanding weakness in its three defeats. If the Newton team can go out and play football it should have an even chance of turning back the Rindge outfit. On the other hand it does not take many mental lapses to provide the opposing eleven with the opportunity of grabbing off the victory.

Rindge has won both of its league games this season and needs a win over Newton to annex the title which was won last year by Captain Warren Huston and his Newton mates. Defeating Cambridge 14 to 0 and Brookline 19 to 6 the University City outfit has shown an offence of some merit. It is not impregnable, however, as the Brookline team, noted for its weaknesses, showed a passing attack that produced a score.

Coach Sanborn is without the services of some of his players who have enjoyed a first-string rating but the return of others leaves him with a squad about the same strength as he has had most of the season. Ryan, starting end against Quincy received a dislocated vertebrae in his back and is probably out for the remainder of the season although it is possible that he may be back in time for the Brookline game. It is an injury similar to that which befell Warren Huston two years ago a few days before the Brookline game. Jimmy Byrne, who was out of last week's game with a bad slide, is back in action again and along with Howe, starting end against Quincy, will be in against Rindge. Herbert Smith and Melvin Swig will start at the tackle berths with the former having definitely won the berth over Balkus, who started several games as a tackle. Walter Rich, letter man on the 1932 line, played at tackle for a time last Saturday but has returned to his former post as a starting guard. He will fill one such position with Roehrig at the other guard. Captain Charley Thompson, whose play against Quincy apparently suffered from the fact that he was wearing an especially constructed jacket to protect a misplaced rib, will be in his usual place at centre against Rindge.

Coach Sanborn has shifted some of the players in the backfield and has two groups which he may use alternately as units. The starting quartet will have Charlie Mascia at the number one position, Charlie Flagg and Hallett at the two and three berths and Frazier at the number four position. The alternate group which Coach Sanborn will use is lighter but speedier than the first quartet. It will be comprised of "Baby" Feola, Treanille, Louis Miller, and Sandy Sloane with the latter doing the punting. The Newton coach and his assistants have hopes that the shift will produce results and that with the addition of a few new plays the Newton eleven will be returned the winner over Rindge. Should Newton lose to Rindge it will lose its hold upon the 1933 Suburban league honors as Rindge already has two victories to its credit. Should tomorrow's game result in a tie Newton will retain a hold on the title by defeating Brookline on Thanksgiving Day which would leave Newton and Rindge tied for the honors. If Newton can win tomorrow it will then need a win or a tie in the Brookline game to win the title while a loss in the final game would leave Newton and Rindge tied.

Coach Sanborn has shifted some of the players in the backfield and has two groups which he may use alternately as units. The starting quartet will have Charlie Mascia at the number one position, Charlie Flagg and Hallett at the two and three berths and Frazier at the number four position. SPORT NOTES

Muscoe S. Porter of Newton won the annual Fall singles tennis tournament at Huntington school recently defeating William O'Brien of Brookline in straight sets in the final match. Porter also won in 1931 and 1932 and for the third time will have his name inscribed on the Dearing Cup, perpetual trophy presented the school by Ernest W. Dearing of Newton.

Linberg Blocks Punt
An overconfident Tufts team lost a 6 to 0 game to Williams last Saturday night. The Tufts team was the undefeated class of college teams. Incidentally it was Williams' first score of the season. Gordon Linberg, former Newton high star line-man, was acting captain of the Tufts team. He played throughout the game at left tackle. In the third period Linberg blocked a Purple punt which rolled outside at the Williams 14-yard line. Tufts could not gain and the opportunity for a Tufts score was denied.

Places in Cross-Country

May Get Starting Berths
Coach Al McCoy determined to shake-up his Northeastern University team following the 7-7 tie with Norwich last Saturday. It is possible that two Newton youths will get the call to start instead of being reserves as in previous games this season. Bob Buell, former Newton high halfback, has been used at quarterback considerably during the practice sessions of the Huskies and Henry Furdon, former Newton fullback, has been in a similar position.

SPORT NOTES

Newton League Bowling

In the Newton league bowling matches at the Middlesex Sportsman's Association in Arlington on Wednesday night, the Waban Neighborhood Club captured two points and the Middlesex team the third. Middlesex hit 921 on its first string to lead Waban with 894 and Hunnewell with 853. On the second string Waban hit 944 with Maugus second with 879. The final string showed the closest with Waban totalling 916 and Hunnewell 905. Malcolm Hill with 233 on his second string, and Robbins with 222 on his first string were the high single string rollers enabling Waban to come through.

Play for Brown

The three Newton sophomores on the Brown varsity football team all took part in the game against Holy Cross last Saturday which the latter won 19 to 7 after the Brown Bears weakened late in the third period. Charlie Butler was an early reserve at right tackle and made his share of tackles. Norman Appleyard was used in a halfback position after the Brown's star, Mickey Walker was injured. Perry Elrod played a reserve fullback position and in the final period threw a desperate 30-yard pass which was intercepted by Holy Cross on their 35-yard stripe. The Crusaders then started a 65 yard march for their final touchdown.

Manager of Girls' Hockey Team

Catherine Condit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Condit of Morton St., Newton Centre, has been chosen manager of the hockey team at Goddard School for Girls at Barre, Vermont. Miss Condit is also secretary of the post graduate class which comprises a group of students who are doing advanced secretarial and junior college work at Goddard after completing their high school course elsewhere.

OCTOBER BUILDING REPORT

During the month of October 58 permits were issued by the Newton Public Buildings Department. The estimated cost of the work to be done under these permits is $165,325. Fifteen of the permits were for single dwellings valued at $143,500; 10 for private garages valued at $2600; 2 for advertising signs to cost $820. The other permits were for alterations on buildings. For the first 10 months in 1933 the number of permits issued totaled 84; in 1932 during the same period 434 permits were issued.

PARAMOUNT THEATRE, NEWTON

Paramount's "Too Much Harmony," the first musical hit of the new 1933-34 season, makes its appearance on Sunday for four days at the Paramount Theatre, Newton. In the stellar role is Bing Crosby, who was most recently seen in Paramount's "Big Broadcast" and "College Humor."

In supporting roles are Jack Oakie and Skeets Gallagher, the famous comedy team who wowed audiences in "Close Harmony" several years ago. Judith Allen, Cecil B. DeMille's new screen find; Harry Green, famous stage and screen dialectic funster; Lilyan Tashman and Ned Sparks. Direction was by Edward Sutherland, who also megaphoned "Whoopie."

The story, moving in and out of a theatrical atmosphere, relates the adventures of a group of show people rehearsing for a forthcoming musical comedy. Bing Crosby, star of the show, is engaged to the fascinating gold-digger, Lilyan Tashman. He meets Judith Allen while on a trip in the West, thinks she has great stage possibilities and makes her a member of the show, and promptly falls in love with her. The situation becomes embarrassing when he discovers that Judith is virtually engaged to Jack Oakie, part of her act. Oakie and Crosby come to blows, then to an understanding, and the final scenes end the novel plot in unusual and satisfactory fashion.

Twelve Checks

of unusual value

Of all the services that we are privileged to render, we can most heartily commend our One-Year Monthly Income plan.

After the death of the insured we deliver twelve checks, one every month for a year. A favorite amount is $100 monthly.

These ready dollars in that trying first year are beyond valuation. They furnish comfort and assurance; a chance to collect thoughts, revive courage and lay new plans.

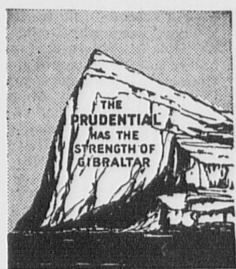

The premium, paid once, twice or four times a year, runs about a nickel a day at age twenty, a dime in the early forties or a few cents more if you start later in life.

Larger amounts or longer periods can be arranged. A choice of policy forms is available. Premium referred to above is for "Endowment at Age 85."

Set up this safeguard for your home circle and they will never be caught unprepared. It will make an ideal supplement to your lump-sum insurance.

Mather To Speak At Central Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Club of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, will be held on Monday evening, Nov. 6th, at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Chairman of the Department of Geography and Geology at Harvard University, will speak on a most timely subject, "New England, The New Geography, and the New Deal."

Dr. Mather is a geologist of the first rank. He has led scientific explorations in South America. He combines, too, a philosophy with his scientific point of view that is wholesome and stimulating. He is a frequent contributor to some of the leading magazines, such as the Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, and the like, as an author, lecturer and traveler. Everywhere he has spoken he has met with a most enthusiastic response, and Central Club looks forward to the meeting with pleasant anticipation.

TO SPEAK AT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR RALLY

Mr. Alvin J. Shurtle, treasurer and field secretary of the International Society of Christian Endeavor will be the speaker at the Norumbega Christian Endeavor Union Rally to be held November 14 at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, West Newton.

The Lincoln Park Baptist Senior C. E. Society has planned a fine supper for the rally starting at 6:30.

W. C. T. U.

The next meeting of the West Newton W. C. T. U. will be held on Monday evening, Nov. 6th, at 7:45 at the home of Mrs. P. M. Wood, 2039 Commonwealth ave., Auburn-dale. The subject will be "Loyalty." Leader, Mrs. P. M. Wood. The hostesses will be Mrs. L. M. Clapp and Mrs. Wood.

Local News

Friday evening, Oct. 27th, Mr.

Rupert C. Thompson, Chairman of the Newton NRA Compliance Board, called a meeting of the Board to introduce the two new members, Mr. Martin E. Kelly and Mr. L. H. Johnson. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Johnson were appointed by Mr. George L. White, Executive Chairman of the Newton NRA. At this meeting there was a discussion of the NRA work accomplished so far in this city and of the work that is hoped to be done.

Mr. Rupert C. Thompson attended the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Newton Chamber of Commerce held at the Braeburn Country Club on Thursday, Oct. 26th. Mr. Thompson gave a brief report of the NRA work in Newton up to date.

LIBRARY SUNDAY OPENING

The Main Library and the Branches at Newton Centre, Newtonville, West Newton and Nonantum will be open from 2:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. on Sundays, from November 1 to March 31.

Books borrowed at the Main Library or any Branch may be returned to any of the above libraries.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The Annual Armistice Sunday services will be at the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church, Newton, on Sunday, Nov. 5, 1933, at 10:30 a. m. The Auxiliary members of Post 48, A. L., are cordially invited to attend these services with the Newton Post.

In the evening there will be a trip to Providence, to attend the services at Rev. Herbert A. MacCombie's church (Edinwood Baptist Church), at 7:30 p. m. The Auxiliary members will meet at the State Armory, Washington st., West Newton, on Sunday, Nov. 5, 1933, at 6:00 p. m.

A School of Instruction will be conducted by the American Legion Auxiliary, under the direction of Miss Anna Maleady, State Secretary, at the State House, Boston, on Saturday afternoon, November 4th, at two o'clock. All Auxiliary members are welcome to attend.

Legion Plans Armistice Ball

In the observance of Armistice Day, Newton Post No. 48, of the American Legion, has a number of events scheduled, but the highlight is to be the Armistice Eve Ball which will be conducted at the State Armory, West Newton, Friday evening, Nov. 10th.

The details are being worked out by a joint committee consisting of members of the Post and the Band, headed by Clifford S. J. White and Edward F. Dalton. A well-known orchestra has been engaged which will furnish music for the dancing which will continue until one o'clock.

Newton Post Band will open the evening's activities with a concert from eight o'clock until nine. A very elaborate system of decorating is to be used and many features will be exhibited which are certain to be most novel. A Grand March will be conducted during the course of the evening and it is anticipated that many of the leading citizens of Newton will participate.

A very colorful form of tableaux will be presented at eleven o'clock in commemoration of Armistice Day and in memory of the departed service men of Newton who gave their lives while serving their country during the World War.

Legion Auxiliary

A Harvest Supper and Bazaar, under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, Newton Unit No. 48, will be held in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, West Newton, on Wednesday, November 8th.

The Bazaar will open at 3 o'clock and continue through the afternoon and evening. Many beautiful articles have been made by the Sewing Club, who have been meeting each week, under the direction of Mrs. Carrie Robinson, Chairman. The final meeting was held on Wednesday night at Mrs. Robinson's home.

Supper will be served from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. and all who attend this event are assured of a very pleasant time.

New Religious Nursery School at West Newton

A religious nursery school, an entirely new undertaking in this State, is in session daily from nine until twelve at the Second Church in Newton, of which Dr. Boynton Merrill is minister and Mr. Frank H. Grebe the director of religious education. The school, meeting in the parish house, using the church equipment and the children's chapel, is a development of the church's plan whereby children learn that religion is a part of everyday living, not an attitude especially reserved for the Sunday session of the church school.

It seemed to the committee of education, of which Mr. Richard B. Cole is chairman and Mrs. Charles M. Cutler secretary, that this purpose would best be accomplished by having connected with the church a day school in which children could face the ordinary problems of living and at the same time learn that religion and the solution of the problems are closely associated. The executive committee, to which the plan was submitted for final approval, voted unanimously for it. Representing the will of the parish, this committee is composed of Mr. Thomas Weston, moderator, Mr. William Lester Bates, Mr. Albert C. Blunt, Jr., Mr. Richard B. Cole, Mr. William L. Davidson, Mr. George H. Fernald, Jr., Mr. Sydney P. French, Mr. George S. Fuller, Mr. Maxwell P. Gaddis, Mr. Frank H. Grebe, Mr. John W. Kellar, Mrs. George Larcom, Mr. C. Clark Macomber, Mrs. Richard M. Ott, Mr. George Owen, Mr. Carl E. Pickhardt, Mr. B. G. Rae, Mr. Percy R. Ziegler and Dr. Boynton Merrill.

The school helps the children of the parish develop the initiative, self-control, and the cooperative spirit so essential to happiness in a complex society. Mornings in the school are varied by the differing interests of the children. The first hour is spent outdoors in the use of the slide and other apparatus in as many ways as vivid childish imaginations suggest. The second hour is given over to more quiet occupations—stories or music or block building, worship, lunch and rest. The last hour of the morning is again, when the weather permits, spent outdoors.

CHILDREN'S CHAPEL CHANCEL

The church nursery school is but one unit of the Second Church plan. The principal of the school, Esther Colby Sweet, is available daily for conferences with parents or with those interested in the school, and has also in her charge the Sunday session, which is conducted along the lines of the daily school. A program of interest to all parents of preschool children in the parish is being initiated.

In the month it has been in session the school has fulfilled the expectations of the church, as it has given the children a sense of belonging to the church, and has taught them that happiness and religion are closely allied.

Forty Protest Against Factory

J. Edward Theriault said that if the First National Bank wants the good will of the people of Newton it should withdraw the application. He said Nonantum people will gladly co-operate with the bank to bring any desirable industry into the premises, but Nonantum does not want an industry which the First National Bank knows would be a fire hazard and the source of objectionable odors. He said that he represented Rev. Joseph Robichaud of St. Jean Evangelist Church of Nonantum where protests had been made against the application on Sunday. Serg. Andrew Morris of the Newton police department, whose residence adjoins the locus of the proposed paint factory, presented a petition signed by twenty residents and property owners of Bridge street protesting against the application. He said the paint factory would be a fire hazard and health menace. James Delaney of 661 Washington street also protested in behalf of himself and his two brothers who own property in the vicinity.

John Finelli, representing the Newton Citizens Club with a membership of over 200, also objected. He said the paint factory would employ few persons and these would come from outside Newton. He said the odors from the factory would be injurious to the health of Nonantum. He stated that even now, on damp days, the odors from a paint factory in Bemis, a half mile distant, waft into Nonantum and that persons residing in Waverly, near the Bemis factory, have applied for an injunction to abate the nuisance it creates. Mr. Cabot asked Mr. Finelli how near the new school on Nevada street would be to the proposed paint factory? Mr. Finelli estimated about a quarter of a mile.

E. F. Stevens of the Raytheon Company of 55 Chapel street, Nonantum, stated that his company manufactures radio tubes and employs 550 persons at the present time, half of whom are residents of this city. He said that the proposed paint factory would come within 15 feet of the Raytheon building and would be an unnecessary fire hazard. He explained that his company uses very specialized machinery which would be quite difficult to replace. P. Joseph Murphy of Dalby street objected to details of his neighborhood being so close to the paint factory. He said he is already bothered by odors from the oil burning equipment at a Chapel street factory and women complain of soot gathering on articles hung out to dry after washings.

Anthony G. Sullivan of Bridge street said he can't understand why a corporation such as the First National Bank of Boston seeks to break down Newton's zoning ordinance and establish a paint factory in the midst of the most congested residence section of this city. He called attention to the fact that most paint factories are located on marsh areas, away from residences. C. A. Sawyer, Jr., of the Board of Appeal asked Mr. Allison about certain details of the manufacturing processes used by the paint company, but Mr. Allison said he was not acquainted with these details. Francis Turner of Bridge street, who resides opposite the proposed locus of the paint factory, objected because of the odors which would come from it. He said there is a fire hazard there now, as he has seen large sparks belching from the smoke stack at the adjoining factory which is quite close to the location asked for the paint factory. Benjamin G. Rae of the Futurity Tread Company also objected to the paint factory. He said that the cotton picking machinery in his factory is but 15

Kiwanis Club

On Tuesday, October 31 "Bobby" Robertson and "Doc" Doherty were responsible for putting on an entertainment de luxe at the noon luncheon of the Newton Kiwanis Club at the Charles River Country Club.

George L. White presided and a large number of Kiwanians and visitors attended this entertainment meeting.

The following names were presented by the Nominating Committee for officers and directors in the Newton Kiwanis Club for the year 1934:

For president, Wilfred Chagnon and "Dick" Davis; for 1st vice-president, "Tom" Ryan and Giles Mosher; for 2nd vice-president, Charlie Barrows; for treasurer, "Rupe" Thompson, Jr.; for directors, Frank Avantaggio, Thomas Aiken, Charlie Barrows, "Tom" Burns, "Archie" Clair, "Jim" Forbes, Ernest Gibson, "Ed" Griffin, "Ed" Hickey, Burt Rich, "Jim" Riggs, "Bobby" Robertson.

On the Nominating Committee are Hugh S. Boyd, James P. Gallagher, Thomas Aiken, Dr. F. H. Paul and Charles Mahoney.

Author Hurd To Speak at Hlds.

The Newton Highlands Men's Club will hold its November meeting on Tuesday evening, November 7th at the Congregational Church with a dinner at six-thirty o'clock. Harry Elmore Hurd will be the guest speaker of the evening and Miss Ethel Grenier, familiar to radio audiences as a "blues singer," will render several selections.

Mr. Hurd is an author, whose poetry, essays and stories have appeared in many American and British publications, including the important outdoor magazines. Before taking degrees at Harvard and Boston Universities he was one of the earliest wireless operators in America, copying all the wrecks for newspapers and operating at several stations including the steamships Admiral Dewey, Governor Cobb and Algonquin. He served as minister of Methodist and Congregational churches for eighteen years, going to France as Chaplain of the 33rd U. S. Engineers with the rank of First Lieutenant. After the war he became a cowboy in the far west and lived with miners, herders, rangers and ranchers in every state but two west of the Colorado. His varied experiences form a background of a talk that is enthralling to the end.

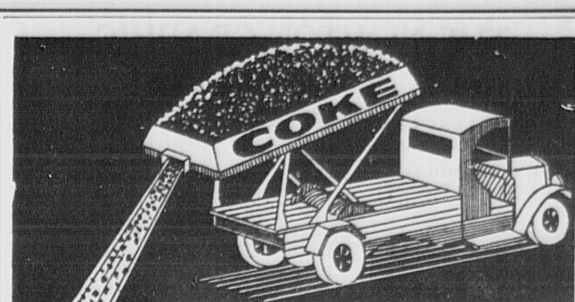

feet from the proposed locus of the paint factory and a bad fire hazard would be created.

Mr. Cabot asked Chairman John W. Murphy of the Newton Board of Assessors what effect the paint factory would have on Nonantum real estate values. Mr. Murphy said it would have a bad effect on the values. As a resident of Nonantum, Mr. Murphy objected to the factory because of the nuisance it would create in that section.

People say they never understood the national problem of the day until they were explained in the brilliant writings of WALTER LIPP-MANN on the Editorial Page of the Boston Globe.

National Executive Attends Newton Get-Together

Eighty-seven interested women listened to the address given by Miss Hazel Osborn at the home of Mrs. Walton S. Redfield, Commissioner, last week. Miss Osborn's subject was "The Place of Girl Scouting in the Community Program." Studying the needs of a community and co-operation with other agencies in the community were the chief points brought out in her talk.

The address was followed by a social hour at which time Mrs. Redfield, Miss Osborn, Mrs. Maynard Hutchinson and Miss Margaret Adams, Newton's present Field Captain, received all the guests present. All the branches of the Newton Girl Scout Organization were represented at this meeting besides friends from other organizations interested in the work.

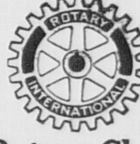

Two training courses are being given at Scout Headquarters. The Thursday morning group with a registration of 37 is taking up elementary Scouting. This course is made up of mothers of Girl Scouts, and committee members as well as new leaders. The second course is given Tuesday mornings and is made up of officers interested in hiking—an advanced course in Tramping and Trailing. Both courses are being conducted by Miss Adams.

In spite of cold weather Camp Mary Day is constantly being used for week ends. Troop 17 of Newton Upper Falls and Troop 11 of Newton Highlands have each had two week ends in their respective cabins and Troop 23 of Newton Centre has used its cabin once. This week end Troops 5 and 17 and a Pioneer group are occupying the camp. It is planned to have winter camping a feature of the organization this year.

The Girl Scout exhibit, which has been in the window of the Newtonville branch library to commemorate Girl Scout Week, has attracted considerable interest and many favorable comments. The minute chalet in its Swiss setting of mountains made by Mr. W. J. Freethy filled one window. This is a replica of the chalet given by Mrs. James J. Storrow to the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. The chalet is situated in Adelboden, Switzerland, and is used each summer by Girl Scouts of many lands.

In the other window the remaining part of the exhibition consisted of dolls dressed in the Scout uniforms of other countries and also national costumes which were exhibited at the Boy Scout Exposition last February. These dolls were dressed by the Girl Scouts of Newton. Girl Scout Week always includes the birthday of Juliette Low, who founded the American Girl Scouts and who was particularly interested in the international program.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak to Girl Scouts and their friends over the network of the National Broadcasting Company, Friday, November 3, from 5:00 to 5:15 p. m. Mrs. Roosevelt's talk will be the high spot of the national broadcasting program which has been arranged for Girl Scout Week, October 29-November 4.

Rotary Club

"The blue eagle of hope must not become the black buzzard of despair," said District Governor Lester Merritt, of Fall River, in addressing the Newton Rotary Club and their wives at the regular noonday meeting. Mr. Merritt appealed directly to the 3610 Rotary Club in 67 countries with a membership of more than 147,000 to promote a stronger bond of internationalism and world good will. He condemned very emphatically the organized promotion of destructive propaganda of President Roosevelt's Recovery Program. The Communists, among whom are many college professors, would like to see the stars and stripes displaced by the Red Flag, and the workers' children taught dissatisfaction of our present form of government. The speaker spoke optimistically of the gradual return of industrial activity in New England and especially in Fall River. To the Rotarians, he believed, would be presented a strong challenge to promote world peace and world understanding.

Mrs. John Cox favored the club and their guests with several vocal selections.

HUNNEWELL PLAYERS

The "Hunnewell Club Players" will open the season with "The Truth About Blayds," a play in three acts by A. A. Milne, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, November 8th and 9th, at the Hunnewell Club Hall, Newton.

The players are under the direction of Mr. Mortimer Maribee, who has coached many successful plays in New York.

The "Hunnewell Players" gave two interesting performances last season and plan to produce four this season. It is the desire of the group to produce a high standard of amateur dramatics for the appreciation of Newton audiences.

The group includes Gus Wakefield, Donald Gibbs, Mrs. Alva Law, Mrs. Ethylwyn George, Miss Lucy Bradshaw, Clayton Holden, David Gorton, Miss Lynda Grevatte, Miss Miriam Grevatte, Mrs. Lenice Bacon, Frederick C. Bacon, Luke Goff, Albert N. Walker, and Ralph Bartlett, Jr.

Staging, properties and art work are under the direction of Miss Virginia Gilbert, Ralph C. Emery, E. E. Hayward, Jr., Brooke Gilbert, Howard Hayward, Harry Dexter, Mrs. Helen Walker, Phillip Horne, and Mason Stone, Jr.

PARENTS' MEETINGS IN AUBURNDALE

The Parents' Association of Auburn-dale announce three meetings of study groups on the "Psychology of Children."

These meetings will be in charge of Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott, Field Worker, of the Judge Baker Foundation.

The meetings will be held at 8:00 p. m. at the Burr School, Ash st., Auburn-dale, on the evenings of Nov. 15th, Nov. 22nd, and Dec. 6th. Tickets for the lectures can be purchased at the door.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

POLITICAL CONTESTS

We have always been an adherent to the policy that contests for political office make for better government. It is apparent that there will be contests for all the offices to be filled at the municipal election on December 12th. While the mayoralty contest, of which more will be said later on in the campaign, overshadowed by far the contests for aldermanic and school committee seats these latter contests are of importance. The candidates for these offices, opposing those who are candidates for re-election, are both well-known and little-known. Undoubtedly the winning contestants may in some cases be carried into office by the mayoralty vote along with their own personal popularity in the particular district they represent. It will also make for better government if the voters make it a point to base their vote for these men upon the candidate's ability as they undoubtedly will in the mayoralty contest.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION

The Special Recess Commission of the State Legislature which was assigned the task of framing liquor legislation to be enacted to care for the situation following the anticipated repeal of the 18th Amendment, has made its report. The report, some fifty-six pages in length, apparently has two main objectives in mind. First, to enact a law or set of laws that can be enforced and secondly to enact a law that will wipe out the opportunity for bootlegging and illicit liquor traffic. There are many minor details which will be ironed out at the coming special session of the Legislature. The large majority of Massachusetts residents voiced their disapproval of the "noble experiment" but it should be remembered that included in that majority were many temperance advocates. There is a great and important difference between prohibition and temperance.

A LOSS TO THE COMMUNITY

The recent death of George M. Fiske is a distinct loss to the community. He was the solid type of citizen that helped to make Newton what it is today.

Red Cross Home Hygiene Classes

With the end of summer has come the closing of the Red Cross Home Hygiene classes and with the fall season has come the opening of the First Aid classes and classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick which will be continued by the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross throughout the winter.

Dr. Egon E. Kattwinkel of Auburn is the Chapter adviser in connection with the First Aid work and Mrs. Wilson C. Smilie of Waban is the chairman of the Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick committee. Miss H. Margaret Norcross has charge of the organization and conduct of these classes. The classes given are of the highest standard and are regulation Red Cross courses. A person who completes a First Aid course and receives a certificate will know how to apply simple bandages, treat shock, and give other necessary assistance between the time of an accident and the arrival of the doctor. Many lives have been saved throughout the country by the efforts of people who have had this simple but effective training in First Aid.

A person who completes a Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick course and receives a certificate will know how to make a patient comfortable, count pulse and respiration, read a clinical thermometer, make a sickbed, prepare a poultice, and do many other things about the home and sick-room that will mean comfort for the sick person and better home conditions in trying times.

Last year 4 Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick classes were conducted in different parts of Newton and 8 First Aid classes. Those who participated in the classes were Boy and Girl Scouts, the Red Cross Motor Corps and several groups of young women who applied for the course. In addition, Miss Norcross gave health talks in connection with the Americanization classes.

Information will be given gladly to any interested person if he or she will telephone Newton North 2717, to the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, 12 Austin st., Newtonville.

Police News

Edward W. Prescott of Park street, West Roxbury, was fined $50 in the Newton Court on Wednesday for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested at Oak Hill by Patrolman Smith. In court the same day John Dally of Katherine road, Watertown, was charged with a similar offence. His case was continued until November 10.

Charles Bassett, 20, of 50 Hyde street, Newton Highlands, was in the Newton court on Wednesday charged with disturbing the peace. He pleaded nolo and his case was placed on file. Bassett was arrested at Newton Corner on October by Patrolman Connolly and Loughlin after he had entered the office of a financial company and engaged in a brawl with a young man employed there.

Albert Cardinal and Raymond Jordan of Springfield were found not guilty in the Newton Court on Wednesday of the larceny of $300 from Mrs. Effie Potter of 89 Charles street, Auburndale. Mrs. Potter purchased alleged worthless stock from the two, but since they were first arraigned on the charge they bought the stock back from her and gave her the $300. She also paid another man, known as M. A. Shepard $800 for alleged worthless stock shares. This man has not been apprehended.

NEWTON GIRLS ON DANCE COMMITTEE

Four Newton girls were on the arrangements committee for the fall dance at Coby Junior College, New London, N. H., October 28. They were Miss Jane Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Randolph of Newton Center; Miss Barbara Squier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Squier, also of Newton Center; Miss Ruth Zoller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Zoller of West Newton; and Miss Pearl Merriam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Merriam of Newton Highlands.

THE TEACHER LOOKS AT THE NEW DEAL

In the brief period of time which has elapsed since the introduction of the new marking system, teachers have seen a decided improvement in the effort and attitude of many of the pupils in their classes.

Such a system requires of teachers more intensive child study, effort to arouse genuine interest and great care to hold all to their best efforts. It will admit of no "soft pedagogy."

When the absence of the traditional marking of papers with letters or percentages has taught the pupils of Newton to strive for the joy of working and the gaining of knowledge rather than becoming the best in the class, it will be of the greatest value to both teachers and those being taught.

The following statements are typical of the teachers' reactions to the new system:

"To me it seems a tremendous step forward. Learning for the love of learning is the spirit to be encouraged. Many of the evils of competition such as jealousy, feelings of superiority and inferiority, and cheating, tend now to be eliminated."

"If teachers will concentrate on improving the individual child's knowledge on a given subject, and forget whether or not that knowledge would grade A, B or C, the child will know as much at the end of the year and will have attained his knowledge in a happier atmosphere."

"Teaching is more interesting—one studies personalities and their growth more closely—a child's potentialities are not so frequently overlooked."

"When one does not have to consider the delicate shading between 'B' and 'C' and the consequent effect of the mark on the child, he does not feel so hampered in his efforts to encourage a poor student."

The following quotation from a teacher sums up the situation: "I should like to say that if you have never taught a class for whom you did not have to keep marks, you have never really experienced the pure joy of teaching. If you have never been able to devote the time that you usually use for the recording of marks to the development of new activities, carrying out new inspirations for achievements, and new ways in which you believe that you can help a student overcome his particular difficulties; if, for at least a half year you have never had the joy of entering the classroom with the zest that comes from feeling, 'I'm here to teach—no marks—I have all the time to give myself—to teach them to love this work—to show them how much I love it—to teach them to see its relation to their everyday life—to show them how much I know this, then the real thrill of teaching is still in store for you!'"

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

The excellent conduct which the youth of Newton displayed for some years past in their observance of Halloween unfortunately did not continue last Tuesday night. Hoodlums and vandals were indulged in from 8:03 o'clock on that night until 2:17 Wednesday morning, fourteen false fire alarms were received. A resident of Rangleway Road, West Newton, was assaulted by a gang of young hoodlums when he remonstrated with them for breaking windows in an adjoining house. One of the most contemptible acts "pulled off" on Halloween night was the malicious breaking of milk and tonic bottles on streets to damage tires of passing automobiles. This type of vandalism was apparent on Pearl street where a gang of boys between 12 and 16 years old broke bottles at the intersections of Gardner and Washburn streets and at Jackson road. Any boy who will descend to this kind of "fun" will find real fun in a real fight. He knows that most persons today cannot afford to purchase new automobile tires unnecessarily. Particularly persons who ordinarily drive automobiles along Pearl street. Any reasonable man or woman enjoys seeing boys and girls indulging in good natured fun and harmless pranks. However, those who take advantage of Halloween to indulge in lawlessness and the wilful destruction of other people's property should be properly punished. And the punishment should not consist of a kindly lecture by a probation officer.

Because of the economic depression and unfair competition from automobile busses and trucks the railroads of this country have been "in the red" for some years. Various plans have been and are being considered to relieve their financial distress. One plan proposes to co-ordinate all the railroads of the country into seven huge systems. According to this plan the railroads would show a profit of $500,000,000 yearly instead of a deficit of $250,000,000. Also the plan would cause 300,000 more railroad employees to lose the jobs that most of them have had for twenty and more years. These men would be pensioned on half or two-thirds pay for two years, and during that period an effort would be made to find jobs for them. This last phase of the plan is ridiculous when one knows that for the past three years hundreds of thousands of former railroad employees have been idle and no jobs have been found for them.

The interesting thing about this plan is that it is proposed by a man who is allegedly the wealthiest resident of New England. A man who has lived in regal style most of his long life, maintaining palatial residences and big estates not only in this country but also in France. A man who owns costly private yachts and has lived luxuriously. If this old man lives several years longer he may see, among other radical changes, a more equitable distribution of wealth to correct the economic evils responsible for the present chaos.

Mud slinging and scandal spreading in political campaigns is supposed to be resorted to in communities populated by persons of inferior type. In former years Newton was free from such political activity, but during the past few years these despicable methods have become evident in this city. And in those sections of the city where the residents pride themselves on their social standing and supposed refinement. These nasty tactics are also being used in the present mayoralty campaign. Those with "poison tongues" will realize on election day, if not before, that smearing smut is repugnant to decent people and will lose more votes than it will gain.

The feared menace of speeding traffic on the new Worcester turnpike is proving a reality. Within a week one man was killed and another seriously injured while crossing the turnpike in the Thompsonville district at Newton Centre. Automobile accidents are regularly and frequently occurring on Washington, where speeding is common. More deaths and more accidents must be expected until proper protection is again given to residents of this city. In former years eight motorcycle policemen in this city served to keep speeders and reckless drivers in check. This number was reduced to two, notwithstanding that two additional high speed thoroughfares were built in the city. Both these traffic officers are on duty nights. No motorcycle officer is on duty nights. Apparently, economy is considered more important than human lives and the safety of the public.

Now, that the brilliant foliage has gone from the maple trees, the less striking beauty of the foliage on the oaks is noticed and appreciated. The kindhearted folks who urge the abolition of capital punishment will not want to see the bandit who killed an 82 year old man at Cambridge executed. They would demand that he be given a life sentence in jail. And he would probably be paroled after a few years.

Both Mr. Drake and Mr. Hodgdon, candidates for the office of Mayor, have delivered severe denunciations against Mayor Weeks' administration. And the amusing thing is that both are running for Mayor by running. They will serve to split the anti-Weeks vote.

Guzzi Again Gets Food Contract

Peter Guzzi of River st., West Newton, was awarded the contract to supply food to Newton families during November who are dependent on the Welfare Department of this city. Guzzi was the lowest bidder and received the contract for furnishing the food in September. Last month the Newton Centre Market had the contract. Cashman & Ginsberg of Newton Lower Falls were the lowest bidders for November but Mayor Weeks awarded the contract to Guzzi on the contention that he has better facilities for handling the delivery of food.

MORE SPEEDERS FINED

In the Newton court last Friday Eleanor Aycock of Milton was fined $15 for driving a car 63 miles an hour on the Worcester turnpike. Patrolman Dowling testified she drove past a score of cars in heavy, Sunday traffic. Other speeders fined included Dorothy Dow, Cambridge; Henry Lowery, Wellesley, $10 each; Dorothy Taylor, Worcester; John Lynch, Dorchester; and John Dawson, Roxbury, $5 each. For entering a through way without stopping, Mary Connelly of Brookline and Forrest Patnode of Allston were fined $5 each. Judge Bacon was lenient with Dr. W. C. Seelye of Worcester, who drove at a speed of 55 miles an hour on the turnpike, according to testimony. The judge placed this case on file.

WABAN YOUNG MAN FINED $200

Paul Rycroft, 21, of 19 Crofton road, Waban, was fined $200 in the Newton court yesterday. Of this amount $100 was for driving an uninsured car, $50 for driving an unregistered car and $50 for using number plates issued for another car. The latter fine was suspended. Rycroft told the judge he recently bought the car and used number plates belonging to a relative because he had not time to register his recently acquired automobile.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in the Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 5.

The Golden Text is: "For if by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:17).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Therefore as by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life" (Romans 5:18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Whatever indicates the fall of man or the opposite of God or God's absence, is the Adam-dream, which is neither Mind nor man, for it is not begotten of the Father. . . . The great truth in the Science of being, that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible; for if man is the image, reflection, of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and Godlike" (pp. 282, 290).

CENTRAL CHURCH WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

The Woman's Association of the Newtonville Central Congregational Church met on Wednesday, Nov. 1st. Sewing and surgical dressings occupied the morning, with a sale of Christmas wrapping papers, and an "idea exchange" on the side. Lunch, prepared by Mrs. A. P. Martin's committee, was attractively served by Mrs. F. G. Ingraham's committee.

The guest speakers for the afternoon were Presidents of neighboring Associations and organizations. Mrs. E. P. Talback brought the greetings of the Methodist Association of which she is President. Mrs. Edwin P. Cawte presented the claims and needs of the Community Chest. After Mrs. Wallace Boyden had led a short devotional service, Mrs. Chester M. Grover, Chairman of the Woman's Department of the Massachusetts Conference, told of the state organization, its aims and purpose. Mrs. D. Brewer Eddy, President of the Suffolk District, one of fifteen in the state, explained the work of the District organization. Mrs. George Larcom, President of the West Newton Association, brought greetings from their women. Mrs. Alden H. Clark of Wellesley, Vice-President of the Suffolk District, told of several ways by which associations could raise money. Mrs. A. W. Kirkpatrick, President of the Newton Centre Association, told of the work their women were doing and of their methods. Mrs. Lyman Smith of the Brighton Congregational Church gave an especially interesting account of the growth and work of their society which had its beginnings in 1827.

Mrs. J. Porter Russell of Newton spoke on world peace and the need for every individual to exert every effort in that direction. A short business session was held at which Mrs. Decatur, the President, presided. The following officers were elected for 1934: President, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer; First Vice President, Mrs. Gorham W. Harris; Second Vice President, Mrs. Wallace M. Ross; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Wynn C. Fairfield; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Henry C. Nickerson; Treasurer, Miss Emma A. Miller; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. Fred. H. Daniels; Auditor, Mrs. Kenneth B. Hastings; O. Palmer; First Vice President, Mrs. Winslow; Housekeeping, Mrs. H. E. Doane; Luncheon, Mrs. Robert E. Hills; Publicity, Mrs. John F. Brant; Ways and Means, Mrs. Charles W. Stewart; Work, Mrs. Charles E. Beatty; World Missions, Mrs. J. Mace Address. New Member of Nominating Committee: Mrs. Frank G. Willson.

Apprehension is felt that repeal of prohibition will be followed by an exhibition of bacchanalian madness throughout the country. Were it not for the deplorable consequences of such an event one might chuckle at the "wet" leaders who are among those expressing fear. One would expect them at least to keep silent under the circumstances and not give staunch "drys" an opening for "There, we told you so!"

Without embarking on the dangerous and uncharted sea of prophecy let us look at certain facts. Importation of alcoholic beverages will have to be relied upon since the stock in this country has dwindled and cannot meet the probable demand, if one expects those who indulged before prohibition to return to their favorite brands. The customs duties have tripled in the past thirteen years. The Federal and State Governments will exact additional taxes and there will be nothing low about these. Importers and wholesale and retail dealers will expect and obtain a profit. Pile these indisputable facts together and see how the inevitable high prices harmonize with financial resources of drinkers. Orgies are costly.

It is quite natural that alarms should be felt on both sides as the day of probable appeal approaches. However, it may well be remembered that if the rules of decent behavior offer no restraint to some people lack of funds can make them behave.

With such a powerful detriment in plain view I doubt if we need worry.

Hitting High in English

Flowery language must have had a strong appeal among writers for the theatre more than half-a-century ago, judging from the collection of gorgeous words I find in a copy of "The State, Journal of music and drama," published in New York City in 1869. My long-time friend, "Hal" Daniels (Major Harold C. Daniels, U. S. Marines, to you) found it among his father's souvenirs and made me the grateful possessor. It reveals the lost (Heaven be praised) art of garlanding trite subjects. Let it be a warning to all who seek to attain top-speed in dishing-out English.

As a mild beginning, take this one: "Wallack's Theatre has opened with even a gayer and brighter prestige than it has seen in many a season. The house, on the opening and following nights, has been crowded with all

Oddments

A friend of this column, who shares with us the good things he picks up in the way of swift lines, has this to report: A Newton citizen, whose custom it is to call each morning at the postoffice for his mail, received, as usual, a considerable number of letters. Proceeding to the public desk he opened them. After the last envelope had been slit and its contents duly noted, he sighed, remarking, "Nobody ever sends checks by mail any more, do they?"

Nowadays one may look for private exhibitions of snapshot photographs and occasionally some "movies," made during the Summer vacation. Friends who have a flair for that sort of thing have my deep admiration. There's nothing in the way of an evening's diversion that is more pleasing. If I happened to have been the subject of a picture I naturally have a keener interest in the show. All this has taught me to be prepared for disappointment. More often than not, when I have made bold to inquire, "Where's the one I was in?" the sad reply has been, "Oh, that one of you didn't come out very well so we didn't have it finished."

Paying the Piper

Apprehension is felt that repeal of prohibition will be followed by an exhibition of bacchanalian madness throughout the country. Were it not for the deplorable consequences of such an event one might chuckle at the "wet" leaders who are among those expressing fear. One would expect them at least to keep silent under the circumstances and not give staunch "drys" an opening for "There, we told you so!"

that is brilliant and fashionable in New York social life, and the art of standing on tip-toe has been cultivated to perfection in its corridors."

There are many living who remember Lucille Western, famous actress of her day, but I doubt if the most enthusiastic would dare say more than this: "The faculty of rendering the passions when pitched at their stormiest state of manifestation, is hers beyond dispute. To say that she does it well would be faint praise—she masters it. In this school of acting her place is among the very first, and let those who question the criticism see her in 'Patrie.' With Mr. Fisk at the helm what can fail?"

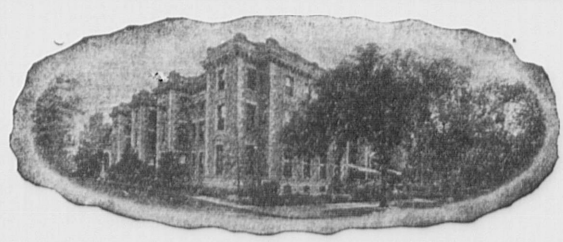

If the above hasn't made you delirious look at this effusion, inspired by the San Francisco Minstrels, the name used by a New York band of blackface performers: "Birch, Wambold, Bernard and Bachus are again home on the scene! Who can weave such a four-leaved shamrock, or scatter such bliss around? Well may it be styled a feast of fun. Laughter may be seen nightly, holding both its sides over the entertainment. A la Salon and the tinkling of West's banjo lulls attentive folks to delight."

Miss Bateman in "Leah," at Booth's Theatre, must have been a knock-out if you can believe this: "The return of Miss Bateman, favorite actress of society as well as of the theatre, in Great Britain and United States is sure to be hailed with unbounded enthusiasm. Her engagement at Booth's magnificent theatre has been the most pleasing dramatic theme at the watering places and elsewhere for more than a month past."

But this tops 'em all. It's about Hermann, the prestidigitator: "Hermann is come! What pleasantness in the sound. A thousand wonders seem to spring up at the touch of his enchanted wand. The diabolism of all the centuries are presented in full dress. Beautiful gardens come and vanish. Dreams of delight take shape and form, and around you seems to gather a world of mystery in which you wander with entranced delight. Everything that is is not, and the senses are, with an exquisite grace and delicacy, played upon and subdued. Go to the Academy and take an enchanted bath!"

Talks on Social Problems Of Day

Prof. David Vaughan, lecturer on sociology at the Boston University School of Theology was the afternoon speaker at the monthly meeting of the Woman's Association of the Newtonville Methodist Church on Wednesday. Speaking on "The Challenge of a New Day," Prof. Vaughan pointed to the many ways in which man's creative imagination has placed him on a higher scale than that of primitive peoples who were more poorly equipped than the beasts of the jungle. Machinery, both the telescope and the microscope, photography, the telephone, and the air and water craft are some of the results of this creative power in human beings.

The speaker stressed the danger of too much suppression of the ego which results in an inferiority complex often covered by an illegitimate try for a place in the limelight. He also spoke strongly for co-educational schools in higher education because students are then at the mating age. He regrets that the largest families are usually the results of marriages where the parents are not on the highest scale socially and biologically.

The world needs reconditioning which is a job for the psychiatrist. Kindness and good will should be his weapons. Unity should be sought.

The women of the Association met at ten o'clock for evening luncheon served by Mrs. Frederic E. Drew and her group. Reports were given by the officers and group chairmen at the Executive Board meeting. Mrs. W. T. Taylor, president of the Woman's Bible Class, reported an average attendance of 53 for October, three new members and 25 calls. Neighborliness will be the keynote of the class for the year. Future activities planned are a marionette show Nov. 23, a dinner Nov. 22, a General Electric Evening Dec. 1 and a Pop concert Dec. 8, also a rummage sale in January.

High School Notes

Samuel Thurber, vice-president of the Harvard Teachers' Association, was elected President of the Newton Men's Educational Association at its annual meeting held at Wellesley Inn, Wednesday, Nov. 1. Mr. Thurber, who is head of the English department at Newton High School, is widely known as a teacher and editor of texts.

Other officers include: vice-president, Carl W. Ray, principal of the Angier School, Waban; secretary-treasurer, Francis J. Foster, of Newton High School; executive committee, Joseph A. Bedard of the Trade School, Hermann A. Poilman of the Weeks Junior High, and Russell V. Burkhardt, principal of the Day Junior High School, retiring president.

Newton's educational practices came in for more than their fair share of burlesque and satire as the men teachers in the Newton school system presented their stunts at the annual fun night following the meeting. "Characterless Education," "No Graders," and "Intelligent Tests" were the specific items at which a barrage of wit and humor was leveled by revelling schoolmen.

The committee of judges, Supt. John Lund, awarded first prize, a large dish pan, presumably to facilitate further panning, to the Trade School group headed by John Fitzsimmons as a red-headed Irishman with a two-mile brogue who burlesqued placement methods in the Trade School, ably abetted by Joe Bedard, Coach John Sullivan, Ed. Boulter, Coach Densmore of the teaching staff.

The high school skit burlesqued "rugged individualism" and "the cooperative nature of the educational process" and resulted in the murder of Walter Taylor by Carl Swan and the arrest of Swan by a uniformed member of the Wellesley police force amid much spontaneous confusion.

Although an attempt was made to bail Swan the pedagogues declined to contribute, feeling, doubtless, that Swan was better off if his development were arrested.

The burlesque of "Character Education" staged by the John W. Weeks group ended in complete mastery of the teacher by the pupils and adjournment to the ball game.

The meeting was largely attended. President Russell V. Burkhardt, principal of the Day Junior High, presiding. Officers were elected for 1933-34. Thomas G. Walters was reappointed to the important insurance committee and given a vote of thanks for his services to the association.

Parents' Night, to enable fathers of boys and girls to interview teachers, will feature American Education Week, Nov. 5-11, at Newton High School. The regular parents' afternoon, largely attended by mothers of pupils, has been shifted to Wednesday evening, Nov. 8, 7:30-9:00, for this purpose. No special program has been prepared, but teachers will be on duty ready to confer with fathers and mothers who can get to the high school at that time.

The longest soccer game in the history of the school was started on Friday afternoon, Oct. 27th, and was finished on the following Monday, Room 204, captained by James Regan, fought valiantly for the victory which was settled in favor of Room 208 after both teams had played eight overtime periods. Coach MacConnell presented the class banner to Robert Muther, the captain of the new Ninth Grade champions, in Room 208 during the homecoming program on Tuesday morning.

Room 316 defeated Room 216 in the final contest for the Eighth Grade Soccer championship on Wednesday, Oct. 25th.

The Day Junior High School Soccer Team journeyed to the Weeks field on Oct. 26th. The result was a tie score in both the varsity match and the Junior Varsity games.

Varsity: Weeks-1; Day-0; Junior Varsity: Weeks-0; Day-0.

Members of the John W. Weeks Soccer Squad are Captain James Regan, H. Isham, C. Lancaster, W. Johnston, P. Robey, E. Thompson, E. Goodall, V. Pignatello, J. Mastropieri, J. Walker, G. Thorne, M. Pignatello, E. Lesser, R. Mather, J. Bishop, A. Thompson, S. Fitchet, A. Martin, E. Cassiani, W. Shepardson, R. Whelan, J. Mandile, L. Boyd, and R. Bishop. Lyman Robinson is the manager and his assistants are Fred Nichols, Walter Powers and Royal Taft.

The Bigelow Junior High Soccer team will play its final game with the Weeks out on the Weeks field, Thursday, Nov. 9th, at 3 o'clock.

Former Mayor Edwin O. Childs will be the speaker during the assembly program of Nov. 8th. His subject will be "Armistice Day."

The Mathematics Club had a time-lay display in the corridor showcase this past week. The exhibit contained a model of the Graf Zeppelin, several model planes, and a plastic map showing the route of Dr. Eckner and his crew from Friedrichshafen to Chicago via South America.

Members of the Weeks Student Body again proved their musical ability in the student-talent assembly program of Nov. 1st. The program opened with the singing of "America" by the entire school.

Other features of the program were: a violin duet by Joseph Albert; Jean Caldwell, with Christine Cameron, accompanist; a harmonica quartet composed of John Gahan, John Thompson, Stephen Taranto, and Stewart Patterson; a piano selection by Martha MacKinnon; a reading by Marjorie Coughlan; an exhibition of baton twirling by Jane Ely and James Dealey; a talk by Phyllis Kaplan; a violin solo by Joy Wingett, accompanied by her mother; a tap dance by Evelyn Endresen; with Sylvia Eaton, accompanist; a trumpet solo by Ada Merriam, and a selection.

"March of 1933" by the school orchestra. Mary Smith was mistress of ceremonies.

Day Jr. High School

Red Cross week was observed at the F. A. Day during the last five days. Students contributed money, glass jars, and services. The jars were to be filled with jelly and sent to the Veterans' Hospital at Christmas time.

A special Red Cross program was prepared and presented over the radio on Friday, October 27th, by the Day Broadcasting Club, under the guidance of Richard Mansfield. Members of the club explained phases of the Red Cross organization and work in this country and in other lands. Winifred Batty delivered the call to arms in an endeavor to persuade every pupil in school to join the Red Cross during the week to follow.

The boys' soccer teams played at the Weeks Junior High on Oct. 26th. Extra periods for both teams failed to break the tie of 1-1 for the Varsity and 0-0 for the Seconds. On Oct. 31st the Junior Varsity defeated Fessenden School by the score of 2-0.

The Day boys' soccer teams both proved victorious in their matches with Warren last week. The Varsity won 2-0 and the Junior Varsity 1-0.

On October 25 Albert Everts and Robert Hunter defeated Ernest Colarullo and Soren Serian 6-1, 6-2 to win the boys' doubles tennis championship.

The band, under the direction of Mr. F. A. Tanner, is working hard in preparation for their first appearance of the year on Nov. 11th. At that time all the junior high school bands, as guests of the senior high, will join with the high school band in playing between the halves of the Newton-Manchester game.

The delightfully amusing play, "Great Caesar," was presented in assembly on Nov. 1st by members of the Ninth Grade. Pupils who filled the principal roles were Francis Ryan, James Jamison, David Clare, Henry Hayes, Marcelle, Renard, Ruth Jean Erret, and Edward Temple.

Parents of F. A. Day pupils are cordially invited to attend an assembly to be held in the school auditorium on Thursday, Nov. 9th, from 7:30-9:00 o'clock. At this time representatives from both faculty and student bodies will present different phases of school life. Music and a play will complete the program.

LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE

At a secret meeting held at six o'clock in the morning, the juniors of Lasell Junior College elected these officers: president, Katharine Peck, West Haven, Conn.; vice president, Barbara King, Meriden, Conn.; secretary, Pauline Philbrick, Newmarket, N. H.; treasurer, Lucy Johnson, Churchland, Va.; song leader, Phyllis Stuart, New Haven, Conn.; cheer leader, Inez Viles, Stratton, Me.

Dr. Leon H. Vincent, lecturer, is giving a pair of lectures at the college this week. Tuesday his subject was "Galsworthy" and tomorrow (Friday), he will speak on "Kipling and the Romance of India." He is on the staff at Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science and a former member of the faculty at University of Chicago and Columbia.

A group of about thirty girls enjoyed the annual Salem-Marblehead trip, visiting points of historic interest in Boston, Marblehead, Salem and Cambridge.

A meeting of the Lasell Junior College student body the following were elected to Student Council offices: vice president, Mabel Crowe, Reading; secretary, Mary J. Selby, Simsbury, Conn.; treasurer, Barbara Blaisdell, Rockland, Me.; day student representative, Dorothy Secord, Newton. The president of the council for this year, Helen Allen, Massena, N. Y., was elected last Spring.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

COMING EVENTS

Newton Centre Woman's Club

The Legislative committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, of which Mrs. William L. Pullen is chairman, will present on Thursday, November 9th, at 10 a. m., as their first speaker, Mr. Abbott Spears, a Boston lawyer, and son of a Club member, who will have a most timely subject, namely, "A Written Constitution in a Changing World." His own intense interest in political science, particularly Constitutional problems, guarantees that his remarks will prove stimulating and thought-provoking. This meeting is open to all. There will be coffee and sandwiches served at the end of the meeting.

The American Home committee has planned many interesting events for the winter. On Tuesday, November 7th, at 8 p. m., there will be a visit to the plant of the General Baking Company, makers of Bond bread, at 62 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown. Refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. Club members who wish to take this trip should register by November 5th with Mrs. Chester C. Rauch, C. N. 2553.

The International Dinner, which is always a most interesting event each year, is to be held by the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Monday evening, November 6th, at the Club House. The committee presenting this affair, headed by Miss M. Louise Walworth as chairman, has arranged an outstanding program on "The International Aspects of the New Deal," with two speakers who need no introduction or explanation as to their attainments and knowledge of public affairs—Professor Anton de Haas, of the International Relations department of Harvard Graduate Business School, and Miss Margaret Weisman, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Consumers' League, and a member of the State Recovery Board.

Tickets for this dinner may be secured at $1.10 each from Mrs. Kenneth Lippincott, C. N. 0919.

Shakespeare Club

Miss Edith M. McCann, of 231 Upland avenue, will entertain the Shakespeare Club at its regular meeting on Saturday, November 4th, at 2:30 o'clock.

The study of "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be continued, and the discussion will be conducted by Mrs. H. E. Durgin, a Charter member of the Club.

Newtonville Woman's Club

"Pomp and Pageantry at the Court of St. James," by Mrs. Hugh D. Butler, is the title of the program to be offered November 7th at 2:30 o'clock, to the Newtonville Woman's Club, by Mrs. George Lowry Davis and her committee. Mrs. Butler, as the wife of a United States Government official in England, learned first-hand many of the customs and traditions of the Court, and after her lecture she will appear in the costume which she wore on the night when she was presented. The music for the afternoon will be provided by Miss Marie Shaden, Contralto, and Mrs. Florence C. Allen, Accompanist.

The Education committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. George A. Edmonds, is now forming book clubs whereby each member buys her own book and has the privilege of reading fourteen others. These groups proved very popular last year and further information may be obtained from Mrs. James D. Elliott, Tel. West Newton 2663.

Aside from the short story lecture class to be conducted by Richard Hill Wilkinson, author of The Boston Herald Daily Short Story, registration is open also for classes in French, German, and Spanish. Application may be made to Mrs. Roger Wheeler, Tel. West Newton 089-J.

The committee for the Bazaar to be held at the Club House on November 15th and 16th is spreading news of the real bargains that will be on sale. There will be articles to attract everybody, also forecasters of the future, and, of course, grubs. Lunches, tea, and dinner each day of the events which are being featured by enthusiastic Club members.

During the first evening, Mrs. Louis J. Steltz, Jr., and her committee will present a novel Style Show, and for the second evening the artists will be a violinist, a tenor, with their accompanists, a reader of plays, and a pianist. The Ways and Means committee, headed by Mrs. George H. Tracy, is in charge of this two-day event.

For the past few years, through the kindly assistance of the friends at the Newton Station, the Christmas Party committee has been able to extend more abundant cheer to the little guests. The men at the station have reconditioned used toys contributed by members and friends of the Club, with most satisfactory and pleasing results. The committee wishes to assemble the toys earlier this year than heretofore, so that there may be ample time for the work to be accomplished, and the paint to dry, and for the toys to be in the hands of those planning the Party before the middle of December. Anyone having toys available for this purpose is urged to leave them at the Fire Station on Washington street, Newton, or to communicate with a member of the Christmas Party committee, or with Mrs. J. Walter Allen, Tel. N. N. 0891-M, who will arrange to call for them.

Donations of children's shoes also will help this committee in its work. By vote of the Executive Board the Party will be solely a gift from the Club to a chosen group of needy children of Newton and no other children will be admitted.

Note: Club members are asked to bring any contributions they may have for the bazaar to next Tuesday's meeting. This will be appreciated greatly by the Bazaar committee, of which Mrs. George H. Tracy is chairman, as it will facilitate collection.

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

Howard B. Gill, superintendent of the State Prison Colony at Norfolk, will speak on "Criminal Reform" at the next regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, on Tuesday, November 7th, 2:30 p. m., in the Congregational Parish House.

The Drama Reading on November 10th, at 2 p. m., in the Workshop, will be in charge of Mrs. Donald Williams. Members of the Club and friends are invited. There will be a basket collection to add to funds.

Dr. Miriam Skirball will give a series of lectures on "Literature" on November 14th and 28th, at 10 a. m., in the Workshop. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Walter B. Godsoe or from any member of the Drama committee.

Auburndale Woman's Club

Music lovers will enjoy a treat on Tuesday afternoon, November 7th, at the Auburndale Woman's Club. Three well-known artists, Mr. Roland Tapley, Mr. Eugene Conley, and Mr. Howard Slayman will appear in a program of violin, piano, and vocal selections.

Mrs. Arthur L. Shaw, chairman of the Day, will present this trio to the Club, sponsored by the Music committee. Assisting Mrs. Shaw in her duties of providing music for club members are Mrs. Charles B. Floyd, vice-chairman; Mrs. Dana Kendall, and Mrs. Elbridge Minard.

The next lecture on Current Events will be given on November 9th. (See Auburndale Woman's Club under Recent Events for full details.)

Social Science Club

The Annual Tea of the Social Science Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Day, Jr., 170 Sargent street, on Wednesday, November 8th, from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Newton Centre Junior Woman's Club

The Newton Centre Juniors will hold a supper and business meeting on Wednesday evening, November 8th, at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Leon Dutch, chairman of the Community Service Committee of the State Federation, will speak briefly on work to be done by Juniors. The girls will also have the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Frank Parmenter give an illustrated talk on a recent trip to Labrador.

Tickets may be secured at 35 cents each by calling Miss Hannah Bond at C. N. 0150-J.

A series of "Labrador" parties has been going on around Newton Centre, under the direction of Martha P. Wright, the admission being clothes for the Grenfell Mission.

Red Cross sewing has also been done the last few weeks by the Juniors, showing their active interest in many good causes.

Newton Community Club

Current Events will be presented to members of the Newton Community Club on Thursday afternoon, the 9th of November, at 2:30 o'clock, in Underwood School hall, by Professor J. Anton de Haas, who needs no introduction since he is so well-known in his capacity of Professor at Harvard University Business Administration School. He comes to the Club by the courtesy of the Newton Trust Company.

Tea will be served during the social hour for the meeting, and members will be glad to know, too, that there will be a Food Sale, which is always such a welcome opportunity to purchase delicious home-cooked food. Mrs. Rollins Jones is chairman of this committee arranging for this Sale.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

On Friday, November 10th, the West Newton Women's Educational Club will have for the speaker of the afternoon Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond who will give a talk on "The Best of New Fiction." Mrs. Bond is a well-known lecturer, and specializes in the presentation of current literature.

State Federation

RADIO. "Multiply Your Interests," "Where Do You Fit in the Game of Life," and "High Lights in the American Home" are the topics which will be presented for the program tomorrow, the 4th of November, during the State Federation half-hour, from 11:15 to 11:45, over Station WBZ. The director who will speak will be Mrs. Edward B. Botsford, of the Ninth district. Music will be furnished by Elsie Biron, Violinist. Of timely interest to garden lovers will be the "Garden Hints" in preparation for the winter and for another season by Mrs. Clyde H. Swan, State chairman of Conservation.

PRESS TALKS. On Monday, the 6th of November, Mrs. Frances Blanchard, Club news Editor of the Boston Sunday Herald, will give her first talk on "Club Publicity" in the series of four arranged for November by the State Press chairman, Mrs. Rowen Gleason, Jr. All interested clubwomen, and especially Press chairman, are invited to attend these Talks which will be given at the new State Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, Boston, at 2 p. m.

Twelfth District

HEALTH CONFERENCE. Dr. Anna C. Palmer, former State chairman of Public Health, and Dr. Louise Leverone, present chairman, are in charge of the Health Institute to be held at the Milton Woman's Club House, November 6th, at 10 a. m. Reports were read and business transacted.

The president stated that Miss E. M. Todd had been appointed treasurer in the place of Mrs. D. M. Lodge, whose resignation takes place January 1st, 1934.

Arrangements were discussed for the management of the usual apportionable by which the Newton Circle aids the Florence Crittenton League at the Annual Bazaar on November 15th and 16th at the Copley Plaza.

Money was voted for the needs presented by Mrs. Celia Wellman, the probation officer. Among these needs was membership in the Y. M. C. A., for boys unable to pay for themselves, whose increased leisure time is spent on the streets.

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock.

RECENT EVENTS

Newton Centre Woman's Club

The American Home committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club had, at the first meeting of the Club, Friday, the 27th of October, a very lovely and interesting display of quilts and spreads, perhaps the oldest being a homespun spread which is 200 years old. There was also a quilt made of homespun wool 150 years old, and a very unique silk quilt made by a ladies' missionary society, which contained pieces of velvet from a mantle of Madame Bonaparte's and material taken from a dress of the mother of Washington.

The many beautiful designs of quilts and spreads showed the wonderful workmanship and skill in needle work of the early days.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

The All-Day meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, held on Friday, October 27th, proved to be very profitable and successful. During the morning, twenty-six warm little overalls, twenty-four night dresses, and seven jackets were made by the members of the Club, and these, with sixteen sweaters and twenty-one pairs of mittens, will be donated to the babies of unfortunate mothers who are inmates of the State Reformatory for Women at Framingham.

The afternoon program began with a concert by Miss Anna and Miss Dorothy Kovitz, from the West Newton Music School. Their piano and violin selections were rendered very beautifully and artistically.

Then Dr. Miriam Van Waters, superintendent of the Reformatory for Women at Framingham, gave a vivid picture of the conditions at that institution, and discussed various problems in connection with it. These women at the Reformatory are very much in need of warm and proper clothing for the winter, and, although some of them are very clever at different forms of handicraft, they can make very little money in this way.

Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach, State Federation chairman of Social Welfare, and chairman of Handicraft at the Reformatory, congratulated Dr. Van Waters on the splendid work which she has accomplished during her first twenty-one months as superintendent. She also exhibited a few of the articles, such as leather bags, lace work, etc., which the women had made, and told how much they need encouragement and help.

This meeting was held under the auspices of the Social Welfare department of the Federation committee of the Club. Mrs. Gilbert R. Jones is chairman of the Federation committee and Mrs. Willard C. Church is in charge of the department of Social Welfare.

Auburndale Woman's Club

"What Is Happening Around The World" was discussed before a group of Club members on Thursday afternoon, by Professor Brewer H. Whitmore, in the first lecture on Current Events presented by the Literature committee of the Auburndale Woman's Club. The chairman, Mrs. J. Arthur Furish, introduced the speaker and stated that she regretted that the use of the Plummer Memorial Library, built by Auburndale contributions, was not available, and that the series of lectures would be held

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock.

Newtonville Woman's Club

The first Play Reading of the Club year for the Newtonville Woman's Club was given in Social Hall of the Club House on Thursday afternoon, October 26th, at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. Percy E. Woodward, chairman, and her talented Drama committee, far exceeded their customary record for an enjoyable afternoon.

An unusually successful dessert bridge—the Annual Scholarship Bridge—was held on Friday, October 27th, in Social Hall of the Club House at 2 o'clock. Each year the Club gives a $200 scholarship to a Newton High School girl.

Mrs. George A. Edmonds, chairman of the Education committee, delegated the management of this special affair to Mrs. George L. Curtis, a large number of members and their invited friends attended, with the fulfillment of the scholarship as their goal. Flowers from Mrs. George A. Edmonds' garden gave a delightful decorative setting for this pleasurable event.

Mr. George

(Formerly with Jordan Marsh Co.)

It really doesn't make any difference what method is used in creating a permanent wave. Whether it is a failure or a success depends solely upon the skill of the operator who creates it. That is why it is so important that you select the right one. GEORGE is not only a genius but an international celebrity, gifted as well as trained in the hairdresser's art. His beautifully moulded permanent waves; artistic coiffures and individual haircuts show how well he has mastered every little trick that will turn a little Miss Nobody into a very important and smartly groomed Somebody. And he has imparted all this knowledge to his staff of personally trained experts whose work he closely supervises. Why pay higher prices elsewhere? Permanent waves $8.00 and $10.00; Hair trim, shampoo and artistic finger waves $1.50 up. Note the address! GEORGE'S BEAUTY SALON, 59 Temple Pl., 10th floor. DEV. 6767.

Aldermen Grant Filling Station On Turnpike

At Corner of Langley Road in Thompsonville

The regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night was scheduled to start at 7:45; it commenced at 8:19. All of the members were present except Alderman Farrell. Hearings were announced on petitions of Ada Yandell to store 350 gallons of gasoline at 100 Pine Ridge Road, Waban, and Coleman Brothers to store 1000 gallons of gasoline on Hammond Pond Parkway, near Boylston street. No opposition appeared against these petitions.

There was no opposition also against petitions of the Edison Company for permission to remove poles and wires on certain streets and replace them by wires in underground conduits. Accordingly the Aldermen granted the permits asked. The locations where these changes will be made are—Beacon street between Collins road and Woodward street; Windsor Road between Beacon street and Kimmouth Road; Highland street between Washington and Margin streets.

The Board voted to widen Dedham street at Brush Hill Road, Oak Hill, and to place a drain in Woodchester Drive at Waban Hill. A license for a second-class taxi was granted to James Ewing, 27 Cummings road. Alderman Holden inquired as to the granting of such a license in a residence zone. Alderman Hawkins replied that Ewing had given an address in a business zone, but Hawkins did not state where this address is.

At 8:32 the Board took a recess which lasted until 9:47. When the meeting was resumed it was announced that the petition of the R. H. White Company for a permit to erect a business building in a single residence zone on Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, was held in committee. The License Committee reported that it had approved the petition of Antonio Signore for a gasoline station at 364 Boylston street, Newton Centre, opposite Langley Road. Alderman McKay said he has spoken several times in favor of limiting the number of gasoline stations in the city, and if foresight had been exercised in past years there would not be such a large number of stations as now dot the city. He said he has also spoken against allowing the new turnpike to be converted into a business thoroughfare. But, as the locus in question is in a business zone, and the proposed station would be the first between the Brookline and Wellesley line on the south side of the turnpike, he favors it.

The trustees of the Cousens Fund were authorized to sell $33,000 of the City of Newton bonds and use the money obtained for real estate loans. They were also authorized to make two loans. Alderman Temperley asked that the amounts of these loans be made known to the Board. After President Collins had replied that it has not been the practice to announce the amount of the loans, City Clerk Grant stated that one loan is for $700 and the other for $4400.

Young Girl Dies; Was Hit By Car On Turnpike

Geraldine Carroll Died At Hospital Tuesday

Geraldine Carroll, 13-year-old daughter of Thomas and Anna Carroll of 742 Boylston st., Newton Centre, died at the Newton Hospital on Tuesday night of injuries received at 5:50 p. m. on Nov. 2, when she was hit by a car driven by Henri Prunaret of 90 Withington rd., Newtonville. The girl was riding a bicycle when the accident occurred at Boylston st. near Woodcliff rd. After the accident the girl was taken to the Newton Hospital.

The child's funeral will be held tomorrow morning from her late home. The service will be at Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre. She was the third victim of a fatal automobile accident on the new turnpike in Newton during the past few months.

City To Pay For Auto Accidents

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night it was voted to accept Section 4, Chapter 458 of the Acts of the 1931 Legislature. This act authorizes cities and towns to reimburse employees who are found liable for damages in automobile accidents when they are driving cars or trucks owned by the city in the performance of their duties. Alderman Grebenstein of the Claims Committee, favoring the acceptance of this law by Newton said there have been many claims against the city in past years for accidents in which city employees and city owned automobiles were involved. The city did not pay these claims because it was not legally liable, but perhaps, justly the drivers were liable and those making the claims should have been reimbursed. He commented that by accepting the act, this matter will be straightened out in the future.

Honor Mrs. Soden On 89th Birthday

Amid a setting of roses and palms it was a delightful occasion on Tuesday evening when about 200 members of the congregation of the Newtonville M. E. Church gave a reception for Mrs. Mary E. Soden of 5 Park place in honor of her 89th birthday.

In the receiving line were Rev. Laurence W. C. Emig, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Emig, Mrs. Soden and her 3 granddaughters, Mrs. Philip F. Colman, of Phila., Mrs. Albert E. Rust Jr., of Newton Highlands and Mr. Carl W. Corliss of Waban and a niece Miss Edith Simpson who lives with her aunt Mrs. Soden. Mrs. Soden, who was crowned in black velvet and wore a corsage of purple orchids, received her guests in a cordial and serene manner so characteristic of her. Four of her great granddaughters were present.

Dr. Emig presented greetings to guests of honor from the church which she, with her husband, the late A. H. Soden, joined in May 3, 1868.

Greetings from the official board were given by Geo. W. Taylor who remarked on the spirit of youth always with Mrs. Soden. Speaking for the women of the Church Mrs. Ernest T. Rallsback, president of the women's association, told of the wonderful work done by Mrs. Soden as a teacher in the Sunday School and as president of the Missionary Society.

A basket of roses 89 in number from the various organizations of the church was presented by Prof. W. J. Lowmutter, teacher of the Women's Bible Class. The key note of Mrs. Soden's response was her great love for her church. The only one left of the early members enhances the memory of the cordiality from herself and her husband when they came into the church. By request she read a poem which she wrote on her 85th birthday. Following the reception the guests gathered at small tables in the assembly hall for refreshments.

Two Boy Burglars Captured At Newton Corner

Caught After They Had Made Six Breaks

Two Watertown boys, one 13 years old, and the other 14, were caught last Sunday night by Patrolmen Barr and Halloran as they were trying to break into the Blakeley pool room on the second floor of the Nonantum Building at Newton Corner. The boys admitted having made six breaks and four attempted breaks at Newton Corner on that night and a couple of preceding nights. Among the places burglarized were Josselyn's Stationery Store on Washington st., A. & P. market at 394 Centre st., Hammond Dress Shop, 390 Centre st., El Ray Beauty Shop, Centre ave., Jim's Shoe Repair Shop, 254 Washington st.; Jewett's auto repair shop, rear of 250 Washington st.; Oth chain stores at 240 and 249 Washington st. and the undertaking shop of Burt Rich on Centre ave.

From Josselyn's watches and cigarettes, as well as money were stolen. The pair effected entrance to the A. & P. market by lowering themselves from a skylight by means of a rope. They will be tried in the Newton Court today. One of them is on parole from the Lyman School.

Stearns School Centre Active

The activities at the Stearns School Centre a member agency of the Newton Community Chest are now in full swing. The nineteen clubs and classes of women, girls and boys are regularly and eagerly attended.

Three groups of boys meet for games, handicraft and hiking. Mr. Myron Hertel has been taking about ten boys to interesting buildings and manufacturing plants each week.

Miss Eleanor Gassett and Miss Catherine Stout from the Wheelock School are assisting with a class of little girls. Miss Phyllis Hanchett, a student at the Lesley School has volunteered to teach a cooking class. Two Sewing Clubs have Mrs. Jane Donaldson for their leader while Mrs. Max Colligan teaches a cooking class and a sewing class. Miss Filomena Schipani of the Boston Trade School for Girls also teaches sewing. The Senior Girls' have planned a very active program, including bowling, tap dancing, dramatics. Last week they enjoyed a very spooky Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Fredrick White, their leader. Mrs. George Arranssen entertained the Aurora Club at her home on Halloween night.

Other Clubs include Brownies, Rainbow Clubs and two groups of girls, most of whom belong to the opportunity classes in some of the Newton Schools.

Mrs. Paul Ellicker comes about once a month for story telling.

The Mothers' Club entertained the members of the Wenocome Club of the West Newton Community Centre at a Halloween party last week and the members are now busy planning a Harvest Supper to take place the 20th of this month.

Tracy Not To Run For School Comm.

Smith and Blakeney to Run for Aldermen

George H. Tracy, chairman of the Newton School Committee and a member of that committee for the past nine years has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election. It has been known for the past year that Mr. Tracy has been considering retiring from the School Committee. There are two candidates for the office he has occupied—Nelson H. Vanderhoof of Dexter rd., Newtonville and Harry E. Bryant of Prescott st., Newtonville.

John M. Walker of Langley rd., Newton Centre states that he intends to be a candidate for the office of Ward Alderman from Ward 6 and that rumors of his withdrawal are unfounded.

Silvanus Smith of 239 Woodland rd., Auburndale, has announced that he will be a candidate for Ward Alderman from Ward 4. When it was understood that John Gordon would not run again for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 4, Mr. Smith was planning to be a candidate to succeed Gordon. But, when the latter changed his mind and decided to seek another term, Mr. Smith did not file nomination papers for that office. He will be a contestant against Dennis M. Cronin for the office of Ward Alderman.

John W. Blakeney of 5 Washburn st., Newton has taken out nomination papers for the office of Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1. He will run against Albert D. Howlett of Newtonville ave., who seeks re-election. James P. Atkins who intended to be a candidate, will not run. Mr. Blakeney is a lawyer and a veteran of the World War.

G.A.R. Vet Observes Ninetieth Birthday

On Monday, October 30th, at 161 Allerton rd., Newton Highlands, Comrade Leonard Boyd of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., received his friends in honor of his ninetieth birthday. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, the gifts of various friends and organizations, and in the afternoon, four of his Comrades of the G. A. R., averaging from 87 to 94 years, were present and presented a flag and staff for Comrade Boyd's lawn. A billfold from Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent 2, D. of U. V. C. W. furnished an entertainment and refreshments to the comrades.

Wants Trucks Off Washington St.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night a communication was received from Mayor Weeks requesting the Board to see whether or not restrictions should be placed on trucking on Washington st., between Newton Corner and the Brighton line. The Mayor stated that he made this request at the instigation of P. J. Craffey of 1486 Dorchester ave., Dorchester.

Chief Hughes Asks For Speed Limit On Turnpike

Several Fatal Accidents Cause Him to Take Action

Because of several fatal automobile accidents on the new Worcester turnpike in Newton, Chief of Police Hughes has asked the State Department of Public Works to establish a speed limit of 35 miles through the Newtons, and that warning signs be installed at either end of the pike in Newton. Newton police have been bringing autoists into the Newton court who exceed 40 miles per hour past certain street intersections, and Judge Bacon has been fining such drivers. Residents at Thompsonville, a congested section, are wrought up over conditions. One man was killed there and another badly injured within a few days. A woman resident there had to wait 45 minutes before she could cross the pike.

On the night that the Newton Board of Aldermen voted to cede to the State rights enabling the taking of Boylston st. for the pike construction, Alderman Temperley brought up the matter of traffic control over this thoroughfare. He was informed that the city would continue to have control over the traffic within the municipal limits.

With fatal accidents occurring on the pike, and serious automobile accidents constantly occurring on Washington st., Commonwealth ave. and other streets, the depletion of Newton's motorcycle squad from 8 officers to 2, continues in evidence.

Grand Army Post Elects Officers

Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., held their regular monthly meeting on Saturday, November 4th, and elected officers for the coming year as follows: William D. Mick, Commander; Joseph Rossiter, Senior Vice Commander; William Ayles, Junior Vice Commander; Leonard Boyd, Chaplain; Otis Gray, Officer of the Day.

After the regular meeting, a very enjoyable hour was spent by the Comrades in observing the birthday of Comrade Curtis Abbott, 93 years and Leonard Boyd, 90 years.

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent 2, D. of U. V. C. W. furnished an entertainment and refreshments to the comrades.

Exam for Liquor Inspector Nov. 25

A civil service examination will be held on Nov. 25 for the position of Alcoholic Inspector. Those appointed to position under this designation will work in connection with the control of liquor traffic in Massachusetts. It is expected that an inspector will be appointed from among residents of Newton. Applications must be in on or before Nov. 15 and information may be obtained from Andrew Prior at Newton City Hall. The starting salary for the position is $1760.

Newton Community Chest Drive Nears $100,000 Mark

Meeting Tonight Expected to Show Large Increase

The first reports brought in by workers in the Community Chest campaign up to Monday evening showed a total of $81,000 subscribed toward the $213,000 goal. Additional subscriptions received since then have not yet been sufficiently tabulated in the Treasurer's office but a substantial amount has been added to the above figure.

The second meeting of workers will be held tonight in the auditorium of the Newton High School. At Monday's meeting Leon B. Rogers, President of the Chest, and Mrs. Ellis Spear, Jr. spoke to the workers and urged them to go forward with the campaign with renewed courage and confidence.

On the basis of returns which have already been tabulated, West Newton is now in the lead, with a total of more than $25,000 secured toward a village goal of $42,500. The second best report was made by the Waban committee who turned in nearly $7,000 out of a total objective of $15,000. Clifford H. Walker, chairman of the Waban committee, stated that not quite half of the territory had been covered by solicitors and that Waban anticipated going over the top when complete returns were in.

"We need $132,000 more," it was stated in a bulletin mailed on Tuesday to all of the more than 1,000 workers participating in the drive, "and we can get it. We can reach the goal by making it our responsibility to show the people of Newton that it is their responsibility to give every cent they can to look after the sick, the poor, the unemployed, and the younger generation. Let us, therefore, make the extra effort to convince the people of Newton that the object of their gifts is worthy of genuine sacrifice. Let us exert ourselves to the utmost. We cannot do more and we will not do less."

Whereas 10,000 contributions to the Chest were made last year, it is hoped that this year the total number of subscriptions will reach 12,000. The campaign committee is calling particular attention to the fact that payments on pledges may be made over a period of one year, and all who can give are being urged to distribute their donations over the twelve months' period beginning November 1st last. It is also pointed out that inasmuch as no separate committees have been organized this year to secure the gifts of industrial and business organizations and contributions of city employees, everyone wishing to contribute should, if possible, sign the pledge card presented to the solicitor who calls upon him and not wait to refer the matter to another committee.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON FACES NEW HAMPSHIRE ELEVEN WITH NEW CONFIDENCE

Playing its first intra-state game in the memory of many followers of Newton high school football the orange and black eleven faces the strong Manchester high team tomorrow afternoon at the Dickinson Stadium, Newtonville, with new confidence. The Granite state eleven is always represented by a strong outfit and up to two weeks ago seemed as strong as any eleven in Massachusetts. But considerable has happened in the past two Saturdays with Malden high upsetting the Manchester outfit 18 to 6 and Everett winning a 7 to 0 contest to prove that the McDonough coached outfit was not unbeatable.

Newton, however, cannot be rated on a par with either Malden or Everett, but has come along fast in the past two weeks with its victory over Quincy and Rindge Tech. It will give quarter to no eleven in its remaining games. Whereas the Manchester offense has stalled in the past two games the Newton offense has been steadily improving. The Newton defense has been of high grade all season with the exception of the tackle positions, which have been the subject of plenty of work for line-coach Charlie Conside. A noticeable improvement has been shown in the past two games and the frontier should be pretty solid from now on. While Newton will be striving for its third straight victory and to keep the season's record above a five hundred average, the visiting eleven will be doing its utmost to avert a third straight defeat at the hands of a Massachusetts eleven.

The Manchester eleven will probably line up with Kalariotis and Neidwick at the ends, Clayton and Pardon at the tackles, Hoffman and Zitrides at the guard positions and Kaleviano, centre. In the backfield the starters will probably be Paschall, Neidwick, Jenkins and Dubisz, halfbacks, and Jones fullback. Neidwick is a star at end and Dubisz is a flashy halfback who is a dangerous carrier when loose.

Coach Sanborn has not definitely settled upon his starting lineup as several of the Newton linemen received minor injuries from which they have not yet recovered by game time tomorrow, with Hallett and Roehrig the only two definite casualties. The latter is out with a charley-horse and the former with a sore shoulder. Captain Charley Thompson, a tower of strength in the centre of the Newton line, will be at his usual pivot position with Sam Miller and Joyce the starting guards. Swig and Herb Smith will be the tackles, with the latter playing his final game, as he will become scholastically ineligible. Smith is the only player to be lost by ineligibility due to the marks which were issued this week and are effective next Monday.

Howe and Bryne will be at the end positions. The success of the unit backfield plan which Coach Sanborn tried against Rindge prompts the Newton mentor to continue its operation. Flags, Mascia, Frazier and Hallett will be the starting quarter back, Rindge, with Hallett filling in for the injured "Red" McCarthy. It is expected that the sorrel-topped Newton athlete will be ready to play tomorrow but if not, the injured Hallett's place will be taken by either Savignaro or Moore. The pony backfield of Feola, Miller, Paul Treani and Sandy Sloane will welcome the call to go in and put over the same punch which they did to win the game at Rindge.

With the new marking period beginning on Monday three promising lads who have been ineligible, will be available. Two of these youths are husky tackles, while the third is a backfield player. Galen Clevenger, six-foot, two-inch, 214-lb youngster, and Allan Wilson, another 200-pounder, are the pair of tackles who should bolster the Newton line considerably. Harry Taft is the back, and if he is as clever at running on the football field as his illustrious namesake was in politics, he should go a long way. All three of these youths will be back in school another year and their presence in the last two games will enable Coach Sanborn to get a good start on his 1934 eleven.

VICTORY OVER RINDGE ASSURES HOLD ON TITLE

The Newton high football eleven, defending champions of the Suburban league title, are assured of a hold on the 1934 banner through the 6 to 0 victory over the Rindge Tech eleven last Saturday at Cambridge. "Babe" Feola's 16-yard jaunt off tackle in the second period of a nip-and-tuck struggle provided the orange and black with the winning margin. With the Thanksgiving Day contest between Newton and Brookline the only remaining league game of the season, both Cambridge Latin and Brookline are definitely out of the running, each having lost two games. Cambridge has completed its three league contests and takes no further part in the league race. Rindge is also an idle contender, having completed its three games with two victories and one defeat. Thus, Newton, with victories in both of its league games to date needs nothing better than a tie to insure itself of taking the league honors for the second successive year. A defeat by Brookline would leave Newton and Rindge tied for the title. Brookline, Newton's closest rival, will make every effort to upset the championship aspirations of Coach Sanborn's eleven, while the Newton outfit is already anticipating the sweetest of a victory in its final game which will add to the enjoyment of a Turkey Day dinner.

Getting back to last Saturday's game—it was one brilliant surge that carried the orange and black to victory. A strong wind blew throughout the game and Rindge had kept Newton on the defensive throughout the first quarter by using a kicking game with the wind at their back. Changing goals at the first of the second period and putting the wind at Newton's back the tide changed. Although it took most of the period to work into striking distance, once in such position the Newton attack functioned. With less than three minutes of the first half remaining Rindge was forced to kick into the teeth of the wind, after taking the ball on downs on their own 15-yard stripe. Maloney's kick was short and it was Newton's ball on the Rindge 26-yard line.

Coach Sanborn had started a backfield of Flag, Frazier, Mascia and Hallett and this quartet carried the burden of the battle against both the Rindge team and the strong wind. In the second period the Newton coach replaced his backfield quartet with Sloane, Feola, and Treani, with Louis Miller taking Charley Flag's place after another play or two. Driving Rindge back, Newton seized upon the opportunity when it came on the short kick. Sloane started the offense with an eight-yard gain on a lateral from Treani to the interior line, and a first down on the 16-yard line with a plunge through centre. Feola then took the ball on a tackle play. Spotting a hole to his right Feola shifted and shot through the line. As he was about to be tackled he reversed his field, spinning to his left, and picking up yards in the interior line. The goal line untouched. Sam Miller, Newton guard, erased the Rindge safety man, quarterback Maloney, with a perfect bit of blocking. Sloane's drop-kick attempt for the point after was low and wide of the mark.

With the wind again at its back, in the third period Rindge gave it all it had to knot the score, but in vain. Early in the period Newton gained on a 15-yard penalty against Rindge for rushing the Newton kicker and an ensuing Newton kick put Rindge back in the shadow of its goal. Here Jimmy Byrne rushed in to block a Rindge kick and the ball for Newton on the Rindge 10-yard stripe. The Newton starting backfield was again in the line-up, but failing to gain by the ground route, took to the air. Flag's pass was not true and it was just out of Jimmy Byrne's reach, landing in the end zone and giving Rindge the ball on the 30-yard mark.

Maloney then got off a beautiful kick which, aided by the wind, sailed over the Newton safety man's head and bounced outside at the Newton 10-yard stripe. Newton punted immediately into the teeth of the wind and Rindge was on the defensive in Newton territory on the 35-yard line. Two plays at the line netted five yards and the Rindge threat was averted when a pass by Donald was batted by Captain Charley Thompson of Newton into the arms of Paul Treani who was downed as he fought his way back to the line. The scoring game. A Rindge penalty for roughing the kicker enabled Newton to get into Rindge territory before the ball was lost. The game then lapsed into a punting duel until the closing minutes of the game. Feola intercepted a Rindge pass on the 29-yard line and failed to gain materially before the game ended.

Smith's soccer team. Helen Allen is a member of the International Relation Club. Ann Arnold is on the Press Board.

Warren Dillaway was elected to the glee club at Boston University. In the annual elections at the College of Liberal Arts at Boston University Dorothy Hunter and Elinor Wilson were elected president and secretary, respectively. Tom Mariner is vice president of the junior class.
Mary Stephen and Louise Bloomfield are on the soccer team; Ruth Sampson is on the hockey team at Mt. Holyoke.

Tom Kinrade, besides placing in the discus, was elected to the student government committee at Tech.
Richard Wit is on the undefeated debating team at Boston University.

WALTHAM MAN HURT AT AUBURNDALE
Fred Crowe of 49 Stearns street, Waltham received a gash on his head when the car he was driving skidded on Commonwealth avenue opposite Norumbega Park on Monday morning at 7. The car ran into a tree. Crowe was treated by a physician.

Troop 4A Wins Council Rally

The Norumbega Council Rally was run off as finals of the four District rallies, in Cabot Woods on Saturday last at 3:30 p. m. The first event, flag-pole lashing, was won by Troop 4B, with Troop 5 second. Knife and axe, with chestnut logs to cut in two and maple wedges (which some of the Scouts declared were wrought iron) to whittle was won by Troop 5 with Troop 3, NAA, second and Troop 4B third. Scouts' Pace was won by Troop 11; second, Troop 4A and third, Troop 18.

Fire by flint and steel was won by Troop 4A, with an average time of 7.7 seconds per Scout for getting fire. Troop 5 was second and Troop 4B, third.

Knottting was won by Troop 4A; Troop 3, second and Troop 5, third. The final score was Troop 4A, High-lands, 13 points; Troop 5 Centre, 12 points; Troop 4B, High-lands, 7 points; Troop 3, Nonantum A. A., 6 points; Troop 11, Newton, 5 points.

Scoutmasters' Meetings
Firm and lasting friendships are promoted and fostered among both men and boys in Scouting; the bond is strong when men have worked and camped together and have talked over mutual problems together. In order to make that bond even stronger, as well as for mutual help, a program of having the Scoutmasters of the Council meet by Districts at the home of the Scout Executive was inaugurated this fall. To date there have been three such meetings and they have been most helpful. The men discuss Scout advancement, Troop programming, individual Troop problems and plans for future participation in general Council activities.

Camping at Nobscot
Camping at Nobscot has started up in full force at the Nobscot Reservation this fall. So far this year, there has been an average of 277 Scout-nights per month as against 275 for 1932.

Fire lane sections around the Reservation have been reassigned this fall and Troops are cutting second growth and larger timber on the various sections, to reduce the fire hazard.

Troop 3 has been hard at work on its new site, digging into the hillside and leveling off a foundation for their new cabin, which will replace the one burned last fall. Plans for the new cabin of this Troop, which is sponsored by the N. A. A. in Nonantum, were decided upon as the result of an inter-Patrol competition in cabin plans.

Every Sunday morning, a Scouts' Own Service is held at the Legion Cabin at 8:30 o'clock with the Rover Scouts in charge.

Last month Scouts placed about 1,000 posters for the Newton Community Chest on October 21st; the following Saturday, the 28th, they distributed about 9,000 folders for the same organization. This month several Troops are planning baskets to give to families on the welfare list.

New Scouters
Troop 7C, West Newton, has District Commissioner Maxwell P. Gaddis as acting Scoutmaster. Troop 9, Waban, has Mr. Leslie St. Lawrence as Scoutmaster; Mr. Richard Lee is acting as Scoutmaster of Troop 11, Newton. Mr. George Graf has been appointed Scoutmaster of Troop 14, Newton Upper Falls by the Troop Committee of that Troop. Troop 15, Auburndale, now has Mr. Lyman Hutchins as Scoutmaster, succeeding Mr. Arthur L. Shaw. Mr. E. Graham Bates resigned as Chairman of 15's Troop Committee and Mr. Basil Babcock was elected to the job. Mr. A. L. Shaw was elected a member of the Troop Committee. Troop 19, Centre, at the Congregational Church, has a new Scoutmaster, appointed by the Troop Committee, Mr. Harold L. Carver. Mr. Carver has a long background in Scouting, with a great tradition; his father started the Troop now operated by "Uncle Frank" Lichtenthaler, 4A, Newton Highlands.

Troop 20, Trinity Church, Centre, has a new Scoutmaster elected by the Troop Committee, Mr. James Mariner, who grew up in Scouting in Troop 5 and is now a Five-Year Veteran.

Troop 21, Sacred Heart Church, has Mr. Joseph Murphy, who started with the Troop as Senior Patrol Leader, as Acting Scoutmaster. Troop 22, Grace Church, Newton Corner, has Mr. Robert Irwin, son of Mr. James C. Irwin, Honorary Commissioner of the Council, as Scoutmaster. Troop 22 held a show on Tuesday night last for the benefit of the Troop Treasury. About 100 people were present.

Cub Division
The younger boys' program of the Boy Scouts of America, the Cub, is growing steadily. Today there are five Packs with 105 registered Cubs. The latest addition to the family is Pack 2, connected with the Centenary Church in Auburndale. Mr. West is Chairman of the Pack Committee and Mr. Sawyer the Cubmaster. The Cub Pack there will be tied in with the Troop, No. 2, of which Mr. E. C. Hillard is the veteran Scoutmaster, having had nearly eighteen consecutive years of service with that troop.

Mr. Lord is the new Cubmaster of Pack 19, connected with the Newton Centre Congregational Church and tied in with Troop 19 there.

Packs are in prospect in connection with Troop 3, at the Nonantum Athletic Association; Troop 15, Auburndale, and in several other places.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

Miss Cora Cobb from Cambridge was the speaker at the regular assembly of the Bigelow Junior High School on Friday, November 3. The subject of her address was Archimedes. The assembly on Friday, November 10, under the direction of Mr. Guy S. Baker and Mr. Alvah O. Ring took the form of an Armistice Day Program. The program included: "Proclamation" read by John Barry, the Flag Salute, the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," a recitation entitled "The Burial of the Unknown Soldier," and an address by the Rev. Joseph C. MacDonald. Rev. MacDonald, pastor of the Union Church in Waban, comes as a representative of the American Legion. Pupils taking part in "The Burial of the Unknown Soldier": Introduction, Walter Carley; British Tommy, Joseph Campbell; French Poilu, Leonard Le Sourd; American Doughboy, John Ryan. The assembly was concluded by the singing of war songs and "America the Beautiful."

The Bigelow Junior High School Varsity soccer team met its second defeat of the season when it met the team of the Frank A. Day Junior High School. The score was 3-1 in favor of the Day Junior High School. The Bigelow Varsity squad captained by Joseph Campbell is as follows: Stanley Gruber, Anthony Borghetti, John Barry, Ernest Sullivan, Allan Turner, Edward Cook, Charles Munson, Ralph Pauto, Thomas Fleming, Fred Crane, Leonard LeSourd, Walter Carley, Albert DeLorenzo, Charles Featherstone, John Ryan.

In an intramural contest between two divisions of the seventh grade Group 9 defeated Group 10 to the tune of 4-0. The two teams had Frank Callahan and Gerard Callahan as their respective captains.

Weeks Junior H. S.

Former Mayor Edwin O. Childs was the speaker at the Assembly on Wednesday morning, November 8. He told of the first Armistice Day, and of the great rejoicing that the "war to end wars" had ceased. He traced through the four great wars in which America has engaged, and told of the part that heroic young men had played in an old man's game of destruction. Mr. Childs mentioned that Armistice Day this year comes at the end of educational week. This fact should be significant, for through education we depend upon our junior citizens who will be adult citizens in a few years. In conclusion he stated: "If our junior citizens measure up to their opportunities, we need not worry about the future of our country, and if other countries do the same we need not worry about the need for future Armistice Days. America through her future citizens, must lead the way."

Mr. Childs was introduced by Hugh Tomb, Captain of the Student Patrol. Hugh led the audience in the Twenty-third Psalm, the Lord's Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. Mr. Russell Viles, Senior Vice Commander of the American Legion, Newton Post 48, accompanied the speaker on the stage. The Parent's Day for November was observed Tuesday afternoon, the seventh. By far the largest number of Week's parents to ever attend one of these informal visits to school, was on hand. Approximately twenty parents were received in each of the twenty-six home rooms.

White Discusses Water Situation

In an address to women voters of Newton Centre on Wednesday afternoon Thomas W. White, candidate for Mayor of Newton, discussed the condition of the Newton water supply. He characterized the recent reduction in water rates as a gesture and promised to take immediate care of the water situation.

His remarks were as follows:

"The people of this city are entitled to facts. I was born in Newton and have lived in Newton 57 years. I still have the comfort of a wonderful mother who is 82 years young for which I am grateful. I married my good wife 30 years ago and am still living happily with her. The private life of any man belongs to himself and to his family. His public life should be an open book for all the people. When you hear any campaign propaganda and innuendoes of doubtful character in this contest, forget them. There are plenty of real issues.

"One of the outstanding political reforms of the present period for the good of the people was the adoption of the Australian or secret ballot. You still retain that privilege, and all the specious promises, all the coercion and all the misinformation that may be thrust upon you does not alter the fact that upon December 12, when you enter the voting booth, you still have the privilege of casting your ballot as your conscience dictates.

"It is my purpose to discuss the condition of the water supply of the city of Newton based upon facts. Under date of October 11, 1933, after analyzing samples of Newton water, the State Department of Public Health advised the Water Commissioner of Newton that:

"The water collected from the distributing system after chlorination, while generally free from bacteria characteristic of pollution, contained certain microscopical organisms of the Fungi group and had a disagreeable taste, while tests made for the presence of chlorine in the water showed that the water collected from some of the taps contained a rather high residual chlorine."

"Under date of March 18, 1932, this Department advised the Water Commissioner of the City of Newton that 'it was inadvisable to discontinue chlorination of the water supply of the city so long as the collecting works were exposed to pollution from infiltration of water from the Charles River.'

"Under date of May 12, 1933, the department recommended to the Board of Health of the City of Newton that 'if it was not practicable to install pumping machinery on the Needham side of the river, the gravity conduit under the river be enclosed in a water-tight pipe gallery in a manner which would permit careful inspection at all times. The Department also advised that, pending the carrying out of these recommendations, it was of course important that all water supplied from the water works pumping station be adequately chlorinated. A copy of that communication was sent to the Water Commissioner of the City of Newton under date of May 15, 1933.'

"This is not hearsay. These are facts. The present administration has seen fit to do nothing about this except very recently to grant an 11 per cent reduction in the charge for water, reducing the cost from 22½ cents to 20 cents per 100 cubic feet. The main point of the issue is lost. The price of the water has been high and should have been reduced before. Reducing the price, however, does not improve the kind of water that is necessary for drinking purposes and domestic use and until the State Board of Health is satisfied, conditions will not be proper.

"You will note that the reduction in rate is largely a gesture. The basic charge of nine dollars per year remains the same upon the mass of the people—the home owners and the rent payers to whom there will be no relief. The only ones benefited are the comparatively few large users of water who can best afford to pay."

"I promise to take immediate care of the water question early in my administration. In the near future, I hope to be able to give the people of the City of Newton the amount of money which has been spent upon the water supply system recently. Despite these expenditures, a fundamental of city welfare—a perfect water supply—has been neglected."

DISTRICT NURSING ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association will be held on November 15th, at 2:30 o'clock in the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville. Dr. Wilson G. Smilie and Miss Charlotte Raymond will be the speakers. Tea will be served following the meeting.

Dr. Smilie of the Harvard School of Public Health will speak on the subject of "An Adequate Public Health Program for the Community." Miss Raymond, who is the Nutritionist of the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross, will speak on "Recent Developments in Nutrition Service in Newton and Hopes for the Future."

ALL SOULS LEND A HAND BRIDGE AT COPLEY PLAZA

On Monday, Nov. 27, 2 P. M. the Club will hold the annual bridge and fashion show, by Filene, for the benefit of gentle folk in need.

In addition to an attractive prize for each table, the club will serve refreshments to guests during the Fashion Show.

Special tickets are available for those who arrive at four o'clock for the Fashion Show and refreshments. Tables may be obtained from Mrs. Charles L. Alden, Jr., chairman, No. 2 Ingham rd., Wellesley or from Mrs. Donald M. Hill, 16 Madison ave., Newtonville.

Newton Ladies in Tau Beta Beta Show

Tau Beta Beta of Brookline will present its annual show at Whitney Hall, Brookline on the evenings of November 17th and 18th. Mrs. Thomas J. Brown of Central st., Auburndale, has a prominent part in the play to be presented, "Shall We Join the Ladies," by J. M. Barrie. Mrs. Harold

MRS. THOMAS J. BROWN R. Keller of Oxford rd., Newton Centre, plays a supporting role. Dancing by a well-known orchestra will follow the performance on each evening. The play is the only large activity of Tau Beta Beta in aid of its benefit fund. The welfare and social work of the organization is well-known. In addition it has awarded six scholarships to girls who are now in college. While the recipient may elect to go to any college it is a unique situation which finds all of the six students now attending Radcliffe College.

Many greater Newton ladies are members of the club including the following: Mrs. Matthew Benzaquin of Newton; Mesdames Leon B. Farley, and Robert Kelley of Newtonville; Mesdames Ernest Cooper and Paul R. Tucker of West Newton; Mesdames Arthur H. Brown, Russell Burnett, Robert Chase, John Clapp, Guy McKinney, Herbert Stearns and Harry Walter of Waban; and Mesdames Chester Butts, Wilbur E. Cobb, William Dana Follett, Harold R. Keller, E. Prentiss Jones, J. Nelson Manning, Walter M. Marston, Metcalf Melcher, Edward A. Sharp, and Vincent Stanley of Newton Centre.

American Legion

The next regular meeting of Newton Post No. 48, American Legion, will be held at the Memorial Building, Newton Centre, on Thursday evening, November 16th, at eight o'clock. This meeting will be of particular interest to the membership as the Nominating Committee presents to the Post its nominations for the various offices for 1934.

Following the business portion of the meeting an entertainment will be presented. The talent consists of radio artists headed by Smilin' Jim Mason who is heard over the local stations and he will present some of his readings. He has appeared before the Post previously and is well liked. The original A. E. F. Fiddler will also be present; Kenneth Wilson will play side at the piano, the Three Blue Aces and others have promised to appear. Wentworth P. Cann, well known radio announcer will again act in the capacity of master of ceremonies.

The members of the Auxiliary will be the guests of the Post, and following the entertainment refreshments will be served in the cafeteria. It is expected that an unusually large number of members will attend this meeting.

ALL NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

The Kenway Trio of the All Newton Music School played at the Anniversary Banquet of the Auburndale M. E. Church on Thursday evening, November second. These young ladies, the Misses Virginia and Jean Kenway and Eleanor Lord gave a fine program of music which was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience.

Another pupil of the All Newton Music School, Miss Mabel Worth, played violin solos at the entertainment which followed the Annual Dinner of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Newton Upper Falls. The young artist was complimented on her good work.

HARVEST HOME WEEK AT THE PARAMOUNT

The golden voice of Mary McCormic, noted prima donna of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, comes to the screen at last. Miss McCormic sings in the Janet Gaynor Warner Baxter production for Fox, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing" coming Sunday for 4 days at the Newton Paramount Theatre.

Miss McCormic plays herself in the picture and as Mary McCormic, the singer, visiting the home of the "Adairs" in Ireland, is called upon to sing.

Miss McCormic was discovered by Mary Garden in 1923. Then, for eight years and until opera faded in Chicago, she was the company's most famous prima donna. Subsequently she was invited to star with the Paris Opera Company and was the first American in 30 years—since Nordica—to star with the Paris company.

On the same program with Paddy will be Richard Arlen in "Golden Harvest" a story right in line with the present newspaper stories about the Farmers fight to retain their livelihood in the great farms of the west.

For the last half of the week Edw. G. Robinson will be seen in "I Loved A Woman," said to be his best picture, and Bruce Cabot in "Midshipman Jack." A big vaudeville show on Saturday evening with only the best acts picked from the larger Booking Offices for this begins at 7:45.

Newton Girl Gets Music Scholarship

Miss Janet Tuthill of 602 Centre st., Newton, has been awarded the piano scholarship conferred by the Bergeron School of Music, Boston. There were many applicants for this scholarship, which is awarded yearly, and Miss Tuthill was selected by Mrs. Mary G. Reed, Director of the Piano Department, as the most talented and showing the best results from her previous work. Miss Tuthill won the scholarship given by the Newton Community Club in 1932. The Bergeron School also offered a vocal scholarship under Miss Marie Bergeron, Director of the school, and one in Dramatics under Miss Marie Laughton.

During the winter monthly musicales are given at which advanced pupils of all departments are given a public appearance.

The Bergeron School is a member of the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs and pupils are privileged to enter its contest of which Mrs. Reed is chairman.

Both piano and vocal pupils of the school have been state and district winners in these contests.

MISS JANET TUTHILL

SARAH HULL CHAPTER, D. R.

The Sarah Hull Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, gave a dessert bridge party at the Hunnewell Club of Newton on Monday afternoon, Nov. 6. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Willard L. Sampson, assisted by Mrs. Fred L. Trowbridge, Mrs. Charles E. Morrow, Mrs. William L. Ratcliffe, Mrs. Ellen Harris, Mrs. Albert B. Hinkle, Mrs. Raymond S. Fosgate, Mrs. Daniel Goodridge, Mrs. Robert J. Estabrook, and Mrs. Ralph C. Emery. Mrs. John G. Godding and Mrs. Edson J. Gould poured.

Newton Dramatic Organizations

Dramatic Club In 'Her Great Match'

"Her Great Match" is the title of the first play to be given by the Newton Dramatic Club in The Newton Centre Woman's Club House on the evening of Wednesday, November 22nd. The Club is opening its fourth season. A history of notable successes in dramatic productions has been achieved in the three years and increasingly a greater opportunity for building a social unification of the Newtons. This year the social life began with an important reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Walworth. Other social affairs more informal will occur during the winter. Such important patrons as Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French and Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall have been added to the list of patrons.

Six evenings of drama, three of full length plays and three of one-act plays is the dramatic program of the year. Mr. William Rice is the president of the club. Mr. Cecil J. Hall, the treasurer. Mrs. Everett W. Varney the executive director. Mrs. Robert Allingham, secretary. M. Ralph Emery, Mrs. Roscoe Packard, Mrs. Howard M. North, Mrs. Joseph Otis, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dockstader, Miss Rosalind Harris, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Welden, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boyd are directors. Mrs. Wm. Anderson is chairman of properties. Mrs. Ralph Boyd is chairman of costumes. Mr. Bolton Wilder is electrician. Mr. Wendell Holt is stage manager.

THE NEWTON SHOW OF THE AIR

The Newton Show of the Air brings an entire new group of artists before the microphone for its ninth of a series of Thursday evening broadcasts over Station WLEY, Lexington, under the personal direction of Estelle G. Marsh.

This week Vincent Hubbard of Newtonville sponsors the following soloists, whom he has coached and presented many times in concert: Joseph Wood, lyric tenor; Elsie Rose, soprano; Herbert Bysshe, baritone; Emily Gaudette, contralto; Camille Girouard, guest artist at the Newtonville Woman's Club Ways and Means Musicales last fall; Charles Bissell, tenor; and William Billedeau, violinist. These artists will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Vincent Hubbard.

In addition to these solos, Vincent Hubbard is introducing something new in this series, in the presentation of his chorus which he will direct in two unique selections.

To date fifty-two different artists have entertained with music and drama each Thursday evening. The dramatic skills will be read as usual by Hazel H. Scholley, and solos will be given by the Newton Show of the Air, soprano and pianist, namely, Sylvia Church Pettys and Mary Barr Snyder.

Special music is being planned for Thanksgiving Night with a season's greeting by a well known speaker.

JUNIOR PHILOMATEIA CLUB

The newly elected officers of the Junior Philomateia Club are Miss Mary Dowd of Waltham, president; Miss Ruth Clark of Watertown, first vice president; Katherine Egan of Belmont and Mary Rattigan of Newton, second vice presidents; Frances O'Halloran of Newton, Virginia Grimes of Chestnut Hill and Rosemond Adams of Dorchester, secretaries.

A Costume party to benefit Christmastide Charity will be held on Nov. 14th. Miss Leona Powers of Arlington is in charge of arrangements and is assisted by Miss Frances O'Halloran who heads entertainment Committee.

DRAMATIC CLUB OFFERS WRITING COURSE

To write successfully and market what you have written is the object of the course on writing offered by The Newton Dramatic Club by Richard Hill Wilkinson, teacher. Mr. Wilkinson is the author of the daily short story of The Boston Herald and of numerous plays and novels. Sunday evening, November 12th, at 8 o'clock, at 34 Tyler terrace, Newton Centre, the group will meet.

HUNNEWELL PLAYERS

On Wednesday and Thursday evening of this week the Hunnewell Players opened the 1933 season with performances of "The Truth About Blayds" by A. A. Milne. An enthusiastic audience attended on both evenings. The work of the members of the cast in portraying the several difficult roles was exceptional in amateur theatricals. The role of Oliver Blayds, nonagenarian, was well-carried by Augustus Wakefield, and the difficult role of Blayds daughter, Isabel, through whom the dying confession of the famous poet that he had been employing the writings of a deceased friend and genius for his own works became known upon his death, was played by Mrs. Lenice I. Bacon with her usual aptitude for difficult parts. The part of William Blayds Conway, son-in-law and secretary of the poet was well played by Donald L. Gibbs and that of A. L. Royce, friend and old-time sweetheart of Isabel, by David Gurton. Supporting roles were played by Mrs. Ethelwyn G. George, Clayton L. Holden, Alva G. Law, and Linder Greavatt. Mortimer Marleib coached the production which was presented by the Entertainment Committee as the first of four plays to be offered. This committee is comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Cutler, and Mr. and Mrs. Carlos T. Pierce. Mrs. E. E. Hayward was at the piano and offered selections between the acts. Dancing followed.

F. S. Bacon was manager with Ralph C. Emery, Brooks Gilbert, E. E. Hayward, Jr., and Mason Stone, Jr., in charge of construction. Virginia Gilbert, Howard Hayward and David Gurton, settings and properties; Philip N. Horne, lighting; Mrs. Sterling Loveland, Peter Turchon and W. K. Bimblecom, publicity.

TO PRESENT "LAND OF OZ"

"The Land of Oz," a delightful play for children, will be given by the Lend-a-Hand Masque on Saturday, December 9, in the Newton High School Auditorium. There will be two performances open to the public, one at ten o'clock in the morning, without reserved seats, and the other at 2:30 in the afternoon when seats will be reserved. The proceeds of the play go toward a scholarship for a Newton High School girl.

VILLAGE PLAYERS

"The Crime at Blossoms" by Mordecai Shairp, will be the fall presentation of the Village Players on the evenings of November 22nd, 23rd and 24th, 1933, at the Unitarian Parish Playhouse.

The play is being ably coached by Mr. Hay A. Tomlinson. There are twenty-four members of Village Players in the cast. The principal players are: Mrs. Henry T. Dunker, Mrs. Henry H. Skelton, and Robert T. Allingham. They are supported by the following: Miss Cornelia Wing, Edwin S. Drown, Harry D. Swisher, Mrs. William H. Brackett, Harry E. Moore, Edwin D. Smith, Ernest Braithwaite, Mrs. Harry M. Sutton, Mrs. Gustavus F. Sargent, Miss Adele Sargent, L. Sumner Prune, Mrs. L. Sumner Prune, Mrs. Robert T. Allingham, Donald Cummins, Ralph L. Wheeler, Miss Barbara Pecknoe, Mrs. Hugo P. Geisler, Wilbur Keller, Miss Eleanor Hall, Lyman V. Banker and Dan S. Tracy.

GARRICK PLAYERS TO PRESENT "HEDDA GABLER"

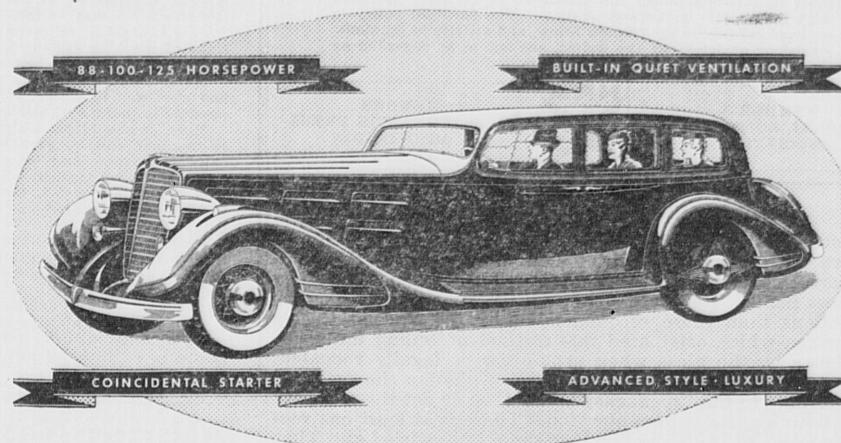

The Garrick Players will present their second subscription play on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, Nov. 15, 16, 17 at the Garrick Theatre, Newton, with the presentation of Henrik Ibsen's classic "Hedda Gabler." The performance of the play was given at the Residenz Theatre, Munich in January 1891. From then on it has been performed in every dramatic country in the world and by every notable actress including Duse, Nazimova, and Campbell.

Leading roles will be taken by Miriam Catherton as Hedda; Muriel Pearce, Robert R. Reed, Robert C. Currier, Clyde Hodgdon, Pauline Beaufort, and Mrs. Gladys Fuller.

The production is under the sponsorship of The Newton Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Arts. The staging of the play is under the direction of Robert C. Currier with settings by Robert R. Reed.

Political Rally For Hodgdon

A Hodgdon for Mayor rally was held Wednesday evening Nov. 8, in the offices of James P. Akins, prominent Newton Attorney at 439 Washington Street, Newton Corner. Besides Mr. Hodgdon the speakers included Joseph P. Dargan, Arthur Connolly, John Kearney and James P. Akins.

The candidate Walter A. Hodgdon spoke in part as follows:

My opponents and their ward-healers have deliberately and maliciously instigated a whispering campaign suggesting that I may withdraw as a candidate for Mayor.

I wish to spike this false rumor. I have not the slightest intention of withdrawing and will be a candidate until the last vote is counted on December 12 when I expect to be elected your next Mayor.

My campaign is progressing quietly and effectively without lavish expenditures and without the usual promises of favors to political henchmen. I am unable to spend large sums and I doubt if anyone can buy an election this year. As the only candidate who will give all the people a fair break I rightly expect their support when the issues are understood and they have an opportunity to use their own good judgment free from coercion.

Regarding the Aldermanic contests, I am not sponsoring any candidate and will not have a slate.

In my opinion Aldermanic candidates that have enough ability to conduct independent campaigns of their own based on ability, service and character stand the best chances of being elected this year.

Fire at Newton Cen. $2000 Loss

Bed clothing ignited by an electric heater started a fire that caused $2000 damage in the home of Samuel Black, 12 Nottingham st., Newton Centre at 8:20 Sunday morning. The house is owned by the Natick Trust Company. Box 247 at 6:17 Saturday night was for a chimney fire at the residence of Thomas Halfrey, 70 Faxon st., Nonantum.

Kiwanis Club

On Sunday evening, Nov. 5, Newton Kiwanians were guests of the Newton Methodist Episcopal church at the corner of Centre and Wesley sts., Newton.

A stimulating and inspiring program was held under the direction of "Harry" Hill, Newton Kiwanian and pastor of the church.

Kiwanis Goes to School

On Tuesday noon, Nov. 7, the Newton Kiwanis Club met at the Elm road entrance of what was formerly called the Technical High School, Newtonville, and under the guidance of "Jim" Forbes were conducted to seats at a special lunch room in the basement of that building.

They were entertained by the school orchestra and were fed with a meal served by school pupils from the school restaurant.

Several solos were rendered by school pupils, and a perpetual calendar was presented each member and guests. These perpetual calendars were made in the print shop, and the base was made and carved in the woodworking shop where the various parts were assembled.

This remarkable school is now called the Newton Trade School and is doing a splendid work of a practical nature.

Superintendent of Newton Schools, John Lund, addressed the meeting and in a remarkably concise and clear-cut fashion described the purpose of the school and the ideals of its teaching staff.

Among those present were: Robert O. Small, Director Vocational Guidance Commonwealth of Massachusetts; George Tracey, chairman Newton School Committee; Principal Ellicker of Newton High; Russell Burkhardt, principal F. A. Day Jr. High; and George Kellar, Asst. Supt. and Secretary, School Committee.

"Jim" Forbes gave a useful gift to

Rotary Club

By song, story, and verse John J. Cronin, story teller of the Newton and Boston Public Libraries, entertained the Newton Rotary Club on Monday at the regular noonday meeting at the Brae Burn Club. The speaker carried the men back to their boyhood days by his apt and skillful interpretation of parts of modern books to be found in our local library.

The strong influence of a progressive library system as exists in Newton was unquestionably shown by modern methods of development in our youthful population of a desire to read good books. Through the co-operation of the Newton schools, trained story tellers of our Newton Library visit these schools to relate narratively the contents of a part of outstanding new books. This system has developed a strong interest in high grade books. Mr. Cronin illustrated a chapter of the book "These United States and How They Came to Be," most interestingly.

Julius Lucht, Newton Librarian, explained the tremendous growth in circulation of the best books for juveniles by the 135 hours of story telling in the schools last year.

This program is supported by the income of the Mary Shannon Fund and collections from the duplicate pay books. In our Newton libraries are found the best books for all ages—one of the best equipped libraries in the country as developed by Mr. Lucht.

The club had as guest Charles Achuff of Boston. Rotary Club and Rotary Weeks of the Augusta, Maine, and Holy Club.

Luncheon was flavored with Kiwanis songs led by "Ed" Griffin and assisted by the Trade School orchestra.

After the luncheon, members and guests inspected the courses offered by the Trade School in Auto, Cabinet, Electrical, Machine and Printing.

THE GOVERNOR'S LIQUOR MESSAGE

There certainly can be no criticism of the liquor message of Governor Ely from the point of view of frankness. He rightly characterizes the so-called "tavern" as a saloon under a different name. He prefers the "tavern-saloon" with further restrictions than those recommended by the Special Recess Committee which originated this method of selling intoxicating liquor by the glass when prohibition is legally repealed. Governor Ely puts the issue on a basis of whether the "saloon" is preferable to the "speakeasy". Whether or not the majority agree with him is an open question. There is at least one recommendation of the Governor that should be carried out. That is the sound suggestion that the Legislature enact the legislation that it can readily agree on without delay and leave the controversial angles of the question for further debate. This must be done if there is to be order and not chaos after December 5th.

THE WATER RATE REDUCTION

The reduction in water rates of eleven per cent is a step in the right direction. It is the second reduction within a few years and meets with the approval of the water-consumer. Announcement is made that the reduction is now possible because of the completion of various steps that have been taken in the work of the water department. We shall accept that explanation regardless of the fact that the reduction has already been characterized by mayoralty candidates as a gesture and a political move. In this connection we might add that if the reduction had been a practical matter previously it most certainly would have been more practical politically to have put the new rates into operation sooner and have avoided the charge that it was done for the purpose of winning votes.

Water Rates Reduced

ties commenced in 1931. This reversal of flow has occurred several times this year when tying into the new 16 inch main on Boylston Street and when it was necessary to shut down our plant completely in order to connect up the new pumping units at the pumping station. The conditions which have caused occasional dirty water in our mains are now eliminated and except for isolated cases resulting from 'dead ends' not yet tied in, we should normally expect no further trouble of this character.

"In December 1931 your Honorable Board authorized a reduction in water rates and at that time it was anticipated that a further reduction could be effected as soon as our program, outlined above, might be completed. The plan we commenced in 1930, except for the 'dead end' program which will be completed in 1935, is now finished—a deficit in the Water Excess & Deficiency account as of December 31, 1932 has now become a surplus—and the time has therefore arrived when, in my judgment, the consumers of water in this city can and should be the beneficiaries of the further reduction which we have been hoping to be able to bring about.

"I therefore trust that my recommendation may receive your favorable consideration."

THE PARENT LOOKS AT THE NEW DEAL

Teachers of the junior high school and the elementary grades have felt greatly encouraged by the large number of favorable comments received from the parents on the no-marking program. These parents realize that the traditional marking system is being replaced by a more careful system of checking progress and diagnosing scholastic troubles which may be met by individual pupils.

"I am heartily in favor of the new plan of discarding the antiquated marking system in the Newton Schools and hope eventually it will reach into the high school.

Marks have never really been a true criterion of a pupil's progress and condition in school, for there are many things which it is not possible to mark with percentages or letter-grades.

More, it should certainly bring the home and school more closely together and, of even greater importance, the parents and the child into closer and better understanding of one another. That follows because teachers will confer more with parents and will be able to inform parents, in an effective person-to-person way, exactly how their children are getting along and how the parents can help.

From the parent-and-child angle, father and mother will be able to help the child intelligently by guiding them in their school work because of the information given them by a disinterested person about the child, indicating strong and weak points and how to build up the weak as well as how to develop the strong."

In conclusion, this remark from another parent is pertinent. "For me, I welcome the experiment in the Newton Schools which puts the emphasis where it belongs."

ton to permit the erection of a building within 25 feet of a street line. Arnold Hartman was granted a permit to use a room in his residence at Rosalie Road, Oak Hill (a residence zone) as an office in connection with his real estate business.

Alderman Sprout inquired as to the present status of the NRA grants from the Federal government for the proposed public projects in Newton. He said the unemployed men in this city who hope for work on these projects want to know. President Collins replied that there are about 1900 applications before the NRA officials at Washington and Newton's are numbered around 1500. Only 400 of these applications have been acted upon. Mr. Collins commented that because of the fact that the sewer project at the Upper Falls will give work to more men, it may receive prior approval to the three school construction projects.

Alderman Temperly expressed his gratification on the fact that Boylston street is now lighted. He had endeavored for the past two years to obtain this needed action. He thanked the other members of the Aldermen to assist Alderman McKay in having Walnut street opened again at its intersection with the Worcester turnpike. The meeting adjourned at 10:30.

New England Bank Women Meet Here

The fall meeting of the New England division of the American Association of Bank Women was held last week Friday afternoon at the West Newton building of the Newton Trust Company. Susan B. Sturges, an executive of the First National Bank of Boston, and regional vice-president of the national association, presided and introduced Mr. Carl M. Eldredge of the Newton Trust Company as the speaker. Mr. Eldredge, trust officer of the local banking company, explained the workings of the trust department of a bank.

Mrs. Herbert M. Cole, of the advisory board of the Newton Trust Company, acted as hostess at a tea that followed the business meeting. She was assisted by the Misses Sheridan and Swett of the West Newton office.

On Friday evening the members met at the Iris Garden House, Newton Lower Falls, for dinner where Miss Ethel Gammons, assistant secretary of the Newton Trust Company, was in charge of arrangements.

White Rally at Nonantum Monday

A meeting in the interest of the candidacy of Thomas W. White will be held on Monday night at the Nonantum A. A. Hall on Dabry st., Nonantum. In addition to Mr. White, former Mayor Edwin O. Childs and other well known citizens of Newton will address the gathering.

HOLIDAY BAZAAR

A regular holiday bazaar with a book store and gift shop will be held in the Parish House of the First Unitarian Church at West Newton on Tuesday, Nov. 14th, from ten o'clock to nine in the evening. Lunch will be served from twelve to two and a turkey supper from six to seven. The following ladies of the church are in charge of the various shops: Mrs. W. H. Best, books; Mrs. Stearns Poor, children's; Mrs. H. M. Andrews, flowers; Mrs. F. W. Woodcock, foods and jellies; Miss Ethel Howland, gifts; Mrs. A. J. Steadman, aprons and smocks; Mrs. H. N. Fowle, household department; Miss Olive Webster, grubs; Mrs. E. W. Zedden, luncheon and supper committee; Mrs. F. W. Marvin and Mrs. Wm. Wise, paper shop; and Mrs. Francis Newhall, white elephant shop.

FINED FOR BREAKING AUTOMOBILE LAWS

In the Newton court on Monday Mary Lowell of 11 Washington st., Newton, was fined $10 for driving by a traffic signal with the red light against her. Edward Bonelli, Jr., of 50 Colbert rd., West Newton, was fined $10 for speeding.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

Of course the reduction in the water rate one month before the city election is not a political move. It is just a coincidence. Incidentally, the reduction does not affect those who use the minimum amount of water. They will continue to be charged $2.25 every three months, and if they use less than the amount specified in any quarter (1000 cubic feet) they will not receive credit for the balance unused in the succeeding quarters of the year.

At rollcall on Wednesday Chief Hughes of the Newton police department warned members of the force not to display activity in the present mayoralty campaign in this city as such activity is a violation of the civil service rules governing the department. The chief's warning was a result of complaints made about alleged activity on the part of the police. The chief was right in taking this action. Civil service employees are not supposed to take active participation in politics. A similar rule applies to post office employees. But it is not enforced. There is one postal employee in this city who has been openly active in politics for many years, and who is active in the present mayoralty campaign. He is active for a candidate other than the one favored by the policemen who were warned. It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways.

Incidentally, it might be called to the attention of certain citizens of Newton that they have no moral right to question policemen and other city employees as to whom they intend to vote for. Neither is it playing the game to telephone city employees' wives and use high pressure methods in attempts to have these wives influence their husbands' votes.

In a Boston newspaper last Sunday was an article, a few columns in length, giving additional information (or alleged information) about the killing of a woman at Rockport several days before. This paper and other Boston papers have been carrying columns of news about the murder of this woman. In the paper we refer to, in the same Sunday edition, tucked away in an obscure position on an inside page was an item, a few inches long, about the killing of two women the preceding afternoon on the same street in Waltham, in two separate automobile accidents. One of the victims was a young Newtonville woman, the only child of her bereaved parents. We mention this to show the seeming indifference with which the American public regards the thousands of automobile killings in this country every month. Massachusetts is averaging nearly a score of such deaths weekly. Of late, persons killed by automobiles, mostly because of speeding and reckless driving, are just as dead as those murdered by other methods. But, the dear American people in their brainless submission to the "show-off" complex, and their indifference to the rights and happiness of their fellows, continue to condone the appalling carnage by automobiles.

Have you in any past year observed the streets of Newton more in need of cleaning? Are the layers of fallen leaves to be left in the gutters until cold weather sets in and they freeze, or clog catch basins after storms? And we have hundreds of unemployed men looking for something to do.

No Paint Factory At Nonantum

The Newton Board of Appeal on last Saturday refused the application of the First National Bank of Boston for a permit to use the property at 80 Bridge st., Nonantum, for a factory where paints, varnishes, lacquers and enamels would be made. The bank had taken the appeal after Buildings Commissioner Hagemann, in accordance with Newton's zoning ordinance, had refused to grant a permit. The bank wanted to lease or sell the property to a company now in business at a former brewery plant in Roxbury. A large number of Nonantum residents had protested against the granting of the permit.

"Political Pot-Pourri"

The past two weeks have brought a quickening of the political pulse in Newton. Things are beginning to happen. First in importance was the announcement on November 3rd of the long awaited Weeks Campaign Committee. This was like the egg-shell—all that it was cracked-up to be! The Committee is packed with power, punch and prestige and a close scrutiny of its personnel should make the White-Chute organization feel weak, worried and woe-begone.

Next in importance was the opening of the Weeks Campaign Headquarters on November 6th in Newtonville Square. From now on the voters will be deluged with cards, buttons, windshield stickers, etc. Will the effect of all this be weak or Weeks?

One potential threat to the Mayor's candidacy was removed last week by the statement of Dr. Frederick M. Sears of Newton Centre, who denied persistent rumors of his own candidacy and urged his friends to support the Mayor.

The usual rumors of the withdrawal of one candidate or another began to be circulated recently but investigation indicates that the rumors were instigated by friends of the candidates themselves. There are still five candidates in the field. Drake is becoming very active and appears to be counting heavily on W. C. T. U. support. Interesting, but not convincing. He has developed an enthusiasm for letter-writing of a somewhat radical nature, but my guess is that the political results of all this will not be unduly helpful to the author.

The other minor candidates, Hodgdon and Sullivan are reserving their fire until the closing stages of the campaign. Good strategy, perhaps, but a bit risky in view of the power behind the campaigns of the two major candidates, Weeks and White. However, a political campaign costs money and you cannot blame anyone for making judicious use of whatever funds may be available.

A word about the White situation. Headquarters is constantly active and on the alert, studying political developments and ready to snap up any issue that presents itself. In addition to the old stuff—the House of Stuart and the gas-station material—there is now the clean drinking-water issue which is due for heavy artillery treatment in the very near future. This will be very effective in some quarters but the Weeks campaign hopes to take the course off it before much damage results.

Finally, a few words regarding an informal survey of the Mayoral situation. It seemed to me that a check-up on the judgment of some of the leaders in the fight would prove interesting. It did. Over a dozen prominent men were canvassed. All are versed in the art of politics and all have substantial records. Each man was asked to estimate the vote which the five candidates would poll on December 12th. As a background suggestion that 24,000 votes be allocated. This figure represents an 80% vote on the basis of the 1932 registration. A slight majority of those interviewed were favorable to Weeks so you may modify the composite figures a trifle, but no more. Here is the result:

Weeks	12,500
White	9,000
Hodgdon	1,500
Sullivan	300
Drake	700
Total	24,000

It is only fair to point out, however, that this survey covered only supporters of Weeks and White. Hodgdon hopes to pull 7,000-8,000 votes and Drake counts on 5,000. The Sullivan figure is not available at this writing.

Your political correspondent will now retire hastily, but with dignity, to the cyclone-cellar. "Good-night, all!"

ZONTA CLUB

The following members represented the Newton Zonta Club at the "Zonta Day" Meeting at Hotel Commander, Cambridge Wednesday evening, November 8: Caroline Freeman, Ethel Gammons, West Newton; Grace Boswick, Hattie Hutchinson, Auburndale; Deborah Fawcett, Newton; Cora Sadler, Newton Centre; Annis Sturges, Newtonville. The occasion was the observance of the fourteenth anniversary of the founding of Zonta. About fifty women from Arlington, Cambridge, Lexington, Newton and Somerville Clubs shared the renewal of Zonta obligations and privileges.

The speaker of the evening was the International President, Cora Mackenzie, whom Newton is proud to claim as she is a resident of Auburndale. In her brilliant and inspiring talk she urged the members to continue to be fearless in their dreams and visions of better and broader lives for all, with particular emphasis upon women's responsibilities and opportunities.

ELECT WHITE MAYOR

Former Governor Frank G. Allen says of Thomas W. White

August 8, 1933.

I take this occasion to convey to you my appreciation of the fine service you have given to the taxpayers of Massachusetts as Collector of Internal Revenue for the past seven and one-half years, as well as your previous long service in the affairs of our Commonwealth. Your record of public accomplishment needs no defense. Your open door policy of dealing with all of the people, whether you were in agreement with them or not, your administrative ability and integrity, and your fairness to employees and the citizens is to be highly commended. As you are about to retire from the Federal Service, I wish to offer you my very best wishes for the future.

With thanks for your friendship to me, I am, Sincerely yours, FRANK G. ALLEN.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. Bentley

What do you suppose the Forgotten Man would do if he were made Dictator?

Now You Say It

One of those shafts of wit aimed at this column struck us recently. It bears the signature, "Larry," nothing more, and reads: "Let's all get together and pronounce it 'Mayoralty'; with the accent on the first syllable. By the way, the word has only three syllables, according to Noah Webster. But lots of people have never had any use for Noah."

Putting aside "Larry's" jest, let us consider the proper use of speech. No matter what your opinion may be as to election of a Mayor for Newton next month, you can all still ponder on the good, old spoken word. Some of my most learned friends insist upon referring to the campaign as the "may-ralky" contest. I suppose that's accuracy in the highest high-brow form.

In my abysmal ignorance I have long called it "may-or-alky." Of course, that's quite a mouthful and when I seek to avoid it I say "the fight for Mayor." Takes longer, but doesn't sound—at least to my ears—as "hifalutin" as "may-or-alky," as some would have it. And I don't like it clipped, English style, and given as "may-ralk."

The whole thing is perplexing. One can see that. Nor have I any advice to offer, although I would like to suggest that someone with oracular powers, like "P. W. C.," get this matter of pronunciation fixed up as soon as possible. We can't go on at sixes and sevens.

Happy Stage Memories

Talk of old-times in this column never fails, I have discovered, to stir reminiscences. One faithful and therefore patient reader has submitted a list of the famous theatrical stars whose brilliant performances he recalls with delight. Envious of his good fortune in possessing such a golden store of memories, I pass along his list of great players. I don't know how it will strike you—the more gray hairs in your head the keener will be your recollection. If it happens that you, like myself, remember only a few, you'll still share in part the delight of looking backwards. And if they're all unknown to you, I can only advise that you keep your eye out for any revivals.

Here's what aroused my good friend, who was plainly a devoted theatre-goer in times gone by: McKee Rankin and Kitty Blanchard in "The Danites," Louis Aldrich and Oliver Dowd Byron in "Across the Continent," Frank Chaffran in "Kit, the Arkansas Traveler," William J. Florence in "Ticket-of-leave Man," and "The Mighty Dollar," Joseph Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," John T. Raymond in "Col. Mulberry Sellers," E. A. Sothorn in "An American Cousin," C. W. Coudack in "Esmeralda," Denman Thompson in "The Old Homestead," Booth and Barret in repertoire, Chas. Fletcher, and, afterwards, James O'Neill in "The Count of Monte Cristo," Dion Boucicault in repertoire and Lester Wallack in "Rosedale."

Personally, I have seen McKee Rankin, Louis Aldrich, Joseph Jefferson, the son of E. A. Sothorn, Edward H. who died last week, Denman Thompson and James O'Neill. The famous "Jack" Mason of the Old Boston Museum Company played "Rosedale" when I saw it. There, what do you remember?

Privacy in Public

We, of Boston and vicinity, may not have suburban trains for use exclusively of one group of patrons like the Long Island de luxe coaches to Garden City of which I read in a New York weekly some time ago. Nevertheless, we do the best we can and proof is herewith submitted.

There is a morning train which travels from the North Shore to Boston, stopping only at less than half the stations, for the accommodation of a select lot of passengers. Please do not press me too closely to explain how I happened to be on it. A short train, the last car of which is a combination baggage and smoker, it carries to State Street several score of leading citizens whose country homes are on the North Shore. Two men board it regularly—I think at Manchester—and still do unless they've recently come up for the Winter.

These two are not young and their dignity spells Boston at its very best. It may be they are directors or possess even greater titles. That I do not know. They impressed me—in fact I was awed by their appearance and like to feel that you would have been. The baggage master knows them well, it seems. After a polite and formal exchange of morning greetings the baggage master produces two chairs of the fold-up type. I mean the kind used in funeral parlors only less lively because travel-stained and worn.

The two distinguished passengers seat themselves in the baggage compartment, aloof from the herd, and there make themselves comfortable. There is seldom much baggage to interfere. They read their morning papers and chat and have a nice, cosy time all to themselves. Rather superior and more than that economical. It wouldn't go very well in our Newton trains where there are so many more passengers, so I don't look for a spread of the custom.

Like Father, Like Son

THE National Council of Young Men's Christian Associations is observing November 5th to 11th as Father and Son week.

Which brings to mind the old saying, "Like father, like son".

In Newton that is a good sign! We ought to know. We've not only seen many sons follow in their father's footsteps and save at the Newton Centre Savings Bank, but grandsons too!

What better example for building good citizens!

TRUCK AND CAR CRASH AT AVENUE

A coal truck owned by the B. S. Hatch Company and driven by John Foran of Orris st., Auburndale, and a car driven by Mary Daley of Riverway, Boston, collided on Wednesday at Commonwealth avenue and Lowell avenue. The truck overturned and John Holmes of 1 Prospect st., West Newton, who was riding on it received injuries to his head. He was taken to the Newton Hospital. The woman driving the car and two women who were passengers in it also claimed to have received injuries.

Recent Weddings

SAWYER—MORTON

A wedding of interest to many residents of Newtonville and to the summer colony of Casco Bay, Maine, took place on Saturday evening, November 4th, when Miss Margaret S. Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Morton of 61 Church st., Newtonville, was married to Harold Smith Sawyer, son of Calvin Sawyer of Freeport, Maine. The ceremony which took place at the Immanuel Baptist Church, Newton, was performed by the pastor, Rev. A. Newton Merritt. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her wedding gown was of white chiffon velvet and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses, lilies of the valley and orchids. The maid of honor, Miss Helen Morton, sister of the bride, wore turquoise blue velvet and carried yellow roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses Eileen Ringrose of Long Branch, New Jersey, Thelma Ringrose of Freeport, Maine, nieces of the groom, Elizabeth Morton, niece of the bride of Nashua, New Hampshire, and Mrs. Carlisle T. Lash. They wore gowns of pale pink over blue satin and carried pink roses and delphiniums.

Mr. Carlisle T. Lash of Cambridge was the best man. The ushers were P. Richardson, Eliot H. Morton and Theodore Morton, brothers of the bride and Kenneth Sullivan, a nephew of the groom.

The church was decorated with cedar, ferns, Chrysanthemums and candelabra. A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony.

The bride was for many years employed at the Babson Statistical Organization in Wellesley Hills. The groom is well known in Casco Bay, Maine, where he had business interests.

SEYMOUR—NEWBY

Miss Barbara Louise Newby, daughter of Mrs. Arthur F. Newby of 918 Chestnut st., Newton Upper Falls, was married to Graham Hoyt Seymour son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Seymour of 258 Dale st., Waltham, on Monday evening, November 13, at 7.30 p. m. at the Methodist Parsonage in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends. Rev. G. Vaughan Shedd performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Stephen Q. Shannon of Newton Highlands, and the groom's attendant was Mr. Donald Newby, brother of the bride. The bride was groomed in a brown travelling suit and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Seymour will reside on Oak terrace, Newton Highlands.

JACKSON—PHELAN

Miss Lena Carmelita Phelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Phelan of 50 Hale street, Upper Falls, and Mr. Parker Lee Jackson, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Jackson of 849 Webster street, Needham, were united in marriage in the presence of relatives at the parsonage of the Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church by the Rev. Dennis H. Donovan, on Thursday, October 26, at 2 p. m. The bride was groomed in a brown transparent velvet dress with matching accessories and wore corsage bouquet of Talisman.

and Sweetheart roses with Baby Breath. Mrs. Roy Hayward of Needham, sister of the groom, attended the bride. She was groomed in blue transparent velvet with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Phelan is a graduate of the Secretarial Course in Burdett College and Mr. Jackson is a graduate of Dartmouth College.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside on Kilsyth road, Brookline.

Recent Engagements

Mrs. Bertram Urban of Newton has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jean Hutchins Thompson, to Dr. Draper Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Hill of Brookline. Miss Thompson attended the Kendall Hall School at Pride's Crossing and the Katharine Gibbs School. Mr. Hill is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1922 where he was a member of the Pi Eta Club.

The engagement of Miss Caroline Durant Ziegler of Windsor rd., Waban to Newton Tenney Peck of Cambridge was announced recently at a tea given at the home of Mr. Peck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck at the Hotel Queensbury, Glens Falls, New York. Miss Ziegler is a graduate of Wellesley College, class of 1931 and is now completing her work toward a B.D. degree at Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Peck who graduated from Yale in 1924, Harvard School of Business Administration, Union Theological Seminary in 1933, is now entering Jesus College in Cambridge, England to prepare for the ministry.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clinton Hutchison of Newton Centre are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Esther (Polly), to Mr. John Sumner White, Jr., of North Carolina. Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sumner White of Waban. Plans are being made for a December wedding.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

Newton Federation

Round-Table Conferences on Departmental Work will occupy the morning session of the Fall Meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs next Monday, the 13th, at the Second Congregational Church, Highland street, West Newton. At 10:30 o'clock, the officers and chairmen of the committees in the clubs constituting the Federation will discuss the problems of their particular divisions, under the leadership of Federation officers and chairmen. All officers of clubs and all members of Federation committees are urged to be present to benefit by these round-table discussions.

At 12:30 p. m. a fifty-cent luncheon will be served under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Lippincott, chairman of the Social committee. Mrs. Lippincott's well-known success as chairman for the Federation luncheons is sufficient recommendation for whatever her committee plans.

The Business Meeting will be called at 2 o'clock, and will be followed by a talk by Miss Ruth Chapin, general secretary, on "Present Needs of the Welfare Bureau." Music, which always has its part on the programs, will be furnished by Florence Carter Allen, Pianist.

The Federation, in common with the clubs of many cities and towns, has been vitally interested for some time in the problem of motion picture programs. The Newton Federation is concerned particularly with the class of pictures offered for the children's matinees. Many appeals and criticisms find their way to leaders of Women's Clubs, and the Program chairman for this meeting has arranged for speakers to present the question from the producers' angle and from the clubwoman's angle.

Mr. Carl E. Milliken, of the Hay's Organization in New York, will have for his subject "Motion Pictures as the Producer Sees It"; and Mrs. Oscar H. Blaisdell, chairman of Motion Pictures in the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, will have the topic "Motion Pictures as the Club Woman Would Like to See It."

The managers of motion picture houses in Newton and its vicinity will be invited to attend the afternoon session, and time will be allowed for a question period to follow the addresses, when it is hoped that every one interested may benefit by explanations, and that the period may be of mutual advantage to all.

This is a regular meeting of the Newton Federation and all clubwomen are invited to attend the afternoon session. Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg is chairman of the Program committee which is making the arrangements for the day.

Newton Highlands C. L. S. C.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Miss Harriet M. Ward, of 1080 Walnut street, on Monday, November 13th. Miss Mary E. Hyde will review "Jesus Through the Centuries," by Shirley Jackson Case. Miss F. Mabelle Hurd and Mrs. Tudbury will present Current Events.

Christian Era Study Club

Mrs. Alfred L. Billings opens her home, 22 Ware road, for the meeting of the Christian Era Study Club on Monday, the 13th, at 3 p. m. "Hawaii" will be the subject presented by Miss Amy Jones, and "O. Henry" by Mrs. Edward Edmonds, as the program for the afternoon.

Business and Professional Group of Auburndale Woman's Club

"Vacation Reminiscences" is the attractive topic for the entertainment of the Business and Professional Group on Monday evening, the 13th, at 8 o'clock, when they meet at the Auburndale Club House. Miss Loretta Lawless is chairman for the program.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

The Travel Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held on Monday, the 13th, at the home of Mrs. John R. McLean, with Mrs. Justin D. Starkie assisting hostess. Mrs. Gilbert R. Jones will read a paper on "The Black Forest," and Mrs. William D. Keefe's subject will be "German Ports."

West Newton Junior Women's Educational Club

The next meeting of the Junior members of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held on November 14th, at the West Newton Library. The speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Florence B. Sloane, who will take as her topic "How the Library Serves Our Children."

Auburndale Review Club

On Tuesday, the 14th, at 10 a. m. the Auburndale Review Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Davidson, 59 Woodland road.

Social Science Club

The first paper of the year will be read before the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, November 15th, in the Channing Church Parlor. The subject will be "Broad-casts from the Field of Architecture," and the author is Mrs. Arthur W. Blakemore. Mrs. Ray A. Eussen and Mrs. Maurice W. Dennison will be hostesses.

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

The Hospitality committee, Mrs. Ernest R. Adams, chairman, is having an At Home for Newton Highlands Woman's Club members at the Workshop, from 2 to 5 p. m., on Wednesday, November 15th. Monologues and readings will be given by a Club member. Members are asked to bring their knitting and sewing and to help make the event one of real sociability and friendliness.

Boston Woman's Civics Club

The Boston Woman's Civics Club will meet at the Hotel Brunswick on Wednesday, the 15th, at 2:15 p. m. The program will be presented by the International Relations committee, Mrs. John Groves, of Newton Centre, chairman; the subject being "Homes of Many Lands." An illustrated talk will be given by Sarah Harding Hunter. Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach, chairman of the Social Welfare committee of the State Federation, will speak on Social Welfare Work at the Reformatory for Women at Framingham.

Community Service Club of West Newton

"What Makes Us All So Queer" will be the subject of a lecture by David Seabury at the meeting of the Community Service Club of West Newton at the Parish House of the Unitarian Church on Wednesday, November 15th. Mr. Seabury is one of the leading psychologists of the country. Those who have heard him speak, and those who have read his books, know that he deals with human nature in every-day life, and that he explains and clarifies the troubles with which all are faced.

Many years of lecturing before large audiences speak for themselves as to the nature and quality of his thought and presentation. This lecture is an outstanding event of the Club year and it is hoped that an unusually large number will attend. At this meeting there will be a Food Sale in charge of Mrs. H. N. Glover.

After the lecture, tea will be served under the direction of Mrs. Louie A. Bacon.

The Club is highly gratified with the sum realized from the card parties which were held on November 1st in aid of the Emergency Fund. Two hundred and fifty-six guests were received most graciously by the hostesses of the seven beautiful homes in West Newton which were opened for the occasion. Some of those who did not play bridge came in for tea and spent a delightful hour. The Club is deeply appreciative of the generous hospitality extended to its members and their friends.

Mrs. Gilson's next Current Events lecture will be given on Friday, November 17th, in the Parish House of the Unitarian Church. These lectures are open to the public. Tickets may be secured at the door.

The Club Chorus is beginning its series of rehearsals. New members are welcome, and those interested should communicate with Mrs. Clifford M. Brewer.

The Play Reading group, in charge of Mrs. Ernest A. Dockstader, is still open to a few more members. These classes are under the direction of Hortense Creede Rallsback, which ensures much benefit and pleasure to those participating.

Men's clothing and working shoes are needed for the Mayor's Clothing Relief. Donations may be sent to the new City Hall.

Newtonville Woman's Club

At 10:30 o'clock on the morning of November 15th and again on the 16th, the Newtonville Woman's Club will open their Bazaar in the Social Hall of their Club House on Washington park. There will be real bargains in useful, beautiful, and valuable articles. Prices at first low enough so that there will be no mark-down. The captains and their tables will be as follows: Babies' and children's things up to six years, Mrs. John E. Cox and Mrs. Eaton Webber; Books, old, new, and middle-aged, Mrs. Ellet D. Hansen; Bridge Accessories, Mrs. Henri Beltzung; Candy, Mrs. A. Gordon Welz; Christmas Gifts, Mrs. Francis G. Ingraham; Flowers, Plants, Pottery, and Garden Supplies, Mrs. Robert G. Kimball; Food, Mrs. A. Dudley Bach; Gifts for young and old, Mrs. John P. Kobrock and Mrs. Chester S. Merrill; and White Elephants, Mrs. Frederick A. Tennant.

In the downstairs dining room, which has recently been refurnished and decorated under the direction of the Art committee, tables will be attractively set and a delicious luncheon will be served each day from 11:30 to 1 o'clock at 35 cents under the direction of Mrs. Clarence A. Wentworth. The Wednesday luncheon will be in charge of Mrs. William E. Leonard and Mrs. Frank R. Clark will supervise the luncheon on Thursday. From 3 to 4:30 o'clock on each afternoon, Mrs. Edward C. Fales and her group, assisted by three daughters of Club members, will serve tea or coffee and light refreshments for 25 cents. From 6 to 8 o'clock each evening, Mrs. Wentworth will act again as chairman for the complete turkey dinners to be served in the dining room, one dollar each—no tips. The subcommittee for these evenings are: Wednesday, Mrs. Theodore O. Bjornson, and Thursday, Mrs. A. Perry Martin. The Social committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Raymond Tucker, will insure prompt, efficient, and gracious service of these dinners.

Upon consultation, the "Readers," directed by Mrs. Arthur D. Quimby, will give enlightenment as to the future.

Each evening at 8:30 there will be an entertainment in the Auditorium, the doors being opened at 8. Mrs. Louis J. Steltz, Jr., chairman for both evenings, will present on the first night a Fashion Show, depicting "The Century of Progress in Dress." Group I, Styles of a Hundred Years Ago, will have for models Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, Mrs. Norman Southworth, and Miss Priscilla Woodward. Groups II and III, Modern Sports Clothes, will show Junior High, Senior High, and College styles, modelled by Miss Jean Browning, Miss Carolyn Everts, and Miss Janet Greene; and Styles for the Outdoor Woman, with Mrs. Warren K. Brimblecom, Mrs. John P. Kobrock, and Mrs. Harold W. Shedd as models. In Group IV, "After Six-Thirty," the following will display styles: Miss Marjorie Gilbert, Miss Phyllis Lishon, Mrs. Robert G. Kimball, Mrs. Richard Moerschner, and Mrs. Edwin P. McGill. The last, Group V, will feature The Clubwoman, and the Club president, Mrs. Edwin P. Crave, and two past presidents, Mrs. Herbert F. Blair and Mrs. Austin H. Decatur, will be the models. The fashions for 1933-34 and suitable properties will be lent through the courtesy of The Shepard Stores, with Priscilla Fortescue as Fashionist.

On November 16th an evening concert will be presented, dedicated to "Our Presidents, Past and Present." The following artists will take part: Mrs. Doris Lougee Newton, Violinist; Miss Ruth Marsters, Accompanist; Mr. Malcolm C. Midgley, Tenor; Mrs. Midgley, Accompanist; Mrs. Lila Newdick, Reader, and Miss Hazel Hallett, Pianist. For each evening Mrs. Harold W. Shedd will act as stage manager, and Mrs. R. Charles Thompson will be in charge of ushers. There will be no admission fee, but opportunity will be given to contribute to a silver offering, under the supervision of Mrs. Harry M. Brown and Mrs. Ellison G. Day. For the Fashion Show, Mrs. Charles W. Stewart will take charge of costumes, and Miss Elizabeth F. Hartshorne will be group manager.

Miss Olive Crave will act as head usher for the Style Show and will be assisted by Polly Brown, Miriam Day, Mary Elizabeth Giles, Natalie Kimball, Betty Kobrock, Marguerite Shedd, Cynthia Southworth, Cynthia Steltz, Carol Thompson and Priscilla Tracy. Make-up will be in charge of Marie Earle, of The Shepard Stores. The ushers for the concert will be Mrs. Stanton L. Burgess, Mrs. Edward C. Fales, Mrs. Reynold A. Grammar, Mrs. Weston B. Haskell, Mrs. Walter N. Keene, Mrs. William R. Mattson, Mrs. Charles W. Peterson, Mrs. Everett E. Pierce and Mrs. Thomas E. Shepherd.

The Ways and Means committee, Mrs. George H. Tracy, chairman, started its Vanishing Bridges early last spring, the returns from which have taken care of the preliminary expenses of the Bazaar. The committee, in planning the Bazaar, had for its two important objectives, the raising of sufficient money to take care of the Club philanthropies and running expenses for the year, and the promotion among Club members of a wider acquaintance and a fuller appreciation of the Club as a social center. The Bazaar is the result of this boundless enthusiasm, brilliant ideas, and tireless energy on the part of the committee and of the Club members who have made most generous response. A sixteen-page program has been sent during the past week to each member, a great many of whom will take an active part in the event.

The week is full of many interesting and delightful activities for members and friends of the Newton Community Club. The first of these is an afternoon of Handicraft, for Wednesday, the 15th, to be at the Hunnewell Club, at 2:30 o'clock, arranged by the American Home committee, of which Mrs. Sterling N. Loveland is chairman. This will feature a Boucle Fashion Show with members and friends invited to attend and wear any knitwear that they have made, and also they are asked to bring anything else that they have made which will form an Exhibit, such as hooked rugs, crocheted bed spreads, crocheted blankets, painted trays, or anything, big or little, that is of interest. They may even bring work that is not finished, that may serve as an inspiration to others.

Newton Community Club

Junior girls also will model the Boucle suits, in some instances. This promises to be an altogether attractively informal affair, with tea served. A small charge of 25 cents will help defray expenses.

MISS E. MURRY Room 805

Mr. George

(Formerly with Jordan Marsh Co.)

It really doesn't make any difference what method is used in creating a permanent wave.

Whether it is a failure or a success depends solely upon the skill of the operator who creates it. That proves how important it is to select the right one. GEORGE is not only a genius but an international celebrity, gifted as well as trained in the hairdresser's art. His beautifully moulded permanent waves; artistic coiffures and individual haircuts show how well he has mastered every little trick that will turn a little Miss Nobody into a very important and smartly groomed SOMEBODY. And he has imparted all this knowledge to his staff of personally trained experts whose work he closely supervises. Why pay higher prices elsewhere? Permanent waves

$8.00 and $10.00; Hair trim, shampoo and artistic finger wave, $1.50 up. Note the address! GEORGE'S

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court
To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of

Mary E. Paterson
late of Newton in said County, deceased.
WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament and a copy of a declaration of trust of said deceased have been presented to said Court, for probate, by Alexander Paterson, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-seventh day of November A.D.
1933, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, John C. Leggat, Esquire, First
Judge of said Court, this seventh day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three.

on the Southern side of Webster Street, and bounded and described as follows:
Beginning at a point in the Southern line of said Webster Street distant one hundred and thirty five and 60/100 (135.60) feet Easterly from a T. P. monument at the Southeast corner of Cherry Street and said Webster Street; thence running Easterly on said Southern line of Webster Street, fifty-four (54) feet to land of Teulon, formerly of Ayres; thence turning and running Southerly by said land of Teulon, one hundred and one and 50/100 (101.50) feet; then turning and running Westerly by other land of the grantor, fifty-four (54) feet; then turning and running Northerly by other land of the grantor, one hundred and one and 50/100 (101.50) feet, to the point of beginning, containing five thousand four hundred and fifty seven (5457) square feet of land: The premises being shown on a plan by Wm. E. Leonard, C. E. dated April 20, 1926 filed with Middlesex So.
Dist. Deeds; being the same premises conveyed to me by deed from Bernard J.
Newman and William C. Newman, executors and trustees under said will of Elizabeth Newman, dated October 31, 1924 and to be recorded herewith."

Dr. Heller Speaks On Temperance To W. C. T. U.

Addressing the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the meeting held in the Newton Highlands Methodist Church Dr. Heller, the pastor, said: "As a church we have not surrendered. Our flag is nailed to the mast and clinched on the other side. We are unconvinced by all the propaganda; uninfluenced by the landslide. From the day when John Wesley declared that all dispensers of alcoholic liquors were 'poisoners general' till now Methodists have been enemies of the whole business. We have no way of knowing how our folks voted in the last election—and no tally of those who through indifference or carelessness or a secret feeling that Prohibition could not be enforced either voted for Repeal—or failed to vote at all—but our belief is that few if any voted for Repeal—though some evidently did not go to the polls. The vote in this State—as in most of the others shows a dreadful apathy on the part of the so-called good people and the result was and is that a small minority of the voting population, controlled the result. My own astonishment is that the Wets even after all their drive—were able to command so few votes for their side.

Mr. Paul Harris Drake gave an inspiring address on Christian Citizenship. He asserted that there has been no more critical juncture in history than the present and that in the problems which engender our attention there must be no compromise with anything so inherently evil as the liquor traffic. Christian Citizenship is more than going to the polls, it is standing up for principle.

Mrs. John A. Groves presided. The singing by Miss Dorothy Goddard of "Goin' Home" and "Lord for tomorrow and its needs I do not pray" was a beautiful part of the devotional service led by her mother Mrs. Isaac Goddard.

Newton Man Heads Company

Dexter F. Thomas of 425 Lowell avenue, Newtonville, has been elected President and Treasurer of the Colonial Budget Plan Inc. located at 333 Washington street, Boston.

Mr. Thomas was formerly connected with the Personal Finance Co. of Providence, R. I. For the past three years he has been a resident of the City of Newton and during that time was manager of the Industrial Bankers of Newton, Inc. He recently severed his connections with that organization to assume the duties of his present position.

While engaged in his Newton position Mr. Thomas made many friends in the Newtons who will be pleased to learn of his advancement.

REAL ESTATE BOARD MEETS

A reunion and meeting of the Newton Board of the Boston Real Estate Exchange took place Wednesday, November eighth, at one-thirty p. m. in the Directors' Room of the Newton Trust Company at Newton. Thomas H. Burns, Chairman, presided. Mr. Daniel LeHand of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation's office at Boston gave a very comprehensive and complete outline of the workings and machinery of this Emergency Act and answered many interesting questions put up to him by members and guests, including Newton bankers. Mr. LeHand said that every effort is being made to "speed up" action on the urgent cases but due to the fact that over seventeen thousand applications are being considered in Massachusetts and a careful study is made of each case it is difficult to obtain immediate action for the applicants.

AUTO HITS BOY

Brooks Slocum, 19, of Kenilworth st., Newton was hit by an automobile on Saturday afternoon on Commonwealth ave., near Boston College. The car was driven by Ernst Keller of Page rd., Newtonville who reported that the boy ran in front of the vehicle. The boy received an injury to his right leg and was taken to the Newton Hospital by Keller.

NEWTONVILLE GARDEN CLUB

The Newtonville Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. George E. Fisher, 36 Trowbridge ave., on Thursday, Nov. 16, at 10 a. m. Christmas decorations will be made, and there will be a report of the Annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation.

AUTO HITS YOUNG WOMAN AT WEST NEWTON

Helen Gilroy of Columbus place, West Newton, was hit Wednesday by a car driven by Arthur Olson of 227 Derby st., West Newton. She received cuts on the neck and shoulder and other injuries. She was treated by Dr. Lewis H. Jack. The accident happened at Washington and Waltham streets, West Newton.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

The romance of Tapestries, in ancient castles, and in the days of knights and crusaders, with the accomplishments of "fair ladies" in fine needlework, and in banners for their loved ones, holds appeal in this opportunity to see some of these rare and lovely examples and to learn about their histories.

On Friday and Saturday, the 17th and 18th, the Club will hold a two-day Rummage Sale, in a vacant store at Newton Corner, under the management of Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge, a former Club president. Members who have articles of any sort, winter clothing, household, or furniture, to contribute, are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Goodridge as soon as possible, as it is hoped that through this venture a goodly sum may be realized to add to the Philanthropic Fund of the Club, which this year, even more than ever, can do so much good.

Newton Junior Community Club

The Juniors of the Newton Community Club will meet on Monday afternoon, the 13th, in Grace Church, Parlor, at 3 o'clock, with Miss Lucille Holmes, president, presiding. They are hard at work making some most attractive and clever place cards, and making the stockings which will hold the gifts for the guests of the Senior Club at its Christmas Party on December 21st. Any members of the Senior Club who are willing to dress a doll for this event (the doll is furnished) are asked to notify Mrs. Frederick G. Holcomb, director of the Juniors.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

The American Home committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will give on Thursday, November 16th, at 12:30 p. m., a Luncheon Bridge at Mrs. Richardson's Food Demonstration Shop, 192 Boylston street, Boston. An attractive luncheon, using many new foods, will be served, followed by bridge. Those who desire tickets at 50 cents, may call Mrs. C. A. Riley, at C. N. 1231.

The Art committee of the Club, on Friday, November 17th, at 2:30 p. m., will present a lecture by Miss Martha Chase, of Concord, on Old Silver, Its Origin and Traditions. Miss Chase is a Bryn Mawr graduate, and has studied at Amy Sacker's School of Design. The committee has invited Mrs. Kenneth Craig, of the Westboro Woman's Club, who presented so successfully a program on old silver, at a recent State Art Conference, to collaborate with Miss Chase. Any Club member who has old silver about whose value she would like information, is urged to bring it with her to the lecture.

Shakespeare Club

Mrs. W. E. Moore, of 55 Hillside road, will be the hostess for the Shakespeare Club, on Saturday, November 18th, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. B. R. Gilbert will be the director of the afternoon's program which will be the Review of "Midsummer Night's Dream," and among other questions of discussion it will be determined who is the Dreamer in the play—the poet, any of the characters of the drama, or the spectators?

State Federation

CONFERENCE. The Public Welfare department of the Federation, including the divisions of Child Welfare, Community Service, Co-operation with War Veterans, Industry, Motion Pictures, Handicapped, Public Health and Social Welfare, will hold a Conference on Tuesday, November 14th, at the Hotel Kenmore, Boston. The morning session opens at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Leon P. Dutch, general chairman, will preside, and Mrs. David R. Goodin will welcome the conference to the Sixth district. Mrs. Frank P. Bennett and Mrs. John H. Kimball will bring greetings from the Federation, and Mrs. T. Gordon Burkes, chairman of Co-operation with War Veterans, will present as her speaker, Congressman William P. Connery. Miss Amy Hewes, Professor of Economics at Mt. Holyoke College, speaks for Mrs. Hazel H. Albers, chairman of Industry, and Mrs. Leon P. Dutch, chairman of Community Service, presents Mr. Lewis T. MacBryne of the Safe Roads Federation of Massachusetts. The last speaker of the morning will be Miss Hazel Newton of the Co-operative Work Rooms, speaking for Mrs. Elmore I. MacPhie, chairman of the division of Handicapped.

Round Tables at 12:30 will be followed by luncheon at 1:00 o'clock. The afternoon session opens at 2 o'clock, with vocal and violin music by Mary Lynn Rollins and Charles Little. Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell, chairman of the division of Motion Pictures, will have as guest speaker, Mrs. Francis J. Flagg, former president of the Professional Women's Club. Mr. Herman H. Bass, of the Lowell State Teachers' College, will speak for the division of Child Welfare. Mrs. William S. Piper, chairman; and Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach and Dr. Louise M. Leverone, chairmen of Social Welfare and Public Health respectively, will present Dr. Miriam Van Waters, of Framingham Reformatory, and Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, State Commissioner of Public Health. The conference will close at 4 o'clock.

The agencies participating in the Exhibit sponsored by the division of the Physically Handicapped are: Boston School of Occupational Therapy, Boston Tuberculosis Association Workshop, Co-operative Work Rooms, Massachusetts Department of Education, Harvard Infirmary Paralysis Commission, Robert B. Brigham Hospital, Speech Readers' Guild, The Christopher Shop, New England

Peabody Home for Crippled Children, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, and the Massachusetts Branch of the Shut-In Society.

PRESS TALK. The division of Press and Publicity presents Mrs. Frances Blanchard in her second talk on Monday, November 13th. The subject will be "Getting Publicity for Your Club." Federation Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, is the place and the hour is 2 p. m.

RECENT EVENTS

West Newton Women's Educational Club

On Monday, October 30th, the American Home Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, of which Mrs. Alfred E. Thayer is chairman, carried out an appropriate program for this time of year. The members met at the Second Church, West Newton, at 12:30 p. m., when they were served a delicious Halloween luncheon. The tables, which were arranged in a U shape, were beautifully decorated with oranges, pumpkins, and fall fruit.

After the luncheon an amusing parody on "Little Orphan Annie," or "The Goblins Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out," was read by Mrs. Alice B. Stinson. This was followed by a mystery story—haunted houses, secret panels, ghosts, and all—humorously acted out by Mrs. Alfred E. Thayer, with Mrs. Percival Waters as the ghost. Mrs. William D. Keefe then read the minutes of the last meeting which described in an amusing fashion the October meeting at Little Tree Farms.

The speaker, Miss Pratt, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, gave a profitable talk on "Looking Over the Closets," and explained how to remodel clothing, alter patterns, and use the sewing machine.

Mrs. Thomas Hayden had charge of the luncheon, and was assisted by an efficient committee composed of Mrs. John McLean, Mrs. Alice B. Stinson, Mrs. Francis Nowers, and Mrs. George Thomas.

On Thursday, November 2nd, the West Newton Women's Educational Club held a most successful Scholarship Bridge, at the Bonnar Atwood Studio, Newtonville. The proceeds, which were larger than had been anticipated, will be added to the Scholarship Fund of the Club. There were eighty-eight members present, who played either auction or contract. Coffee and cakes were served. Mrs. David O. Warner was a most efficient chairman, and was ably assisted by Mrs. James W. Messenger, Mrs. Wilford C. Church, and Mrs. Gordon S. Heath.

Auburndale Junior Woman's Club

The Auburndale Junior Woman's Club met for their second meeting at the home of Miss Mary Elwell, of 398 Wolcott street, on November 1st. It was decided that the girls would make up two Thanksgiving baskets for Newton families. A knitting club was planned and the first meeting is to be held at the home of the president, Miss Ruth Malmbré. The weekly feat of bowling, plans for a bridge to be held December 1st, and for a dance to be held during the Christmas vacation were discussed. After the business meeting Mrs. A. Chesley York, of Medford, a member of the Department of Junior Membership in the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, made a delightful speech telling of other clubs and their projects, and suggesting things that the Juniors could do.

West Newton Junior Women's Educational Club

The Junior members of the West Newton Women's Educational Club held a rummage sale on the 28th of October, in Nonantum, under the able direction of Miss Priscilla Hay, chairman, and her committee. It was very successful and added materially to the treasury.

Shakespeare Club

Miss Edith M. McCann entertained the Shakespeare Club on Saturday, November 4th. Mrs. H. E. Durgin conducted the discussion on "Midsummer Night's Dream." This brought out that Shakespeare at the time he wrote this play was but a young poet, rising into the ranks of the great dramatists, and it was a hazardous undertaking to bring together classical story and the fairy mythology, but Shakespeare's joy in the possession of the poetic gift and his earliest delight in life found radiant expression in this masterpiece of poetic fancy.

On account of lack of space several recent events among the clubs are held over until next week.

Police Make Liquor Raid at Newtonville

A squad of Newton police including Captain Good, Special Officers Feeley and Mullen and Patrolman McCormick, raided the home of Amasa Jonah at 358 Linwood ave., Newtonville last Friday night and seized the following alleged liquors: one gallon of alcohol, two quarts of rum, four pints of whiskey. The raid followed an alleged sale of a pint of liquor by Jonah to Patrolman McCormick. Jonah was arrested charged with making an illegal sale of liquor and with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. He was arraigned in the Newton court on Monday and his case was continued until November 17.

Fine Woman $110 For Topsy Driving

Christina Johnson, 26, of 217 Plymouth rd., Newton Highlands, was fined $100 in the Newton court on Wednesday by Judge Bacon for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. She was also fined $10 for drunkenness. She appealed. She was arrested one night recently when the car she was driving hit a police car occupied by Patrolmen Dalton and McGrath.

Cars Crash At Lower Falls; Two Men Arrested

A car driven by Gertrude Gann of Kingsbury st., Wellesley was in collision at 11:49 Saturday night on Washington st., near Grove st., Newton Lower Falls with a car driven by John Finnegan of Somerville. Miss Gann, Mrs. Rose Gann of the same address, and Mrs. Avis Shamitz of Oak st., Wellesley, received injuries and were taken to the Newton Hospital. Finnegan and Albert Friberg, also of Somerville, received cuts on their faces. Following the crash both were arrested by Serg. Leehan and Patrolman Goodale and Davis charged with drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. The latter charge was placed against Friberg as he was the owner of the car and permitted Finnegan to drive it although the latter had no license in his possession. The two were arraigned in the Newton court on Monday and their trial was continued until November 21.

More Trichinosis Cases In Newton

Three more cases of trichinosis were reported to the Newton Board of Health this week. The disease is quite rare in this section and several cases reported from Chestnut Hill a few weeks ago were the first in the city for many years. Those reported as ill this week are Harold Wright of Margaret rd., Newton Highlands, and his two daughters, Barbara, 14; and Doris, 8. The diagnoses were made by Dr. Anton Fried, the physician attending the family. The victims are supposed to have contracted the sickness by eating some pork.

Newton Girl Gets State House Job

Miss Anna McMullen of 108 Adams st., Newton, who has been employed for the past few years in the Comptroller's office at Newton City Hall, will terminate her duties there tomorrow. She has accepted a position in the office of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission at the State House in Boston.

Will Hold Exam for Police Lieutenancy

As a result of a protest made by the sergeants of the Newton police department the State Civil Service Commission has again reversed its decision and another examination will be held to fill the vacancy now existing in the rank of lieutenant. An examination was held several months ago for the office of captain. Lieutenant Veducio received the highest rating and was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Veducio's promotion. The request was denied. Soon afterwards a new chairman of the Civil Service Commission was appointed and he ruled that Mahoney could be appointed lieutenant. The protest from the other nine sergeants in the department followed.

Man Stabbed In W. Newton House

Gordon Rouse, 23, of 46 Harris road, West Newton, was stabbed in the left cheek in a brawl that occurred at a house on Hicks street, West Newton, yesterday morning at about 3 o'clock. Fred Young, 29, colored, of 129 Hicks street, was arrested, charged with assaulting Rouse with a dangerous weapon. He was arraigned in the Newton court and held in $1000 bonds for trial on November 22. Rouse was taken to the Newton Hospital and seven stitches were taken to close the wound in his face.

According to the police, Rouse and three other young men who are members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, went to the Hicks street house to get liquor. It is alleged that a fight followed and that Young hit Rouse with a jug and then stabbed him.

Will Speak on Air Experiences

Richard Halliburton, the youthful romanticist and raconteur, will speak at the John W. Weeks Junior High School on Friday, Nov. 24 at 8 p. m. He will tell of his trip in the "Flying Carpet," his black, gold and scarlet plane in which he traveled from California, to New York, London, France, Timbuctoo, wherever his spirit moved. The lecture is given by the Newton Centre Neighborhood Club for the benefit of its scholarship fund. Assisting Mrs. Lincoln Alvord, chairman of the entertainment committee are: Miss Editha Ewing, Mrs. Lawrence Clark, Mrs. Glenn Lawrence, Miss Eleanor Phillips, Mrs. Walter T. Third Annual Series Of Lectures Planned At W. New. Church

H. J. Forman, Editor of "Literary Digest" First Speaker

For the third year the Unitarian Church in West Newton is arranging for a series of Sunday Lectures and Recitals by internationally famous men and women. The course will open on November 19th when Henry James Forman, the News Editor of "The Literary Digest" and Managing Editor of "Collier's," who has done intensive work in studying the effect of the movies on young people will speak on "What the Movies do to Our Children." On December 3rd, Miss Selma Ekrem, one of the leading literary people of the new Turkey and author of that amazing autobiography "Unveiled," will discuss "Young Turkey Looks Westward." December 17th, Sir Norman Angell, the world famous Publicist, author of "The Great Illusion," "The Future of Victory," etc., will speak on "Causes of the Present Chaos." Please note that this one lecture is at 4 p. m. On Wednesday evening, December 20th, the Reverend Herbert Hitchen, Minister of the church will, by request, give a Christmas reading, when he will dramatically interpret Walter de la Mare's mid-winter night's dream "Crossings." This is the only number in the series which is not on Sunday. January 7th, Sisley Huddleston, Diplomat and author, the political representative of "The Christian Science Monitor" will discuss "Can Europe Avoid War?" On January 21st, C. E. M. Joad, the distinguished British Philosopher, of the University of London will lecture on "The Responsibility of This Generation to the Next." On February 4th, Dr. Bruno Roselli, the celebrated authority on Italian culture and world affairs will speak on "Wanted: Larger Men for a Smaller World." February 18th, Patrick Braxford, the distinguished British critic, Biographer and Novelist, who is the cousin of G. K. Chesterton and has written books on Shaw, Galsworthy, Hardy, etc., will lecture on "Post War England Speaks." March 4th, Laurence Binyon, the famous English Poet, Keeper of Prints and Drawings in the British Museum, who has come to Harvard this year to deliver the Charles Eliot Norton lectures, will give a recital from his own work and that of other English poets. All lectures, with the two exceptions noted above, will be on Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock and will be preceded by a half hour recital by William Ellis Weston, the organist of the church. These are public lectures and all who are interested are most cordially invited. No charge for admission will be made but a collection is taken to defray expenses.

Blue Eagle Day At Newton Corner

Business men of Newton Corner are arranging for a big day on Thursday, November 23rd, to stimulate business in that section and to give residents of all the Newtons opportunities to obtain some of the greatest bargains ever offered in this city. Starting on Tuesday, November 21st, Newton Corner will be decorated with cloth banners stressing "Blue Eagle Day." Flags and bunting will also be displayed. On Wednesday evening, November 22nd, a parade will be held in which the Legion band, civic and fraternal organizations and the Mayor and members of the city government will participate. The affair is under the auspices of the Newton Business Associates, headed by Wilfred Chagnon, president. Every merchant at Newton Corner has signed the N. R. A. agreement and the Blue Eagle Day is being planned to give the public an opportunity to co-operate.

Parents' Night At Newtonville

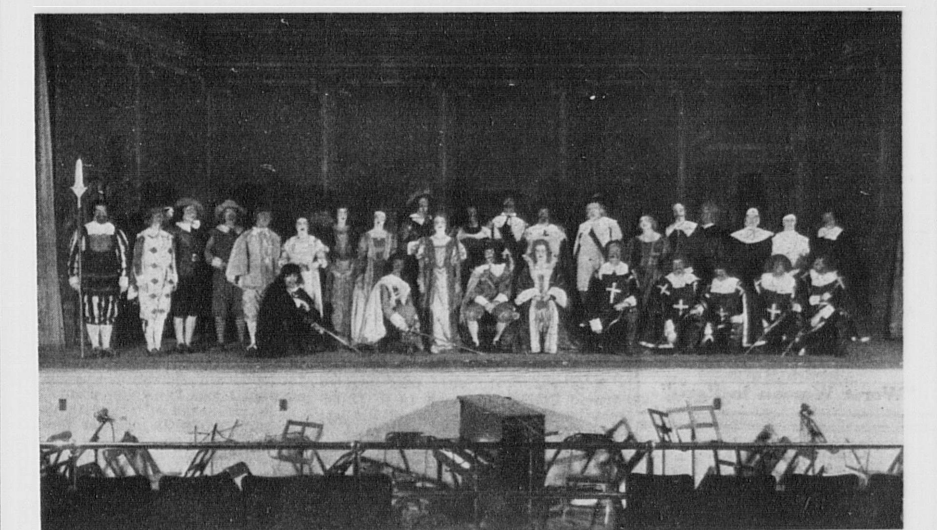

The Adams, Cladin, and Horace Mann Schools are combining for the annual Parents' Night next Tuesday evening, November 21st. Instead of meeting in the respective schools, all three buildings are uniting at the F. A. Day Junior High School where John Lund, Superintendent of Schools, will present the new scheme of pupil guidance and accounting, and Herbert A. Landry, director of Research and Guidance, will explain some of the details involved. At the conclusion of the talks, there will be a chance for discussion from the floor. The building will be open from 7:30 to 9:45 so that there will be opportunity before and after the auditorium meeting at 8 for parents to meet the teachers and see samples of their children's work. The F. A. Day orchestra will furnish music. While primarily for parents of the Horace Mann district, the meeting is open to anyone interested in the Newton schools.

Newton High Faculty to Present "Three Musketeers" As Annual Play

Raymond Green Plays Lead, With John Lund, Paul Elicker and Carl Swan in the Roles of "The Three Musketeers"

The Newton Community Chest and the Peter J. Kuntz fund will be joint beneficiaries of the annual Newton High School Faculty play, "The Three Musketeers."

CAST OF 1933 FACULTY PLAY—"THE THREE MUSKETEERS"

Standing, left to right—Howard T. Ferguson, Lucille Burnham, Carl P. Birmingham, Charles B. Harrington, Charles H. Mergendahl, Helen Nute, Elna Peterson, Helen Maguire, Raymond A. Green, Roberta Miller, Paul E. Elicker, John Lund, Carl L. Swan, Edward N. Griffin, Mrs. Edith N. Newcomb, T. Jerome Cutting, Lester E. Williams, Gladys M. Bigelow, Ruth M. Simon, Noel G. Cottrell. Sitting or kneeling, left to right—Charles W. Peterson, Walter M. Taylor, Frances S. Foster, Roxanna Holden, Ralph M. Sanborn, Charles R. Considine, Donald G. Enoch, Frank M. Simmons, F. Ewing Wilson.

"Three Musketeers," which will be presented at the high school auditorium tonight and tomorrow night. With a participating cast of over thirty and with a total of more than eighty faculty members in the cast and aiding as members of the various committees the 1933 affair is involving considerable more effort than any other faculty production since the outstanding hit, "Treasure Island," staged in 1931. The famous book, "The Three Musketeers," as presented on the stage offers active roles for many of the characters. A sword fight for which eight members of the faculty have been training under the able leadership of a Sargent School swordsman, features the first act. When the curtain falls at the conclusion of the performance eight members of the cast have met death in various ways but fortunately will be permitted to play the same role at the second performance. Mrs. Edith E. Newcomb gives a polished performance in her role as Milady, conspirator with T. Jerome Cutting who plays the part of Cardinal Richelieu in an attempt to gain control of France, along with Raymond A. Green, as Raoul d'Artagnan. Playing the lead, Mr. Green has the opportunity to display his remarkable versatility as an actor and this he does in his customary excellent fashion. His exploits save the Queen (Roxanna Holden) from disgrace.

City Farm Raised Large Quantity Of Vegetables

Products Valued at $6377 Supply Food for Unemployed

The report of the result of the operation of the farm at Oak Hill conducted by the City of Newton under the supervision of Ernest Hermann, superintendent of Newton playgrounds, shows that crops were produced estimated to have a value of $6377.50. These crops included 4500 bushels of potatoes, valued at $1 the bushel; 60 tons of squash valued at one cent the pound; 500 bushels of beets, valued at 35 cents the bushel; 6 tons of cabbage, valued at one cent per pound; 100 bushels of carrots, valued at 3 cents per pound; 1200 pounds of kidney beans, valued at 5 1/2 cents per pound. Receipts from the sale of these vegetables to date include—sale of beets to Winn Ricker, $64.85; sale of potatoes to Laseil Seminary, $90; vegetables sold to Newton Centre Market, $232.34; to Guzzi's Market, $271.75. The former market had the October contract for supplying food to the people of Newton receiving aid from the Welfare Department; Guzzi had the September contract and is supplying food for the month of November. The expenses of running the farm totalled $15,408.24. They were itemized as follows: bags, $73.75; lime and fertilizer, $950; seeds, $275; boxes, $21; shelter, $111.25; root cellar, $450; repairs on truck and gasoline, $550; hire of trucks and teams, $640; tools, $480; labor, $11,587.24. The labor was supplied by the Welfare Department, a number of unemployed men having been given work on the farm for several months. It is planned to sell the balance of the products of the farm to whoever receives the contracts for supplying food to the poor of Newton during the coming months.

Doctor Dies In Car At Newtonville

Dr. Frank L. Richardson of 164 Highland avenue, West Newton, died suddenly about 9 o'clock yesterday morning while driving his car on Lowell avenue, Newtonville. The automobile swerved off the street, entered the high school athletic field between the wire fence and the bleachers, crossed the baseball field and crashed into the wooden bleachers on the Hull street side of the field. Persons who heard the crash rushed to the doctor's assistance and the police ambulance was summoned. Dr. Richardson was rushed to the Newton Hospital and was pronounced dead upon arrival there. His death was caused by heart failure. Dr. Richardson was born in Concord and after studying at Mass. Institute of Technology he entered Harvard Medical School. After graduating he became associated with the surgical division of Boston City Hospital. He became the head of the anaesthesia department of that hospital and was also consultant on this specialty for the Children's Hospital and Both Israel Hospital. He was a lecturer on this subject at Tufts Medical School. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Constance Mathey Richardson; and two sons, Paul H. and David A. Richardson, both students at Mass. Inst. of Technology. His funeral service will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 at the First Unitarian Church, West Newton; Rev. Herbert Hitchen will officiate.

Football Night At M. E. Church In Auburndale

The regular monthly meeting of the Centenary Men's Club will be held in the Parish House of the Centenary Methodist Church, Auburndale, on next Wednesday evening, November 22, at eight o'clock. The guests and speakers include Dean Frederick Rand Rogers and Coach John M. Harmon of Boston University, Dave Mischel, former member of the famous Brown Ironmen, together with several college players of the current season. A musical and a musical program has been arranged, and a buffet luncheon will be served afterwards. All men of the community are invited.

Newton-Waltham Football Game at N'ville Saturday

High School Teams Evenly Matched in 27th Game

Tomorrow afternoon is the time, Dickinson Stadium is the place, and the Newton-Waltham annual gridiron game is the attraction. Local supporters of the Newton eleven will tax the seating capacity of the Newton stands along with the thousands of Waltham supporters who will trek from the Watch City to the scene of the conflict. There is more than the usual interest in this game between the two close rivals because of the fact that Newton has a chance, and a good chance, to defeat the Watch City outfit. And it will mean the first setback for Coach Leary's outfit which started off the season in great fashion only to strike a snag and escape with tie games in its last two battles. Thus Waltham will be endeavoring to retain its standing as one of the few undefeated teams of the state although it has some tough battles ahead after the Newton game and is by no means certain of such success even though it does defeat the orange and black. One of its remaining opponents is Brockton, conquerors of the Newton eleven 14 to 0 but since defeated by Malden and Fitchburg, Newton has everything to gain and nothing to lose in tomorrow's affair while Waltham has little to gain and a lot to lose. Coach Sanborn's Newton eleven, starting with but a few veterans but with considerable undeveloped green material, has come along and approaches the objective contests with Waltham and Brockton in a far improved manner over the eleven that took the field in the opening game against Arlington. The orange and black has met with three defeats, succumbing to the veteran Arlington team in the first game, next to Everett, one of the outstanding teams in the state and undefeated until last Saturday, and again to Brockton. Its victories over Cambridge Latin, Watertown, and Quincy have been by a margin which was more or less expected in view of the calibre of those opponents. But since the Brockton defeat which followed the Quincy victory the team has progressed rapidly. Two weeks ago the orange and black Tech, which succumbed to Waltham in an early season game by a score of 6 to 2, and the victory practically assured the Newton team of retaining (Continued on Page 2)

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON SCORES TWICE IN FIVE MINUTES TO TOP MANCHESTER 13-7

Manchester High of New Hampshire suffered its third straight defeat at the hands of a Massachusetts high school eleven last Saturday when Newton High tallied thirteen points in less than five minutes to walk off with a 13-7 victory. Newton lost another opportunity to score when a pass slid off the ends of Jimmy Byrne's fingers as he stumbled and fell into the Manchester end zone. Had he not been off balance he could easily have held the ball.

Manchester started off early in the game as though it meant to tear the Newton team to shreds. Taking the ball on its 22-yard line a few minutes after the kick-off the Manchester backs reeled off gains of 12, 15, 18 and 22 yards and a 78-yard march culminated in a touchdown and the point after. For the remainder of the half neither team had much of an advantage with the play inside of the opposing 30-yard stripes the greater part of the time.

The Newton team came back after the rest between the halves with grim determination written on their faces. Receiving the kick-off a short march was begun and then a long kick bounded around near the Manchester 15-yard line. Halfback Dubisz, star Manchester ball carrier, tried to clutch the elusive oval but failed. Castoldi, Newton end, slid in under Dubisz as he dove for the ball and it was Newton's ball. The opportunity seemed to inspire the Newton eleven and a deceptive forward pass play with Frazier on the receiving end was good for the touchdown. Charlie Mascia's goal was the tying point.

Newton kicked off and with its line outchugging the Manchester forwards forced a loss of nine yards in two plays and the visitors went into punt formation with Dubisz back. On the pass from centre the Newton line broke through. Finberg, Newton end, leading several of his mates blocked the ball and it bounded off his chest to the goal line twenty yards away. Savignano, Newton reserve back, led the rush for the ball and pounced on it just before it crossed the goal and it was Newton's ball a foot from the line. Mascia took one dive through the line and Newton was in the lead, 13 to 7. Mascia's try for the point was blocked by Clayton.

While the complexion of the game had changed suddenly in the first five minutes of play in the second half the outcome was decidedly uncertain. The visitors fought valiantly to tie the score and late in the third period started a march that seemed almost a duplication of its first-period touchdown. Newton's line held the Manchester back. The Newton back was practically free and clear except for Dubisz whose dive missed holding Sloan back and tripped him. An offside set Newton back and a play or two later the Newton line broke through the Manchester line. Newton was in the lead, 20 to 7. Newton's line held the Manchester back. The Newton back was practically free and clear except for Dubisz whose dive missed holding Sloan back and tripped him. An offside set Newton back and a play or two later the Newton line broke through the Manchester line. Newton was in the lead, 20 to 7.

Norman Appleyard, Newton sophomore at Brown, figured in Brown's 10 to 7 victory over Syracuse last Saturday. Midway of the third period the Bears tallied a field goal and less than three minutes later a touchdown on a 44-yard advance. On the Syracuse 44-yard line Karahan tossed a 10-yard pass to Appleyard and down the sidelines streaked the former Newton high athlete. Eluding three tackles the Newton lad was brought down from behind on the nine yard line. Karahan then hit the line for three rushes and the score, Bob Chapin of Newton Centre played the entire game at left end for Brown.

Elena Ciccone Wins Title
Elena Ciccone won the girls high school tennis tournament by defeating Lillian Mancini in the final round match recently. The match was close with Miss Ciccone winning by scores of 6-4, 3-6, 7-5. Miss Ciccone won from Barbara Kimball and "Tiny" Green to enter the finals. Miss Mancini defeated Carolyn Everts, team captain, to reach the final round.

First Period

Mascia kicked off to the Manchester 20. Dubisz ran it back 10 yards. Swig nailed Jones for a 3-yd. loss. Dubisz hit the Newton left tackle for 5 yds and then kicked to Flag on the Newton 37. Flag was downed on the Newton 37. A short pass from Flag to Mascia freed the latter for a 15 yd. gain and Newton first down on the Manchester 47. Frazier was set back 3 yds. by Zitrides. McCarthy made no gain and after an incomplete pass from Flag to Frazier the former kicked outside at the Manchester 22. Dubisz picked up 4 yds. at left tackle and Pasciak got loose for an 18 yd. jaunt to the 44 yd. line where Flag saved a touchdown with a neat tackle. A spinner by Pasciak netted 2 yds. and a similar play with Zadjel carrying sent the Manchester quarterback along for a 20-yard gain and a second first down on the Newton 35. Two rushes by Pasciak made it first down again on the Newton 23 as the visitors advanced. A 5 yd. offside penalty set the visitors back but Dubisz gained 9 yards, Pasciak 1 and Dubisz 5 more for a measured first down on the Newton 13. Pasciak picked up 2 yds. and Dubisz 7 at the tackles and then Pasciak carried over through guard for the touchdown. Clayton's kick was perfect for the point after.

RAY WINS ROTARY
GOLF CUP IN FINAL

Cups were awarded to the finalists of the annual golf tournament of the Newton Rotary Club to Benjamin G. Rae, Treasurer of the Futurity Thread Company, the winner of the tournament, and Paul E. Ellicker, Principal of the Newton High School, runner up.

The large, beautiful, vase shaped cup becomes the permanent possession of Mr. Rae who had twice previously won the cup, in 1926 and 1929. This cup has been in competition since 1924 and bears the names of the annual winners:

1924 George J. Martin.
1925 William T. Halliday.
1926 Benjamin G. Rae.
1927 Henry Watters.
1928 Andrew J. Ford.
1929 Benjamin G. Rae.
1930 Harry H. Hanson.
1931 Thomas Goodwin.
1932 George J. Martin.

The final match was played at

Woodland Golf Club and Rae won over Ellicker 3 and 1 with a score of 81.

Frazier took Clayton's kickoff on the Newton goal line and fought his way back to the Newton 27. Flag gained a half yard and Treannie, who had relieved McCarthy, gained five before Newton punted to Dubisz on the Manchester 30. Capt. Thompson forced the runner outside near mid-field after an 18 yd. runback. Pasciak gained 13 yards in two plays, Manchester first down on the Newton 38. Wi-back and Joyce stopped Zadjel and Pasciak for a net three yard gain as the period ended.

Second Period

Dubisz made a little more than four yards but it was not a first down and it was Newton's ball on the Newton 30-yd. stripe. Newton was offside and drew a 5 yd. penalty. Feola and Sloan replaced Mascia and Frazier. Feola reeled off 12 yds. but was stopped by Kalarotis. Manchester end, as he was breaking into the clear. A short pass, Flag to Feola gained five yards and a first down on the Newton 41. Sloan fumbled and recovered for a yard loss which Treannie got back. Sloan kicked to the Manchester 20 and Dubisz got back but a scant 2 yards. Dubisz picked up 9 yds. and Pasciak 4 for a first down. Finberg nailed Pasciak for a yard loss but Pasciak more than got it back with a 9 yard gain which Castoldi finally stopped. Dubisz picked up 2 yds. for another first down. Another 5 yd. gain by Dubisz was nullified when Castoldi threw Zadjel for the loss of the same distance and Dubisz kicked. Feola received at the Newton 33. Neidwieski was held to no gain. Grow and Johnson stopped Pasciak at a yard. A Dubisz pass to Kalarotis was incomplete and O'Neill and Grow stopped Pasciak at a 3 yard gain to give Newton the ball on downs on the Newton 28. Flag got loose for 16 yards on a spinner for a Newton first down. A Flag to Feola pass gained 14 yards and another first down after two plays gained but little. Flag 2 yards and Feola 3 preceded another Flag to Feola pass for 7 yards more for a first down on the Manchester 29-yard line. Sloan picked up 3 yards through the line and then carried on a play through left tackle. Getting into the Manchester secondary he cut to his left and was off for the goal-line with only Dubisz to stop him. The latter missed a clean tackle but tripped the Newton back for a first down on the 3 yard line. Feola could not gain. Clayton stopped Flag for a yard loss and on offside set Newton back to the 8-yard line. Kalarotis stopped Feola for a yard advance and Flag's pass to Byrne eluded the Newton end by inches. Manchester took the ball and put it in play on their 20-yard stripe. Pasciak picked up 2 yards at right tackle. A Dubisz to Murphy pass gained 20 yards and Feola nailed the Manchester receiver in mid-air after he had leaped for the pass. The toss turned Murphy over in a complete somersault. Pasciak made 2 yards and Connor two more on a pass from Dubisz. Another pass, Dubisz to Pasciak was a half yard shy of a first down which Pasciak made on a 4 yard line plunge to the Newton 40. Dubisz, from punt formation, found no one to pass to and was forced to run with the ball. He made a four yard gain and on the next play passed to Zadjel for a nine yard advance for a first down on the Newton 26-yard line. Another fake pass and run by Dubisz was stopped by Flag for a two-yard loss and O'Neill intercepted a pass by Dubisz to end the game.

WALTHAM COMES TO

The Suburban league championship for a second successive year. Last Saturday the Newton boys came from behind to spring a surprise defeat on a Manchester outfit that is rated highly. While Manchester outtrushed the Newton team in first downs the Newton victory was well-deserved. It came as a result of capitalizing on the mistakes of the opponents. It was in a similar manner that Newton conquered the visiting Quincy eleven a few weeks ago. The Newton eleven has an offence that has shown flashes of consistency which if sustained for a long enough period have resulted in scores. It has shown marked defensive ability holding the strong Everett offence from crossing the Newton goal for almost three whole periods before the strenuous task wore the team down. Newton stopped a Rindge attack and last week halted Manchester on two occasions after the visitors had advanced well into Newton territory. In addition the Newton team has shown an aggressiveiveness that has forced opponents mistakes and thus presented an opportunity to capitalize upon them. This trait of the Newton team was markedly apparent against Manchester. The line had a fast charge which swept the opposing line off its feet and it was in this manner that Newton's success is continued against Waltham. It may again produce the desired result.

Waltham is far from beaten, however, as it takes more than a paper comparison of the two elevens to decide a winner in the Newton-Waltham game. In past years the underdog has frequently risen to great heights and upset its favored opponents. Waltham, in view of its undefeated record, probably deserves a paper edge over the Newton eleven. It has shown a versatile attack in many of its games but the loss of Fazio, a key man in the Watch City backfield, has disrupted a smooth-moving machine. This is evident in the scoreless tie with Medford last and as the Medford eleven is notably weak offensively, Waltham is regarded as quite strong defensively. Watertown, which lost a 19 to 7 game at Newton, sprung one of the surprises of the season in tying Waltham other Newton players to the ball on the 1-foot line. Mascia hit the line for the score but Clayton blocked his try for point, holding Newton to a 13 to 7 lead. Castoldi kicked off and Pasciak almost got loose on a touchdown romp. Mascia brought him down with a game-saving tackle at mid-field near the sideline. Fall to gain Dubisz kicked and Flag got back 10 yards to the Newton 34. Frazier made a quick kick catching Manchester by surprise and Dubisz was brought down by Flag on the Manchester 13-yard line. Newton held and Dubisz, standing on his goal line, kicked out to the Manchester 35 yd. stripe where Frazier was hit in his tracks but was not downed until he had dodged his way forward for nearly five yards making a net gain of 33 yards for Newton on the exchange of kicks. Newton was penalized for offside on the next play and a bad pass set Flag back for two more. On fourth down Sloan replaced Frazier, kicked over the Manchester goal. Putting the ball in play on their 20 yard stripe Manchester got going again. Pasciak reeled off gains of 14 and 10 yards at the Newton left tackle for two successive first downs to the Manchester 45-yard line as the period ended.

Fourth Period

Dubisz hit the line for 8 yards in two plays and Pasciak made it first down again with two yards more to the Newton 44. Dubisz slipped and was smothered for a loss of 5 yards offset by an 8 yard gain by Pasciak. A pass, Dubisz to Connor gained 7 yards for a first down on the Newton 33. Neidwieski was held to no gain. Grow and Johnson stopped Pasciak at a yard. A Dubisz pass to Kalarotis was incomplete and O'Neill and Grow stopped Pasciak at a 3 yard gain to give Newton the ball on downs on the Newton 28. Flag got loose for 16 yards on a spinner for a Newton first down. A Flag to Feola pass gained 14 yards and another first down after two plays gained but little. Flag 2 yards and Feola 3 preceded another Flag to Feola pass for 7 yards more for a first down on the Manchester 29-yard line. Sloan picked up 3 yards through the line and then carried on a play through left tackle. Getting into the Manchester secondary he cut to his left and was off for the goal-line with only Dubisz to stop him. The latter missed a clean tackle but tripped the Newton back for a first down on the 3 yard line. Feola could not gain. Clayton stopped Flag for a yard loss and on offside set Newton back to the 8-yard line. Kalarotis stopped Feola for a yard advance and Flag's pass to Byrne eluded the Newton end by inches. Manchester took the ball and put it in play on their 20-yard stripe. Pasciak picked up 2 yards at right tackle. A Dubisz to Murphy pass gained 20 yards and Feola nailed the Manchester receiver in mid-air after he had leaped for the pass. The toss turned Murphy over in a complete somersault. Pasciak made 2 yards and Connor two more on a pass from Dubisz. Another pass, Dubisz to Pasciak was a half yard shy of a first down which Pasciak made on a 4 yard line plunge to the Newton 40. Dubisz, from punt formation, found no one to pass to and was forced to run with the ball. He made a four yard gain and on the next play passed to Zadjel for a nine yard advance for a first down on the Newton 26-yard line. Another fake pass and run by Dubisz was stopped by Flag for a two-yard loss and O'Neill intercepted a pass by Dubisz to end the game.

6 to 6. This game does not indicate Waltham's strength, however, as the Watch City outfit was having an "off" day.

In tomorrow's affair there is no favorite. The game is regarded as a toss-up with the fact that Waltham has been fading in recent contests while Newton has been improving making an almost even choice between the two. It is quite probable that both teams will score but it is quite improbable that either team will make the game a one-sided contest.

Neither of the elevens will be at full strength so that neither team will have the advantage of the other because of injuries to its regular players. Waltham will probably be without the services of Jimmy Fazio while it is said that Jimmy Connolly may also be one of action with a heavy cold and gripe. Fazio injured a shoulder muscle in the Watertown game and while he was in uniform the middle of the week the arm was apparently in poor shape. The injury is also of such a nature that it cannot be protected readily and the constant use of the arm in tackling, passing or straight arming might aggravate it.

Newton will be without the services of Roerhig, Wisbach and Young, three guards who have been playing as regularly as any of the Newton guards. Roerhig is out with a "charley horse." Wisbach may be in shape to play. Captain Charley Thompson is another doubtful line starter as is "Red" McCarthy in the backfield. Thompson's misplaced rib has been causing considerable discomfort and he has played under the handicap of a special jacket which has protected him sufficiently but has affected his sterling play. McCarthy, who returned to the line-up last week after recovering from an ankle injury, has been out of action much of the week with an attack of laryngitis. The loss of McCarthy has been offset by the return of Bob Whitney to his position as a blocking back. An attempt has been made to improve the guard situation by switching Balkus, a former tackle, to a reserve guard berth along with Damon. This pair will substitute for Roerhig and Sam Miller, the probable starters. Melvin Swig, a tackle, has been moved back to the centre berth where he formerly played as a reserve for Thompson and will probably get the call over O'Neill if Thompson is not in shape to play. O'Neill will be called upon for replacement is necessary. Grow and Rich, the latter another returning lineman, will be the likely starting tackles as Herbert Smith has become scholastically ineligible. Halliday and Clevenger will be the reserve tackles. The latter, along with Wilbur Powers, third string tackle, became eligible on Monday. Clevenger tips the scales at 215 pounds and Wilson at 216 pounds. Both have had but little experience but Coach Sanborn has hopes of their development. Castoldi and Byrne will start at the ends, the former having won a starting berth by virtue of his play against Manchester. Howe and Finberg will be the reserve ends. Charlie Flag, Charlie Mascia, Dick Frazier and Bob Whitney will start in the backfield with the "pony" quartet of Feola, Neidwieski, Connor and Sloan ready to go when the opportunity presents itself.

The comparative records of the two teams and the summary of the scores of former Newton-Waltham contests are of much interest, the contest tomorrow being the 27th between the two schools in a series which dates back to 1904. Two interruptions occurred in the series the first at the time of the war of one year duration and the second following the well-remembered "sideline coaching penalty" in 1925. The series was resumed in 1928 and has been interrupted since. In the entire series Waltham has a decided edge of 12 victories, six ties and eight Newton victories but in late years Newton has more than held its own. Nine of the dozen Waltham victories were prior to 1913. Then came three successive ties as the pendulum began to swing. Alie Dickinson, beloved Newton coach, started Newton on the victory path against Waltham with six wins, one tie and one defeat in the period from 1917 to 1925. When the series was resumed in 1928 the noted Bill Pendergast almost single handedly defeated the orange and black by comfortable margins but in the succeeding two years Newton triumphed. Last year a scoreless tie resulted and whether or not a tie is in the making for 1933 remains to be seen. Coach Sanborn has yet to see a Waltham eleven triumph over Newton. Coach Leary of Waltham since he took over the reins there in 1920 has three wins and two ties against six losses.

The summary of scores:

1904—Waltham 25, Newton 0.
1905—Waltham 0, Newton 0.
1906—Waltham 6, Newton 0.
1907—Waltham 11, Newton 0.
1908—Waltham 12, Newton 0.
1909—Waltham 41, Newton 0.
1910—Waltham 3, Newton 0.
1911—Waltham 2, Newton 0.
1912—Waltham 3, Newton 0.
1913—Waltham 30, Newton 0.
1914—Waltham 6, Newton 6.

1915—Waltham 0, Newton 0.
1916—Waltham 6, Newton 6.
1917—Newton 22, Waltham 13.
1918—Newton 19, Waltham 0.
1919—Newton 14, Waltham 0.
1921—Newton 27, Waltham 0.
1922—Waltham 25, Newton 7.
1923—Waltham 7, Newton 7.
1924—Newton 20, Waltham 7.
1925—Waltham 9, Waltham 7.
1926—Waltham 14, Newton 0.
1929—Waltham 26, Newton 6.
1930—Newton 7, Waltham 0.
1931—Newton 19, Waltham 6.

Weeks Junior H. S.

The Assembly entertainment of Wednesday, November 15, was produced by members of the Seventh Grade under the general direction of Frances Brezner.

The program included: Piano Solo, by Christine Cameron, Marion Koehler and Carolyn Cooke; a Minuet, danced by Dawn Eaton, Geraldine Basler, Deborah Bradford, Ruth McLaughlin, Clifford Goodband, Billy Ellingwood, Richard Danner and Walter Jewett with the accompaniment of Madeline McDuff; a Reading, by Shirley Green; a Scarf dance, by Evelyn Endresen, accompanied by Sylvia Eaton; and a play, managed by Anita Chapman and costumes by Francis Hamill and Elizabeth Monroe.

Characters in the play were Deborah Bradford, Marie Harper, Virginia Coleman, Merrick Farrar, John Dorson, Christine Cameron, Jean Harvey and Evelyn Endresen.

This year the members of the home room program committee have been selected from both the faculty and the student council of the school. The committee is composed of the following: Kenneth Nelson, Ada Merriam, and Stewart Paterson for the students; Katherine A. Walker, Katherine Wilder, and Radcliffe Morrill for the faculty.

The first call for candidates for varsity basketball has been issued by Mr. Norman MacConnell, director of boys athletics. Election of class captains is also under way.

The first 1933-1934 issue of the Weeks Junior World will be on sale on December 15. It is being printed by the boys in the practical Arts department at the present time. The staff includes the editor-in-chief, Hugh Tomb; business managers, Marjorie Dow and Richard Lovell; Assemblies, Carolyn Harrigan; Library, Mary Harris; Foreign Page, Dorothy Goldstein and Flora Mariotti; Science, Shirley Cline, Dorothy Myers; Hobbies, Michael Golden; Puzzles, Helen Aaronson. The cover, a colorful holiday greeting of itself, was designed by Phyllis Appleyard and executed in linoleum block by Angus Miller.

Day Jr. High School

Through the courtesy of Mrs. James Mattson the school was fortunate in seeing at assembly the Iver Johnson travel film of the Chicago World's Fair produced for that firm by Burton Holmes. An additional film of the fair entitled Wheels of Progress was also shown. College songs were among the numbers played by the school band.

The All-Eighth Grade assembly of Nov. 15 consisted of oral and instrumental music, a tap dance, athletic stunts and lantern slides on the Story of the Holy Grail. Sidney Guberman was announcer.

The open night for parents on American Education week was well attended by over three hundred. Lawrence Chamberlain of IKA introduced the speakers, who were members of the faculty and students. There was also a musical program by the orchestra, a trumpet solo by Lester Patterson and a solo by Janet Merrill who sang "Song of India."

The Camp Cooking club of boys made grape jelly at their last meeting and filled eighty small jars for the Disabled Veterans' Hospital at Bedford.

In October the Day Varsity lost to the Bigelow School 2-1. The Day Junior Varsity defeated the Bigelow Junior Varsity by a score of 3-0.

The following week the Day Varsity defeated the Warren School 2 to 0, while the Day Junior Varsity won 1 to 0.

The next game was played at the Weeks School. The Varsity played a hard fought 1 to 1 tie in two overtime periods. The Day Junior Varsity also played a tie 0-0 in two overtime periods.

The Bigelow came again for the second series, with the Day Varsity winning 3 to 1 and the Junior Varsity winning by a score of 3-0. Warren came the next week with the Day Varsity playing the Warren School to a 0 to 0 tie, while the Day Junior Varsity won by a score of 1 to 0.

Both teams left on the schedule to play that game being with Weeks. Both Day teams are at the top, the eighth grade (Junior Varsity) winning all their games and not scored upon.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

The Travel Club of the Bigelow Junior High School visited points of interest in Boston on Wednesday afternoon, November 15. Accompanying the party were Miss Margaret E. Osborne, Advisor of the Club, and Miss Anna M. McPhee. The party toured the new Federal Post Office Building.

In the Weather Bureau Department the instruments for recording the weather were explained to the children. The courts in the building proved of especial interest to the children.

Through the courtesy of "The Boston Globe" the party was shown through the Globe building. The children gained a vivid picture of how a newspaper is made by seeing the actual process from the linotype room to the mailing department. As a souvenir of the outing each person received his name set up in type and the edition of "The Boston Globe" which they had just seen printed.

The Bigelow Junior High School Varsity soccer team competed with the soccer team of the John Weeks Junior High School in a 2-2 tie at the Weeks' field on Thursday, November 9. The Bigelow Junior Varsity lost to the Weeks with a score of 2-0. The Bigelow team were captained by Joseph Campbell and Edgar Romilly respectively.

LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE

Plans are being made at Lasell Junior College for the faculty hockey game Thursday afternoon, Nov. 23. Eleven faculty members will play a student team. The same afternoon will be played the annual Blue and White game, concluding the hockey season, followed by a hot-dog roast and supper in Gardner Gymnasium, where heads of soccer and hockey for next year will be elected.

Vespers Sunday will be conducted by Charlotte Hawkins Brown and the Sedalia Sextette. Negro jubilee singers from Palmer Memorial School, Sedalia, N. C. This will be the first vesper service sponsored by the Missionary Society.

Village Players In Opening Play

"The Crime at Blossoms" by Mordant Shairp will be for fall presentation of the Village Players on the evenings of November 22nd, 23rd and 24th, 1933, at the Unitarian Parish Playhouse, Newton Centre. The play is being ably coached by Mr. Harry A. Tomlinson. There are twenty four members of Village Players in the cast. The principal players are: Mrs. Henry T. Dunker, Mrs. Henry H. Skelton and Robert T. Allingham. They are supported by: Miss Cornelia Wing, Edwin S. Drowne, Harry D. Swisher, Mrs. William H. Brackett, Harry E. Moore, Edwin D. Smith, Ernest Braithwaite, Mrs. Harry M. Sutton, Mrs. Gustavus F. Sargent, Miss Adele Sargent, L. Sumner Payne, Mrs. L. Sumner Payne, Mrs. Robert T. Allingham, Donald Cummins, Ralph L. Wheeler, Miss Barbara Pecknoe, Mrs. Hugo P. Geisler, Wilbur Keller, Miss Eleanor Hall, Lyman V. Banker and Dan S. Tracy.

One of the most refined murder plays of modern times is "The Crime at Blossoms." The murder is committed before the play begins, and the author, Mr. Mordant Shairp, invites interest not in the murdered woman, not the murderer, but in the people who get a kick out of visiting the scene of the crime. The best part of this play is a satire on the visitors to the Chamber of Horrors.

The committee for the season 1933-1934 are as follows: Production Directors—Mrs. Hope Thaxter Spencer, Mrs. Frank Mason, Mrs. Edward Andrews, Mrs. Gustavus Sargent.

Director of Acting—Harry A. Tomlinson.

Art Directors—Mr. and Mrs. William C. Noetzel. Assistants, Mrs. Albert W. Kidder, Mrs. Robert B. Chapin, Miss Katherine Allen, Miss Barbara Lippincott, Miss Margaret Rising, Miss Katherine Wilkins.

Property Manager—Mrs. Sutton. Mrs. Gustav Breitke.

Assistants, Mrs. James Mitchell, Wesley M. Dynes.

Publicity—Mrs. Walter Hartstone. Assistant, Miss Katherine Rand.

Tickets—Mrs. Frank L. Richardson, Mrs. Lawrence C. Farwell.

Subscriptions—Mrs. Charles P. Powers; Auditorium, Mrs. Mabel Mason; Manager of Rehearsals, Mrs. Edward Andrews; Active Membership Chairman, Charles L. Pierce; Librarian, Mrs. Farwell; Property Room, Harry D. Swisher; Assistant to Secretary, Mrs. Creese; Music chairman, Mrs. Montague Ford.

Program and Casting Committee—Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Brackett.

Playreading Committee—Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Spencer, Miss Ordway.

Coaching Staff—Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Brackett, Mr. Tomlinson.

Class in Acting—Mrs. Brackett, Class in Make-up, Mrs. Dynes, Business Manager, Mrs. Mason.

This Little Theatre organization is entering on its tenth season of activity in the community. Since the inauguration of its experimental Workshop three years ago, it has progressed from merely "putting on plays" to on three times a year, to the continuous work of a Little Theatre. Its aims are easy to understand; to give drama with a literary quality, acted and staged with sincerity and artistic simplicity,—to produce new plays by unknown writers as well as the work of standard authors,—to provide for those interested in staging, acting, designing and writing plays some opportunity to develop their ability, and especially to encourage the creative spirit of the group. Its watchword is Co-operation. It has established a workshop where ideas may be worked out in actual stage practice and during its season programs are presented monthly.

All residents of Newton who are interested in Little Theatre development are eligible for membership. It is open to all in its varied activities.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO PRESENT PLAY AT HIGHLANDS

A new and unusual play will be given by the Young People's Fellowship of St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, on Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving.

"The Tinker" is a play concerning the life of a selfish family which is altered by the influence of a fine, old character which comes into their family life.

The title role will be played by Kemp Lambert. Others in the cast include Martha Silveria, Laura Hathaway, Dan Haughey, Clifford Dow, Jr., and Harold Hockridge. The proceeds will be used to further religious work among the young people.

TO PRESENT "THE BURGLARY AT BROWNS"

Shots, screams and burglar alarms will curdle the blood and stand the hair on end and the next minute give way to gales of laughter at the presentation of the mystery farce, "The Burglary at Browns" in the Newton Y. M. C. A. hall on Saturday evening, November 18th, by the Epworth League of the Newton M. E. Church. The cast of the play includes former favorites who have contributed much to the good work of former productions by this group to the enjoyment of their audiences, as well as several new members of the cast who are certain to match the endeavors of their predecessors. The play is being coached by Mrs. George Pratt Maxim.

Dramatic Club To Open Its Season

When the curtain rings up on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 22nd, at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House a setting of gay unusual charm will be discovered for the first act of the play "Her Great Match" which is the first production of The Newton Dramatic Club—a striped tent of a gypsy fortune teller with bizarre colored chains where Miss Lillian Reifenstein who plays the part of the American heiress is helping charity by telling fortunes. A captivating Valerian prince finds his love fortune other than to his liking. The romance continues in the moonlit conservatory of the second act. A marble statue, a fountain, exotic palms and flowers form a bower for the course of true love. Which however, can't run smoothly because of a designing step-mother played by Mrs. Spencer Crossley and because of royal barriers presented by the Duchess of Bargadia acted by Mrs. Arthur Hitchcock who is also coaching the play. The third act is the interior of the home of a very wealthy Englishman and is so designed and furnished with rare Georgian damasks and furniture by Theresa McGeough of 15 John st., Brookline, that it appears to be veritably a part of a baronial home.

Besides the moving charm of the romantic plot, the enjoyment of the audience will be greatly enhanced by the gowns worn by the ladies of the cast, which have been especially selected and fitted by Theodore Inc., of Boylston st., and most courteously loaned.

The entire production is in charge of Mrs. Everett W. Varney, Mr. Ralph Emery is in charge of the business arrangements. Mrs. William Anderson has the properties chairmanship. Mrs. Ralph Boyd the costumes and Mrs. Albert W. Muther, the membership Chairman Social Affairs Mrs. Farrar Cobb.

THE NEWTON SHOW OF THE AIR

Thursday evening, November 23rd, at 7:15 p. m. at Station WLEY the Studio Famul under the personal direction of Miss Estelle G. Marsh, will sing the familiar Newton Show of the Air refrain, which was composed by Marjorie Chalmers Carleton.

The artists for the evening include The Ripley Trio, composed of Jack Ripley, violinist, Robert Ripley, cellist and Bernice Keach Ripley, piano. The soloists of the evening are Bernice Keach Ripley, soprano, and Ethel Keach Ferrin, contralto. Their program will be made up of trio selections, solos, and duets. They will be accompanied at the piano by Dorothy Schipper.

The Dramatic Reader is Hortense Creede Rallsback, who needs no introduction in the Newtons. Her many admirers and friends long have been anticipating this broadcast. Mrs. Rallsback also is to sing to the microphone on Thursday evening, December 7th.

This broadcast is the tenth of a series of thirteen broadcasts of the Newton Show of the Air, brought weekly by Miss Estelle G. Marsh, who also announces the programs. The entire series will have introduced around one hundred different artists before Station WLEY.

Thanksgiving evening will bring an evening of music long to be remembered, the program being announced next week.

RADIO ROBINS CONCERT

The children's chorus of Newton Centre, known as the "Radio Robins," an organization of young singers, ages from five to eleven years, announce their first concert, to be held on the evening of Wednesday, November 29th, in Trinity parish house.

The club now is opening a waiting list for prospective members, as there are thirty-five active members, and the director feels this is a large enough group.

The Thanksgiving eve concert will consist of choruses by the entire club, several solo numbers by both girls and boys, a violin solo, recitations and a one-act play by members of the "Little Players," a small group especially selected for their interest in affairs histrionic.

On the evening of December 23rd, in the playground house, the club will present a very lovely Christmas pageant, being assisted in the carol singing by the young ladies of the Ne Plus Ultra, the club of High School girls, also under direction of Mrs. Russell.

Officers of the Radio Robins are: President, Gloria Florin; Secretary, Joan Dierdorff; Treasurer, Walter Bowman.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Cars driven by Orville Casely of Quincy and Ben Janucci of Plymouth collided on Monday afternoon at 3:30 opposite 807 Washington street, Newtonville. Casely's car went over the sidewalk and stopped as it crashed into the thin rail fence which tops a high wall above the railroad tracks. Three occupants of Janucci's car were reported as having received injuries.

Cars driven by Mary Coleman of 51 North street, Newton Centre, and Francis Rouillard of Malden crashed at Walnut and Centre streets, Newton Centre, on Monday. Occupants of both cars claimed to have received injuries.

A car driven by Ruth Morgan of 292 Otis st., West Newton skidded on Chestnut st. last Saturday night and hit two cars parked nearby. One of the cars struck was owned by Kenneth McComiskey of Washington st., West Newton and the other by James Wilkey of Milton.

TWIN IGNITION in a Low-Priced Car

1934 Nash Big Six Brougham, $795, f. o. b. Kenosha, Wis.

1934 NASH

EVERYBODY expected Nash to do something brilliant in designing the 1934 Nash—and sure enough, the new Nash "Speedstream" style simply sparkles with grace, smartness and good taste.

And everybody expected Nash to step out and go the limit in making its 1934 models crowning examples of motoring luxury.

But who would have thought it possible for Nash or any manufacturer to go so far as to power the lowest-priced models of a new line like the higher-priced models, with Twin Ignition valve-in-head motors?

That's exactly what Nash has done—in spite of rising manufacturing costs—in spite of the greater cost of building a Twin Ignition valve-in-head motor—and in spite of the fact that Twin Ignition never before has been engineered into a car selling under $1,200!

There's almost a magic difference between a motor car with Twin Ignition and one without it. You can feel the difference in smoothness—and tests reveal the big difference of 22% more power, 5 more miles an hour top speed and 2 more miles to a gallon of gasoline!

Nash for 1934 has just about everything—including a new improved type of built-in draftless ventilation, providing unobstructed vision—a new synchro-shift transmission with all gears quiet at all speeds—and a new coincidental starter—everything to give Nash the edge in any comparison. See Nash before you say "Yes" in deciding on any new car.

Kiwanis Club

Richard J. Davis, Manager, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for four years, has just been elected President of the Newton Kiwanis Club, at its meeting at the Charles River Country Club.

"Dick" Davis is a graduate of Massachusetts State College and has been prominent in Kiwanis affairs for some time.

The following officers were also elected: 1st Vice-President—Giles Mosher. 2nd Vice-President—Charlie Barrows.

Treasurer—"Rupe" Thompson. Directors—Frank Avantage, Thomas Aiken, "Tom" Burns, "Archie" Clair, "Jim" Forbes, "Ed" Hickey, and Burt Rich.

The Nominating Committee consists of Hugh H. Boyd, James P. Gallagher, Thomas Aiken, Dr. F. H. Paul, and Charles Mahoney.

On December 19 there is expected to be a special day of interest to all past and present Kiwanians—a day for which great preparations are now being made and one expected to be long remembered.

The Newton Kiwanis Club is also preparing and putting into operation a new plan for carrying forward its underprivileged children work for the Christmas Season.

COMMONWEALTH COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. Whitney E. Harmon of Elliot Memorial rd., Newton and Mrs. Worthen K. Rayworth of Brookline are sponsoring the second luncheon bridge of the season at the Commonwealth Country Club, Chestnut Hill, this coming Monday, Nov. 20th. Among the Newton ladies assisting them are Mmes. John G. Downing of Waverley ave., Ernest L. Evans of Halcyn rd. and Edward M. Hodgkins of Pleasant st.

Among the others assisting are Mmes. James C. Duane, James R. Keenan and Edward L. Kickham.

Donald D. McKay Joins New Firm

Donald D. McKay, well known resident of Newton Highlands, formerly Vice President of Harris Forbes Trust Company, has become Vice President of Standish, Racey & McKay, Inc. of Boston, formerly Standish & Co. Mr. McKay who has been with the Harris organization for eighteen years, brings to the enlarged firm of investment and economic counselors a mature business experience and wide acquaintance.

Mr. McKay is an Alderman-at-Large for Newton, Vice President of the Community Chest, a Governor of the University Club of Boston, former Governor of the Charles River Country Club, Trustee of the Newton Hospital, director of the Stone Institute and Newton Home for the Aged, and is prominent in many other organizations. He is a member of the Alumni Council of Amherst College from which institution he graduated in 1909.

Mr. Alexander Standish of 133 Lake ave., Newton Highlands, President of the organization, was associated with a number of corporations, both in a research and in an advisory capacity, prior to forming the original firm of Standish & Co. His successful experience in the handling of investment portfolios is well known to financial men. He is a graduate of Bowdoin College.

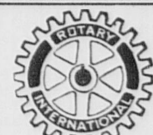

Standish, Racey & McKay, Inc. will occupy the offices of Standish & Company, Inc. 10 Post Office Square, Boston. The company's association with the New York of the Stone Institute, Davidson, Inc. of which Dr. Lionel D. Edie is Economist and Chairman of the Board, remains unchanged.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY

The Fall Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association will take place at the Y. M. C. A. Building on Wednesday, November 22nd, at 2:30 p. m.

The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Charles D. Kepner who will tell about her visit to the Holy Land and Easter in Jerusalem.

Mrs. Wallace Wales will sing. Members may bring their friends.

Rotary Club

The regular meeting of the Newton Rotary Club was in a lighter vein than usual and the members were taken back to their school boy days by George J. Martin, President and Treasurer of the Martin Manufacturing Company, with a series of brain twisters which put the Rotarians on their mettle.

Is New York City west of the Pacific Ocean?
Is Reno, Nevada, farther west than Los Angeles?
Is the sun a planet, star, or meteor?

If it takes a clock 6 seconds to strike 6 o'clock, how long will it take it to strike 12 o'clock? etc.

The meeting was most enjoyable for all present. Dr. Cecil Clark announced arrangements for the tenth anniversary of the club next Monday evening at the Brae Burn Club. Invited guests will include wives of the members, Boston Rotarians present when the club was formed ten years ago, and presidents of the Concord and Needham Rotary Club. A large attendance is expected.

TERRAPLANE MAKES HIT IN ENGLAND

During the recent Olympia Motor Show, England's annual automobile exposition, Terraplanes had the distinction of leading all American cars in point of retail sales, with a total of seventy-seven, according to a cable received by Allen C. Germann, export manager of the Hudson Motor Car Company. This record reflected the widespread interest of the British motoring public aroused by Terraplane's performance in supervised tests at Brooklands and other English test courses. Owing partly to the success at Olympia, sales of Hudson-built cars in England during October were the largest for any month since July, 1931, excepting only June, 1932.

LICENSE QUESTION AT CITY ELECTION?

It is possible that the city of Newton, as well as other cities and towns in the Commonwealth which hold municipal elections at the same time, will have a referendum on the ballot on December 12th regarding the licensing of spirituous liquors. That is one of the many phases of the legislation to come before the special session of the Legislature when it goes into debate on the subject. For the past ten days hearings have been held on various methods of regulating sales and affiliated matters and debate is expected on the floor of the House and Senate next week. With Election Day but little more than three weeks away it is quite possible unexpected delays may occur which will make it impossible to have the question on the ballot on Dec. 12th. We do not believe that the majority vote at the election in June at which Newton voters expressed their attitude toward the repeal of the 18th Amendment is indicative of a desire to license the sale of liquor in this city. In previous years Newton always turned down this question under the former privilege of local option and we trust that in the event that the question here is not decided on December 12 that the local license authorities will consider the matter carefully should the Legislature adopt the view that the "repeal" vote is indicative of the "license" sentiment.

AS WE SEE IT

The city election is rapidly approaching. Charges, counter charges, platforms, and statements are being tossed back and forth. Some of the charges may be true, to a small or large degree, many of the charges are unfounded, some of the planks in the various platforms overlap, and some vary widely from anything that has been tried and found sound in municipal government. The average voter is more or less confused as to just what the actual state of affairs may be. As a result he quite often bases his final judgment on the personality of the appeal made to him. Much has been said about the pre-election pledge and in our estimation the criticism of this practice far over-estimates the value as well as the purpose of such political organization methods. The voter who actually takes interest in city affairs and marks his ballot accordingly is one of two distinct classes. He has already made up his mind and is certain of his choice or he is biding his time to obtain a more accurate opinion of the candidates in the contest. Thus it is apparent to us that any pre-election pledges which are made can only serve as an indication of the support of this candidate or the other.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

If the police of Newton and other cities and towns enforced the law which specifies that any person riding a bicycle after dark shall have a light on the vehicle, fewer boys and girls would be victims of automobiles. Anyone who drives a car knows how difficult it is to see a person riding a bicycle on a dark street.

Walter Lippman told a gathering of college men that another world war is quite probable, and that when one comes the United States must remain neutral, if Great Britain remains neutral, and must participate in the war on the same side with Great Britain, if that country becomes a participant. One might reason that Mr. Lippman is an unofficial representative of Great Britain. He said that it is practically impossible for this country to remain neutral if the European nations become involved in another war. Sweden, Denmark and Switzerland remained neutral in the last World War and they were much nearer to the scene of the terrible strife than was the United States. It cost the people of this country billions of dollars for the part the United States took in the war, and its altruistic attitude to its alleged allies after the war. We know how these dear allies have welched since. How they have refused and continue to refuse to pay their just debts to the United States. Yet, Mr. Lippman would have us be the goat again. If he had to fight in the front line trenches in the anticipated war, he might change his views.

The Australian ballot was adopted in this country many years ago to allow citizens to vote in secrecy, and without being coerced or unduly influenced in the exercise of their right of franchise. Isn't the practice of asking citizens to sign pledges before elections that they will vote for certain candidates, a nullification of the principle for which the Australian ballot stands?

A political advertisement published last week urged wives of veterans to have their husbands join an organization favoring Mayor Weeks. The funny thing about this advertisement was—that it was signed by a bachelor.

The new police broadcasting station is a great thing for the gossipers. Just imagine listening in to instructions sent out to a cruising car ordering the police in it to hasten to some house from which trouble has been reported.

The weather prophets who predicted a long, hard winter seem to be correct so far. A real snowstorm three weeks before Thanksgiving, and temperatures away below freezing over two weeks before that holiday, indicate that we are in for an old fashioned winter.

Having read about the display of Leonidis which was to have appeared on Tuesday night at 11 o'clock, we went out into our backyard to witness the celestial show. The BOSTON GLOBE on Sunday printed a map showing that part of the sky where the meteors, meteorites, or whatever you want to call them, would probably be observed—in the northeast. We expected to see so many "falling stars" that we carried a pair of powerful binoculars to get a better view. We didn't see a single Leonid, but we did get a crook in the neck, because the locus, as given in the GLOBE map, necessitated us looking almost straight up at the sky. One thing we did learn. From the position of the "big dipper" what we had previously thought was East, looking from our residence, we found to be North East.

Rally for White At Nonantum

The hall in the Nonantum A. A. building on Dalby st., Nonantum, was crowded on Wednesday night when a meeting was held in the interest of the candidacy of Thomas W. White for Mayor. James Flynn presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers who included Mr. White, Ex Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Aldermanic Candidates Cronin, Crane, Davidson, Temperley, Frazier, Blakeney, Guzzi, Brocklesby, and former Aldermen Heathcote and Powers.

Weather Man Buys Home In Newton

The office of Sydney B. Holden, 17 Institution ave., Newton Centre, reports the sale of a brick and frame dwelling located at 35 Kingston rd., Newton Highlands, to G. Harold Noyes, formerly of Cleveland. Mr. Noyes has recently come to Boston from Cleveland to take charge of the U. S. Weather Observatory located at the new Federal Post Office Building in Boston.

SCHOOL CHATS

An authoritative article each week covering important and interesting phases of public school organization and activity. Prepared under the direction of the School Department.

THE PUBLIC LOOKS AT THE NEW DEAL

The favorable comment which has come from the outside regarding the new method of measuring a pupil's achievement is most gratifying. It shows that although Newton teachers are pioneers, perhaps, in adopting such a scheme, they are not alone in believing in its sound philosophy.

The Newton School Department has recently received letters of commendation and inquiry from educators and interested laymen from many states of the Union. One inquiry has arrived from Porto Rico.

The following are interesting excerpts: "I think that you deserve the applause of every school official in the land. No more vicious element exists in the educational system than the rank card with all its attendant abuses." "It seems almost too good to be true that at last a Massachusetts school has the courage to abolish school marks. While I realize the seriousness of the adjustment process, I am sure that the step is in the right direction."

"I feel that it is both psychologically and pedagogically the best system that has heretofore been submitted to the public." "I hope the day may come when the urge to learn and fit oneself may be the incentive and the education may be the reward and not the mere possession of marks or diplomas."

"Let's take the external incentives, these bribes, out of education and put it up to teachers to make their work so compellingly vital and interesting that penalties and rewards will no longer be necessary."

"The wise teacher of the future will not be concerned with the mark she is going to 'give,' but will attempt to understand each individual child, physically, mentally, and emotionally, and try so to direct and encourage him that he will see his needs and take responsibility for his own improvement. The teacher who believes that human development can be measured quantitatively wholly misses the purpose of real education."

"May I suggest another reform . . . I should like to see the secondary schools take a stand against the colleges for the right to certify their students as being prepared to advance into higher fields of learning. Then they wouldn't have to spend all their time just preparing these young people to pass college board examinations, which I consider just as vicious as the old marking system."

"School is not the building and the time table and the course of study. It is far, far more. It is a cross section of the most vital life in the community and it promotes growth by its very existence. The heart of a school, the flight of a child's spirit, who shall measure them?"

Hodgdon Assails White and Weeks

A Hodgdon for Mayor rally was held Tuesday evening, Nov. 14, at Newton Corner for voters of Wards one and seven. Mr. Hodgdon, candidate for Mayor spoke as follows:—

"I believe that people are inherently decent and want clean government. I am firmly opposed to the principle that the way to get votes is to fool the people. I consider it decidedly Un-American for any candidate to coerce the voters by having them sign pledge cards. If a candidate lacks the ability to talk to the voters and win their support on the issue of the campaign he has no legitimate right to contest for office. "Famous propaganda has been circulated that it is a two man fight between Weeks and White the two candidates of a repudiated reactionary Toryism. They are using it to fool decent Democrats, Independents and Republicans into the belief that I have no chance when they know differently. They figure this propaganda will take votes away from me and help them."

"Don't be fooled. Consider the facts."

"In 1925 I was elected Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5, carrying five of the seven wards. I defeated my opponent who was supported by the Republican machine, easily and decisively, receiving 4557 votes out of a total of 7832. As I defeated the machine in that election so will I beat it and its two candidates again, unless the voters are fooled by political machinations and intrigue."

"I am justly proud of my record as a member of the Newton Board of Aldermen. I always fought for those ideals I considered necessary in a decent, well governed City. I opposed extravagance and waste and was fair to the taxpayer, city employee and wage earner. I always opposed the playing of cheap politics by the powers-that-be and advocated full publicity for all City business."

"I want the issues fought in the open. Problems affecting the City should be discussed by all the candidates in order that the voters will know where the candidates stand. My platform has been published in the Newton papers. It is definite and specific. It is vital and affects all our people."

"Mr. White has mentioned some of the issues but only in a vague, ambiguous manner. He is evidently straddling. Perhaps he intends to be all things to all voters. The time for pussyfooting and ambiguity has passed. The people want facts and truth. They also want a change. They seek a real change, not a change in name only but one of principles and ideas."

"It has been said that Mr. White is a politician out of a lucrative job looking for another. This may be, but my opinion is that it is not a compelling reason to vote against him. He must stand on his record of public service, including his attitude towards labor. He and Mr. Weeks must discuss openly and frankly, as I will, all issues and problems affecting the government of our city."

"In keeping with this I believe the voters would like to know if Mr. Weeks and Mr. White are in favor of the following as I am:

Elimination of the Commissary System of handling Soldiers Relief and Welfare Work.

Formulation of a plan to put the able bodied unemployed to work at fair pay.

Cooperation with State and Federal Governments in all Welfare and Recovery Programs.

Re-establishment of the former wage scale of all city employees."

White Speaks at Merchants Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Newton Retail Merchants Association in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, on Monday evening Thomas W. White, candidate for Mayor, made an address in which he referred to some issues of the present campaign. His speech included the following remarks:

In view of the approaching election, the present administration is making sudden gestures to the people. We can only judge promises for the future by the record of the past.

Note the sudden reduction in the water rates to benefit only the large users put into effect a few days ago. It does not, however, purify the water supply.

Note the quick re-employment recently of a few laborers after having suffered a forced and unnecessary lay-off of a year.

Note the recent activity in some sections of the city of city employees cleaning and repairing streets. Why? As this campaign develops, I will present issues pertinent to all the people, discuss finances, tax rates and the credit of the City. It will be instructive information.

My talk to you tonight will present a view of your own interests. During the past year the City has taken from you a property tax on your real estate, a personal tax on your stock of merchandise, an excise tax on your automobiles, an excessive water tax, an increased poll tax, a super-share of the city tax has been returned to it, and I could go on at length. This is only a sample. What have you had in return?

Now the safety and the bulwark of this nation have been and must always rest on the independent retail merchants of every kind. When city money is spent outside of the city, or inside the city without being fairly distributed among you taxpayers, nothing avails. The only way to increase the buying power of the people is to allow a decent, fair profit to the dealer. Business done at no profit or at a loss means simply a diminution of capital assets and final bankruptcy.

All you want is a square deal and fair treatment and that is exactly what you will get from me as Mayor.

"DISABLED VETERANS" ORGANIZE

National Headquarters of the D. A. V. granted a charter to a petitioning group of disabled men here last week. The new unit has adopted the name of the Rev. Father William J. Farrell Chapter.

The following comrades were elected and installed for the coming year: Albert H. Webber, commander; George F. McNamee, senior vice; Charles S. Pollock, junior vice; George Hahn, adjutant; Harold Haffey, treasurer; Edward Edmunds, chaplain; Roderick Pratt, officer of the day; Rosario Grizzi, sergeant-at-arms; Arthur McCarthy, William Davidson and Frank R. Gaw, trustees.

The regular business meeting will be held the third Monday of every month at the City Hall. The next meeting is Monday night, November 20th at eight o'clock.

Development of a plan to guarantee full time to all city employees. Reduction of the minimum service charge for water.

Establishment of an efficient Purchasing Department.

Awarding of contracts on a competitive bid basis only.

"Again I mention Weeks and White and say to them, the people are entitled to know your position on these issues. If you refuse to state your attitude the voters can assume that you are not interested in their welfare or that you are afraid to answer."

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. Bantley

The presence of the blue eagle should not discourage the turkey from showing up as usual Thanksgiving Day.

Oddments

Those who possess a highly developed appreciation of music may not smile at this one, which is told for the ordinary folks who feel that sometimes one can get too much of a good thing. Two workmen were employed on a somewhat extended job at a Newton residence where the young man of the family is a studious violinist. He practices many hours each day, more power to him. The workmen could hear through the open window. For a time they were curious and even interested. About the third day their nerves must have gotten jumpy. At last one muttered a bit of profanity to his companion as he nodded toward the music room. "I get yer," replied the other, "but ain't we lucky he don't play the cornet."

The champion for sign stealing—a dubious honor at best, you will agree—should go to some youngsters who infest Ward 7 and have repeatedly taken from its place on a lawn one of those "No Trespassing Police Take Notice" warnings. On four separate occasions it has been carried off, only to be later recovered and replaced. As a wagish fellow in the neighborhood remarked, "Once more and they'll own it."

Come what may from Beacon Hill, I submit that the printed request I observed in a French tavern asked little of those who imbibed. Translated it read, "Please don't swear. Don't sleep or sing. Be reasonable." Compliance with such a request was readily made, they told me. But that was in a foreign country.

Let's Sing, "Sweet Home"

How pleasant it is of a Saturday night, and at other appropriate times, to sit down to a generous serving of baked beans! O. K., New Englanders, as long as they are at home or in a part of the world where there is a cook who knows how to prepare the marvelous dish. Just think this over and be glad you're not in a foreign country with a hanker for Boston baked beans. Take Paris, for instance, where a club composed of Americans is preparing to smack its lips over this popular fare. From that city a good friend of this column writes me of his plan to certain his fellow club members and how the French customs have placed obstacles in his way. The beans are there but they cannot be served. It's not the beans, mark you, it's the pork. How come, you ask.

It seems that my correspondent, Madison Corey, impresario for the A. E. F., who furnished entertainment for the soldiers during the World War, had 40 cases of canned pork and beans, 960 in all, shipped from Boston during the Summer. The estimated cost, something we all look to these days, was $500.

When the beans arrived the French customs officials opened a sample can, as is routine enough, to make sure that no drugs or other contraband were concealed in shipment. It was then that they discovered a small chunk of pork nestled among the beans. It was solemnly removed and weighed. Unfortunately it tipped the balance at more than five grams.

Ordinarily one would say, "What of it?" Those, however, who know the French customs might have a different thought. Well, anyway, it seems that the compilers of the customs' schedules have decreed that haricots conserves (canned beans) are not so if accompanied by more than five grams of meat. Instead of canned beans they become the French equivalent for "preserved meat." On that there is a high duty.

Isn't difficult to imagine what the owner of these beans is now going through—rushing from the office of one Government official to another, including the American consul. Think this over when you sit down to your baked beans and be grateful.

The Art of Putting-Off

More than one person has observed, soliloquizing or otherwise, "If I only had the money back that I have lent people, I'd be a whole lot better off." He recalls the borrowings of friends who promised immediate payment. Those "Kathleen Mavourneen" loans—"It may be for years and it may be forever"—have become more or less common since some of the most prosperous fellow citizens found themselves strapped, with no alterna-

ELECT WHITE MAYOR

The Tribute of Herbert Hoover, While President, to Thomas W. White

WASHINGTON

February 27, 1933.

My dear Mr. White:

Before leaving this office I wish to express to you the appreciation I have for the great service you have given these past years, and for your friendship to me. Your service will speak for itself. I am voicing the gratitude I feel for the friendship given to me.

Yours faithfully,

(Sig.) HERBERT HOOVER.

tive than to ask for temporary financial assistance. Without dwelling on the gloomy side of the picture I hasten to think of those chronic borrowers and the active minds they possess. "Living by one's wits," is what it is called. I believe. This incident happened recently and is the best example of fast-thinking I have heard of in some moons.

A careful and thrifty man was asked by another to lend him $2. The request was so made that it could not be easily denied. Assurance was given by the borrower that prompt return would be made. Like many before and since, the promise was not kept. The first man made no complaint, and, because of lack of courage or something, did no dunning. The time finally arrived, however, when he could use the $2. He thought, "How will I break it gently and get my money."

After a while came the bright idea. Approaching the debtor he said, "Old man, I've just been looking over my vestpocket account book and I find you owe me $2."

"Is that so," the other replied, "I'm glad you told me. I'll make a note of it in mind. Thanks."

Recent Deaths

MRS. MARY L. DANIELS

The death of Mrs. Mary Louise Daniels, of Tolland, Conn., widow of the late Rev. Charles Herbert Daniels, D.D., occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Aaron Paul Pratt, of Windsor, Conn., on November 12th. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels were former residents of Newton from 1892 to 1903, while Dr. Daniels was Home Secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions with headquarters in the Congregational House, 10 Beacon st., Boston. Both were actively interested in church and community affairs in this city, were members of the Elliott Church and of various clubs. Mrs. Daniels was especially interested in The Social Science Club in this city. She was well known as a speaker, writer, teacher and musician. Religious and missionary activities were her life work. She was President of the Congregational Woman's Board of Missions of the East from 1905 to 1919 and in that capacity travelled widely, speaking and visiting churches.

After the death of her husband and older daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Daniels took up her residence in her native town of Tolland, Conn. She is survived by her daughter Mrs. Agnes Daniels Pratt; two grandchildren, Mary Agnes and Aaron Paul Pratt, Jr., and a sister in Florida. The funeral service was held in the Tolland Federated Church on Tuesday, Nov. 14th, at 1:30 p. m. Burial was in Hope Cemetery, Worcester.

PATRICK J. McGRATH

Patrick J. McGrath of 88 Ripley st., Newton Centre, died on Nov. 9. He was born in Cork, Ireland, 81 years ago, and had been a resident of Newton Centre for 50 years. He had been a devout member of Sacred Heart Church since its institution and was President of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of that parish. He was a member of Middlesex Court, M. C. O. F., and the Third Order of St. Francis. His wife died last July. He is survived by two daughters, Mary McGrath, an official in the New York City high schools, and Ella Mackey of Brooklyn, New York; and two sons, John McGrath, a chief petty officer in the United States Navy, and Daniel McGrath of Newton Centre.

His funeral service was held Saturday morning at Sacred Heart Church; Rev. Robert Barry of Boston, a nephew, was celebrant of the requiem mass. Bishop Spellman of Hingham were in the sanctuary. Burial was at Holyhood Cemetery, where committal prayers were read by Fr. Barry and Fr. Haney.

GEORGE W. WRIGHT

George W. Wright died at the Newton Hospital on Nov. 11. He was born at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, 65 years ago, and came to this country when a boy. He had been a resident of Newton for over 25 years. His home had been at Victoria Circle, Newtonville, but recently he moved to 9 Baldwin st., Newton. He had been associated for 38 years with the Thayer, Foss Leather Company of Boston and as treasurer of that company.

Mr. Wright was a 32nd degree Mason and had been a trustee of the Newton Y. M. C. A., and a member of the Newton Club. He is survived by a son, George W. Wright, Jr.; two daughters, Sally R. Wright of Boston, and Patty Wright of New York City; and three sisters. His funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at Newton Cemetery chapel. Rev. Randolph Merrill of Central Congregational Church officiated.

ALAN M. GROVES

The many friends and former schoolmates of Alan Marston Groves will be saddened to hear of his sudden death in Los Angeles, Calif., on Nov. 5. He was thirty-one years old, having lived most of his life in Newton Centre, a civil engineer with a brilliant future with one of the largest engineering companies of the West Coast. He leaves a wife, Laurette Berrio; a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Alan Groves of Parker st., Newton Centre, and two sisters, Mrs. James A. Anderson of New York City, and Mrs. Frederick D. Lyon of Hartford, but at present visiting her parents with her two children.

MRS. DWIGHT M. McCracken

Mrs. Jean Blair McCracken, wife of Dwight M. McCracken, died on Nov. 12 at Los Angeles, Calif., following the birth of a daughter. She was born at Hibbing, Minnesota, 25 years ago and graduated from Newton High School in 1925. Following her graduation from Boston University in 1929, she taught school in Norton until her marriage in 1931. Besides her husband and infant daughter, she is survived by her parents, Professor and Mrs. Herbert Blair of Birch rd., Newtonville; two sisters, and a brother.

MRS. MARGARET L. BUCKLEY

Mrs. Margaret L. Buckley of 19 Middle st., Newton, widow of Cornelius J. Buckley, died on Nov. 11. She was born in Claremorris, Mayo, Ireland, 70 years ago, and had been a resident of Newton for 50 years. She is survived by three daughters, the Misses Mary E., Margaret L. and Helen N. Buckley, all of Newton; and three sisters, Mrs. Katherine O'Leary and Mrs. Patrick Devaney of Watertown, and Mrs. Anne Good of Newton. Her funeral service was held at Our Lady's Church on Tuesday morning. A solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Arthur O'Leary, S.S.J., of Newburg, New York, a nephew, assisted by Rev. Walter Meagher, S.J., of Holy Cross College, as deacon, and Rev. John Endler, C.P., of Springfield, as subdeacon. Present in the sanctuary were Rev. John Quinlan of Somerville, Rev. Richard McHale of Natick, Rev. Joseph Shea of Malden, and Rev. Charles Bryson of West Roxbury. Committal prayers at Calvary Cemetery were read by Rev. Arthur O'Leary.

MRS. ALICE K. KENWAY

Mrs. Alice K. Kenway of 85 Lombard st., Newton, widow of Herbert P. Kenway, died on Nov. 11. She was born in Boston, 79 years ago, the daughter of William and Mary (Tappan) Kimball. She had been a resident of Newton for about 50 years. Mrs. Kenway was formerly a member of the Eliot Congregational Church and the Social Science Club. She is survived by two sons, Herbert W. Kenway of Beverly, and Edward Kenway of Newtonville; a daughter, Mrs. Warren K. Lewis of Newton; and eleven grandchildren. Her funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at her late home, Rev. Ray Eudon officiated. Burial was in Newton Cemetery.

CHARLES C. CLAPP

Charles C. Clapp of 127 Langley road, Newton Centre, died on November 15. He was manager of the Jeremiah Williams estate. He was a member of the Corinthian Yacht Club and the Boston Athletic Association. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucille P. Clapp; two daughters, Barbara Clapp of this city and Mrs. Stanton Russell of Belmont; a son, Charles C. Clapp, Jr., of New York; and three brothers. His funeral service will be held this afternoon at Trinity Church, Newton Centre.

William L. Graves of 315 Bellvue st., Newton, died on Nov. 13, following a brief illness. He was born at Newton Corner, 69 years ago, the son of Benoni and Fanny (Ward) Graves. He always took an active interest in Newton affairs and served for some years on the Republican Ward and City Committees. During the World War he assisted in the Liberty Loan drives. Following his graduation from the Newton schools he engaged in the dry goods business and for many years he was in the employ of the Farley, Harvey Colquhoun Lodge of Masons. Mr. Graves' funeral service was held Wednesday afternoon at his late home. Rev. Newton Merrill, Jr., of Immanuel Church, officiated, assisted by Rev. John Shade Franklin of West Newton. Burial was in Newton Cemetery. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nell G. Graves, and one son, Carl B. Graves.

Rev. Mr. Franklin delivered a eulogy in part as follows: His life was spent in this city. Here he became an active worker in the Men's League of the Immanuel Baptist Church where he did much work in connection with the annual Christmas collections for the poor and needy. It is said that some years as many as 23 barrels of produce, toys, clothing and the like were gathered.

Here he entered also upon a long and faithful career of service in the Masonic Fraternity, serving as Worshipful Master of Dalhousie Lodge in 1922 and continuing zealous in the work of the lodge until his death. One of the great joys of his last year with us was his son's succession to the Master's chair.

In all these relationships of home, church, lodge and business those who knew him best speak most generously of his amiable nature, his thoughtful, cheery manner. He was quiet and unassuming. He was always willing to go out of his way for others. It is no wonder that he is beloved by countless numbers.

In this hour of memorial tribute we are all inspired by the remembrance of his virtues and our hearts are lifted up by the realization that the friend and loved one whom we knew still lives and shall yet renew fellowship with us in Eternal Life.

He Giveth More

He giveth more grace when the burdens grow greater,
 He sendeth more strength when the labors increase;
 To added affliction he addeth his mercy,
 To multiplied trials, his multiplied peace.

When we have exhausted our stores of endurance,
 When our strength has failed ere the day is half done,
 When we reach the end of our hoarded resources,
 Our Father's full giving is only begun.

His love has no limit, his grace has no measure,
 His power no boundary known unto men;
 For out of his infinite riches in Jesus
 He giveth and giveth and giveth again.
 (Read by Mr. Franklin at Mr. Graves' funeral.)

MRS. SARAH H. TRUEBLOOD

Mrs. Sarah H. Trueblood of 95 Lincoln street, Newton Highlands, died on November 13. She was the widow of Benjamin F. Trueblood, who was the secretary of the American Peace Society. Mrs. Trueblood was born in New Vienna, Ohio, 81 years ago. She was a birthright member of the Society of Friends and has been interested in Eastham College, Richmond, Indiana; Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio; and Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa. She is survived by two daughters—Mrs. George G. Wolkins of Newton Highlands and Mrs. J. M. Steere of Haverford, Pa.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

For the second successive year the Norumbega Union of Christian Endeavor held the second rally meeting at the Belmont Street Baptist Church, West Newton. Waverley Baptist from Belmont proved true to form when they edged Water-town, in a battle of cheers for the Fellowship Cup. The Waverley Baptist group also established a record in the Union when the Endeavorers turned out 100 percent. Waverley had 22 members on the role; 23 present including their pastor, Rev. F. E. Heath, who led the Union Conference, to win with 107 points.

Paul C. E. expects to recapture the cup December 12, when the Norumbega Union stages the next rally at the Belmont Street Baptist Church, Watertown.

Miss Helen Carroll, president of Cambridge Union led a "Lookout Debutant" Conference. Rev. Asa Parker, of the Congregational Missionary Society led a Missionary hearing.

Mr. Alvin J. Shartle, formerly with the International Society addressed the assembly on the slogan of the Milwaukee Convention "I Will be Christian."

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER, D. A. R.

Members of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, held their November meeting at the Chapter House Monday afternoon, Mrs. E. B. Parker, regent, presiding. At the conclusion of the business meeting and reports of the various committees, a silver offering was taken in observance of the birthday of Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general, the same to be used to help in paying off the debt on Constitution Hall.

The Regent then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Rufus K. Noyes, State chairman of Filling and Lending of Historical Papers, who spoke on the subject, "An Historical Pilgrimage to the Old North End." This proved to be most interesting and informing and showed the wealth of historical data we have near at hand.

A social hour followed during which time delicious refreshments were served by the following ladies, hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. E. F. Prescott, chairman; Mrs. E. W. Allen, Mrs. J. I. Bassett, Mrs. R. E. Chambers, Mrs. E. P. Crowe, Mrs. E. S. Drowne, Mrs. D. Eldridge, Mrs. E. F. Fearing, Mrs. J. W. Gerrity, Mrs. H. F. Hatch, Mrs. L. H. Howe, Miss Emily Jordan, Mrs. G. B. H. NATHAN FULLER CHAPTER, D. R.

The November meeting of the Nathan Fuller Chapter, D. R., was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Otis st., Needham on the 14th. In the absence of the regent, Mrs. G. Johnson presided and opened the meeting with the salute to the flag. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted. The treasurer, Mrs. E. P. Leonard, Jr., reported on the success of the chapter bazaar.

The Nathan Fuller Chapter is to be hostess at the meeting of the State Society which will be held on November 22 at the Hotel Abbotsford. Dr. Herbert C. Johnson is to speak on the "Present Situation in the United States." Mrs. Babel Anderson is to play violin solos accompanied by Mrs. Ray Eudon.

A recommendation of the executive board that the chapter send a basket of fruit to the Gov. John A. Andrew Home in Newtonville at Thanksgiving time was read and accepted.

The chapter voted to send the usual Christmas boxes to Newton men and women in Veterans' Hospitals.

The next meeting will be held on December 12 at the home of Miss Eleanor Gibbs, 155 Hunnewell ave., Newton. Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott will speak on the Florence Crittenton League.

After the business meeting adjourned, Mr. Sidney Stewart of Needham gave a very interesting talk on "Antiques." He illustrated his talk with old silver and brass as well as wood.

In the social hour Mrs. Johnson was assisted by Mrs. Thomas Cleveland and Mrs. Fred Gilroy.

PARAMOUNT THEATRE

"Ann Vickers," with Irene Dunne and Walter Huston co-starred, which comes to the Paramount Theatre, Newton, Sunday for 4 days, is the first novel by Sinclair Lewis, written since he won the Nobel prize for Literature—and it is acclaimed by critics and the reading public as his greatest.

As is always the case with Lewis' novels, "Ann Vickers" has a timely and vital theme. The story portrays the modern American woman—the business woman, the social worker, the successful feminist. Ever striving for success and acclaim, Ann Vickers must ultimately choose between those factors in her life and the love for which she has always yearned.

In the screen version of this dynamic record of a beautiful woman's ambitions, achievements, passions and rebuffs, RKO-Radio stars Walter Huston with Miss Dunne. Conrad Nagel, Bruce Cabot and Sam Hardy portray the men who figure romantically in the heroine's life, while Edna May Oliver has an outstanding role as her greatest feminine friend.

For the last half beginning Thursday Alice Brady will be seen in "Stage Mother" and "Wild Boys of the Road" with Frankie Darrow. There will be the usual Saturday night program of five acts of vaudeville featuring Charlie Hatches' Orchestra conducted by "Chet" Nelson.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

Waban Woman's Club

The Waban Woman's Club will observe Presidents' Day on Monday, November 20th, at the Neighborhood Club House, with guests of honor Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, first vice-president, of the State Federation; Mrs. Selden E. James, director of the Twelfth District, and Mrs. Charles C. Willson, president of the Newton Federation. Invitations have been extended also to the presidents and an officer of each of the clubs belonging to the Twelfth District.

For their entertainment Lucille Perry Hall will present pupils from her famous school of dancing, who, in attractive costumes, will portray the art of the modern ballet. Following the program, an informal reception will be held, at which the guests will be received by the hostess president, Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller, and officers of the Club, and tea will be served by the Social committee.

The many arrangements for the afternoon are being made by Mrs. Walter B. Hatfield, chairman of Hospitality, and Mrs. Harry M. Came, chairman of the Social committee.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

The Ways and Means committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club issues an open invitation to club women, or others, interested to attend an Afternoon Bridge Party, on Monday, November 20th, at 2 p. m. There will be attractive prizes, in charge of Mrs. Harold R. Keller, Mrs. Frank Nathan, and Mrs. John R. Perry. Tea, at 4 o'clock, will be served by a committee under the leadership of Mrs. C. Arthur Boutelle, Mrs. Henry E. Goodough, Mrs. Vincent P. Maloney, and Mrs. Leonard Street. The club rooms accommodate five or six hundred players and any one who would like to play may secure tables at $2.00 each.

On Thursday, November 23rd, at 10 a. m., the club members will have the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor give her first lecture on Current Events. Mrs. Taylor has spoken in neighboring towns and her talks have been much enjoyed. The club's regular monthly meeting will be held on Friday, November 24th, at 2 p. m. The speaker for the afternoon will be Lloyd C. Douglas, who is well-known throughout the United States. He has occupied pulpits as pastor in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, California, and Washington, D. C., and has delivered Commencement, Baccalaureate or Convocation addresses at a score of educational institutions. Since becoming an author, two books—"Magnificent Obsession" and "Forgive Us Our Tresspasses"—have established him as a best-selling writer.

Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, General Federation director for Massachusetts, will be guest of honor on this occasion.

Mrs. Herman Wells, and Mrs. Edward T. Rock will act as hostesses at the tea, following the lecture.

Newtonville Woman's Club

Dr. Loring B. Andrews, one of the four in the Harvard group who used the Arcturus Ray to illuminate "The Century of Progress," and who is executive secretary of Harvard Observatory, and Instructor in Astronomy at the University, will be the speaker on November 21st, at 2:30 o'clock. His subject is "The Music of the Spheres."

The Music committee, Mrs. Ernest I. Nichols, chairman, will present Margaret Richardson, Concert Pianist, on that day.

On this occasion the Art committee will hold their interesting and attractive Exhibition of Old Glass, and Mrs. Carl G. Cutler, chairman, requests that all loans for this display be at the Club House by 10 a. m. on the 21st.

Members are asked to remember that the annual contribution of the Club of Jellies, old cotton and linen, for Newton Hospital, will be received on that day and a generous response is asked for.

Mrs. Henry M. Weidner of the Hospitality committee will direct the tea in the Social Hall following the lecture by Dr. Andrews.

The American Home committee, through its chairman, Mrs. Edward O. Woodward, has arranged for November 20th a group visit to the First National Stores Plant at Somerville.

Members of the Club who are interested in choral music and who would like to take advantage of the splendid training offered by the Glee Club are invited to join this group. Miss Dorothy A. Curtis is the leader and accompanist. The Club will meet with its chairman, Mrs. Ernest L. Nichols, 56 Madison avenue, on Wednesday, at 9:45 a. m.

The next in the series of the Richard Hill Wilkinson Short Story lectures sponsored by the Education committee will take place on Friday, the 24th, at 10 a. m., at the home of Mrs. Fred L. Edmunds, 89 Madison avenue.

Mrs. Henry J. Baringer will meet her committee at the Newton Hospital on November 23rd for their regular sewing day. There is at present need for a very considerable amount of work to be done in sewing, mending, and in the making of surgical dressings, and Mrs. Baringer asks for volunteers. The time is not confined to the Hospital Days of her committee, and other than members of the Club, as well as members, are asked to help in this necessary and important work. Those interested should call Mrs. Baringer, N. N. 1562-W, for further information.

The Executive Board of the Club at its last meeting voted to add to its committee one on International Relations, and it also voted to appoint a member to represent Newtonville in the Newton Federation on the Public Health and the Motion Picture committee of that organization.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

"Wonder Dishes and Hostess Helps" will be explained and demonstrated by Miss McBride, for the Makers of Wonder Bread, in helpful suggestions for attractive dishes, and the art of sandwich making, for social affairs, as the program for the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on the evening of Monday, the 20th. The Club will hold its business meeting at 7:30 o'clock, in Emerson School Hall, with the president, Mrs. Walter R. Evans, presiding after which the program will be presented, by Mrs. Percy Marden, chairman of Hospitality.

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

Prof. J. Anton de Haas, the William Ziegler Professor of International Relations at Harvard University School of Business Administration, comes to the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands as the speaker through the courtesy of the Women's Advisory Committee of the Newton Trust Company, at the regular meeting, on Tuesday, November 21st, at 2 p. m., in the Congregational Parish House. Prof. de Haas will speak on "World Affairs." Tea will be served.

The Annual Arts and Crafts Sale will be held on Friday and Saturday, November 24th and 25th, in the Workshop. Many new and attractive hand-made things will be for sale and the proceeds will go for welfare work in the community.

The Garden Club section of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club, at the November meeting, on the 22nd, will discuss the subject, "From Crocus to Chrysanthemum." This will be presented by Mrs. Robert L. Munson, of Melrose. Mrs. Munson is able to give to the Club much valuable information, gained from her wide experience with perennials.

Tea will be served under the auspices of Mrs. W. B. Kennedy, chairman, assisted by Mrs. A. T. Budgett and Mrs. H. W. Flag.

Newton Federation

A slogan of the Newton Federation is "Know Your City Government" and to further the information of the women of Newton, an opportunity is offered to visit City Hall, and department heads how the city government is organized and how it functions. This interesting afternoon has been planned by the Legislative committee, whose chairman is Mrs. Alexander I. Peckham, for November 22nd, at 2 o'clock, at the Memorial Auditorium, City Hall. The meeting is not restricted to Club members.

Social Science Club

Mrs. Henry I. Harriman will read a paper to the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, November 22nd, in the Channing Church Parlor. Her subject will be "Broadcasts from the Field of Sociology." Mrs. H. W. Robinson and Mrs. Henry Tolman will be hostesses.

Newton Community Club

Thursday, November 23rd, will be Dramatics Day at the Newton Community Club.

Mrs. George Pratt Maxim, chairman of the Dramatics class, will present the play "Under Suspicion," by Joseph Maynard Evans. Members of the Club taking the parts are Mrs. Kenneth Backman, Mrs. Harold Daniels, Mrs. Donald Gibbs, Mrs. Elwood Howe, Mrs. Harold Moore, Mrs. John Nolan, Mrs. Clarence Spike, Mrs. Harry Walen, and Mrs. Kendall Woodrough.

The President of the Club, Mrs. Steven Bayard Wilson, will preside at the meeting preceding the Play, and Mrs. George E. Rawson will have charge of the Tea at the conclusion of the program.

Besides the Play there will be the attraction of a musical program presented by the Music chairman, Mrs. Wallace Walen, given by the Mereminsk Trio, composed of the talented artists: Miss Francoise Mereminsk, Pianist; Miss Ruth Austin, Violinist; and Miss Ora Larthard, Cellist. Before the Play they will give the First Movement D Minor Trio, by Mendelssohn; and between the acts the equally lovely selections: "Ariettes" Suite, by Bizet; and Valtz Scherzo C Major, by Oscar Straus.

The Rummage Sale which the Club is holding on Friday and Saturday, the 17th and 18th, at 245 Washington street, Newton Corner, will offer many bargains to purchasers. Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge, general manager in charge, is collecting all manner of articles, including clothing, jewelry, bric-a-brac, furniture, and various household and personal items. The Sale is for the benefit of the Philanthropic Home of the Club, and it is hoped it will make possible again this year the many contributions to worthwhile charities and organizations that the Club always assists.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

On Friday, November 24th, the West Newton Women's Educational Club will present a program under the direction of the Art department of the Federation committee of the Club. The Art chairman, Mrs. Starr A. Burdick, and her co-worker, Mrs. Sidney B. Sargent, have arranged to have as their speaker Mr. G. Harry Adalian, of Adalian Bros. Inc., who will talk on "Oriental Rugs." They have also arranged for members of the Club to express their individual artistic taste in setting small tables for the serving of tea, following the lecture on rugs. In order to furnish a harmonious background, rugs—some from Mr. Adalian's collection—and quaint and interesting shawls will be displayed.

On Monday, November 20th, the American Home department, of which Mrs. Alfred E. Thayer is chairman, will hold its third meeting, the subject of the afternoon being "The Guest Room."

West Newton Women's Educational Club

On Friday, November 10th, the members of the West Newton Women's Educational Club were very fortunate in having for their speaker Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond, who gave a most enjoyable talk on "The Best of New Fiction." Mrs. Bond is an enthusiastic and entertaining speaker in her manner of presentation, and at the same time shows a thorough knowledge of her subject—books. She gave a partial list of the best of the purely entertaining fiction of the present day, with appropriate remarks and with clear-cut outlines of the plots of each one. Then came résumés of the worthwhile books of the present day—character novels, on the whole Mrs. G. Howard Frost, who is chairman of the Program committee, introduced the speaker.

After a discussion and some questions about the books upon which Mrs. Bond lectured, tea was served in the Church Parlor.

State Federation

RADIO. On Saturday, November 18th, at 11:15 a. m., over Station WBZ, Mrs. Norman Hastings, chairman of American Home, will present as Guest Speaker, Miss Alice Bradley, of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, whose subject is "For the Eye and the Palate." Music will be rendered by Charles Repper, Composer-Planner.

Mrs. John H. Kimball, second vice-president of the State Federation, will speak on the subject, "Abreast of the Times."

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

Howard B. Gill, Superintendent of the State Prison Colony at Norfolk, spoke on "Criminal Reform" at the regular meeting of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, November 7th, in the Congregational Parish House. Mr. Gill described the first State Prison, built in Philadelphia in 1796 by the Quakers, and explained the methods of discipline at that time up to 1830. There has been very little change in buildings or methods since 1830 until the Norfolk Colony was started. He compared prisons with hospitals. The case of the physically-ill person is studied and treated in accordance therewith. Nobody knows what is the matter with the socially-ill prisoner, said Mr. Gill, and no one does anything about it. He stated most criminal offenses were due to the wrong philosophy of life that "someone owes them a living." In closing Mr. Gill gave a very interesting outline of the community life at Norfolk and the method of handling all activities by a joint committee of members of the staff and inmates. A question period followed.

Mrs. James E. Rayner, chairman of the Community Service committee, recommended that $345 of the Club's philanthropic fund be given at once to the Community Chest and the members unanimously voted to give this sum as recommended. Mrs. Alexander L. Peckham, chairman of the Legislative committee, requested Club members to write to their State Senator or Representative their personal wishes in regard to the bill legalizing the sale of intoxicants, to be consumed upon the premises, in taverns.

It really doesn't make any difference what method is used in creating a permanent wave. Whether it is a failure or a success depends solely upon the skill of the operator who creates it. That proves how important it is to select the right one. GEORGE is not only a genius but an international celebrity, gifted as well as trained in the hairdressers' art. His beautifully moulded permanent waves; artistic coiffures and individual haircuts show how well he has mastered every little trick that will turn a little Miss Nobody into a very important and smartly groomed Somebody. And he has imparted all this knowledge to his staff of personally trained experts whose work he closely supervises. Why pay higher prices elsewhere? Permanent waves $8.00 and $10.00; Hair trim, shampoo and artistic finger wave, $1.50 up. Note the address! GEORGE'S BEAUTY SALON, 59 Temple Pl., 10th floor. DEV. 6767.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by W. Mark Noble Junior and Merrill W. Cuthbert as mortgagors to the Crutcher Realty Trust, under Declaration of Trust dated July 20, 1927 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 1307 Page 175, to the Newton Savings Bank, dated April 8th 1930 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 1643 Page 10, for breach of the condition therein contained and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described on Monday the twentieth day of November 1933 at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular of the premises described in said mortgage ated, namely "all that parcel of land in that part of Newton, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, known as the parcel being Lot 7-A on a re-subdivision Plan of Land in Newton, Mass., dated January 1, 1928, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds and recorded with Middlesex South District in Record Book 5481 Page 101."

Easterly by Chestnut Street one hundred forty-four and 80/100 feet; and southerly by said Parcel 5-A one hundred and thirty-three and 20/100 feet; and westerly by Lot 7-A on said Plan one hundred thirty-three and 20/100 feet; and containing about 19900 square feet.

Reference for title is made to the Trust Agreement of the Trustees of the Trust dated December 6, 1928 and recorded with said District in Book and Page 5481 and to the premises conveyed subject to the restrictions set forth in said deed so as to be more fully described hereinafter.

In conformance with said Trust it is specifically stated that the holder hereinafter referred to as the Trust is to have the sole and exclusive right to use only to the property of the Trust, without however affecting or impairing the right of the said Trust to convey said grants under endorsement of the deed so secured hereby.

It is further stated that from the above described premises a strip of land fifteen feet wide in width from the southerly side of said Parcel 5-A was conveyed by deed dated July 29th 1930, duly recorded in

Said premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes, tax titles, municipal fines and assessments.
$500.00 at time and place of sale.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Thomas Francis Kiley and Jennie Mary Kiley husband and wife in and to the South Registry District for their right to Newton Co-operative Bank, dated September 24th, 1928, and registered in the South Registry District for Middlesex County as Document No. 3169 of Certificate No. 144, Book 135, Page 69, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage,

TO WIT: "a certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate in said Newton and bounded as follows: Westerly by Talbot Street fifty (50) feet

Northerly by Lot C as shown on plan hereinafter mentioned and by lands now or formerly of Simon P. Anderson and of J. Henry Meekins by two lines measuring together one hundred fifty-seven and 45/100 (157.45) feet;
Easterly by land now or formerly of Anne Putt Santeson forty-nine and 31/100 (49.31) feet; and Southerly by Lot A on said plan one hundred forty-five and 53/100 (145.53) feet;

Said parcel is shown as Lot B on said plan.
All of said boundaries, except the street line, are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a subdivision plan as approved by the Court filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of which is filed in the Registry of Deeds for the South Registry District of Middlesex County in Registration Book 162 Page 165 with Certificate No. 24258.

Being the same premises conveyed to said Jennie Mary Kiley by said Bank by deed of even record herewith."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes or other municipal liens and assessments, and to tax titles outstanding, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) in cash or certified checks to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of the sale, and the balance within ten (10) days. Other terms to be announced at the sale.

a statesman, a gifted speaker, an author, and of international fame. He is a vivid little personality, standing under five feet five, and is an orator of unusual ability. His English acquired at Cambridge University, England, is perfect. He is possessed of an ability to impersonate worthy of an actor, of an ability to pun and play upon words worthy of a professional humorist and possessed of the seriousness of a social reformer and the moral earnestness of a religious teacher. In fact, he is one of the most lucid, convincing and impressive speakers whom American audiences have ever heard. He will speak on the present condition in that great Republic of China. Mrs. Stephen Hung, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music, Boston, will sing solos. At the morning hour, 10:30, Mr. Hill will speak on the theme, "When the Second Best Becomes the Best."

Letters To The Editor

ADVOCATES SET-BACK FOR NEW BUILDING

To the Editor:
When the zoning ordinance was adopted there were three general set-backs or building lines established to meet the conditions as presented at that time.
1. Private and single residence, set 25 feet from the street line.
2. General residence, set 15 feet from the street line.
3. Business and manufacturing, set at the street line.
This method seemed to be perfect at the time of the passage of the ordinance, but experience has shown that a modern way should be adopted when the present ways of doing business are considered. There must be room for cars to stop and park for a time so as to permit the purchasers to do their shopping, else they will go outside of the city to some locality where parking is provided. Business and parking are becoming quite a problem and will be so more and more as the time goes on with the use of the automobile method of doing business instead of the former pedestrian method.

Streets and highways are made for traffic and communication to private property and not for the storage of machines to the detriment of free passage. Therefore, they should be kept open for the purposes that were dedicated.
A new thought in the planning of towns and cities that are subject to zoning ordinances, is to require a proper set-back for the carrying on of business in store or office building. The remedy is, when a change is desired, to require a set-back of at least 15 feet. This as a rule would be no hardship, as the set-back of the general residence is the least of 15 feet. Such set-back would provide when the business or store is built that there would be 15 feet in front of the building to the street line in which to do business.

If the street is widened as time goes on the space would provide ample area for the occasional parking without interfering with the general traffic. The land owner may stand upon his rights and claim that he must be on the present street line. Such owner is short sighted for how can the modern method of doing business be done unless ample space is given in which to carry it on. The 15 feet now on the general residence is of little use except for light and air and front approach to the building. There is usually plenty of land in the rear to provide for an ample building for business purposes and give the added space to automotive use.

If one were to have occasion to visit some of the old towns laid out by the first settlers they would see that they were wise in that they set the stores and buildings back of the traffic lines and gave ample space for the hitching of horses to do business at their leisure. We of this generation are so little minded sometimes that we cannot see into the future. We crowd ourselves too much, we should have a broad outlook and plan for the next generation's use and convenience as far as we can see.

The next move for any one to change to business should be to agree to have a set-back of at least 15 feet from HERBERT J. KELLAWAY.

Eugene Conley, a tenor in the Boston Male Chorus, was the guest of another group later. The selections by Roland Tapley, who has been playing first violin with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, were brilliantly rendered; and Howard Slayman, a soloist with the Boston People's Symphony, was heard, not only as an accompanist to the other artists, but also in a group of piano solos. The audience enjoyed a well-balanced program from both modern and older composers.

An exhibition of exquisite Chinese handicrafts was displayed in the Lounge by Mrs. Edward Payson Drew, who is selling these articles for the stricken inhabitants of the famine area in China.

The usual business meeting, with Mrs. Ernest Drew presiding, preceded the program.

Newtonville Woman's Club

At the second regular meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Club, held on Tuesday, November 7th, in the auditorium of the Club House, Mrs. Edwin P. Crawe, president, spoke briefly concerning the Newton Community Chest. She also announced that Mrs. Arthur D. Quimby had been elected as Page for the Club.

An exceptional program, unique in interest, directed by Mrs. George Lowry Davis, was presented to a large and receptive audience. Music was provided by Miss Marie Sladen, Contralto, and Mrs. Florence C. Allen, Pianist. Mrs. Hugh D. Butler, whose husband was Assistant Commercial Attaché to the American Embassy in England, portrayed "Pomp and Pagentry at the Court of St. James." Mrs. Butler, in a very entertaining description, explained the place the Crown and the British Royal Family continue to hold in English life, showing the heavy traditional atmosphere and English customs are tied up with the sentimental side of English life. Because of the stable government there has been no invasion of England for over 900 years. It is from this stability, strength, and peace that they can do, contribute the gracious art of living to the world. Mrs. Butler made a painting-like picture when she appeared in the costume in which she was presented at Court.

Newton Community Club

As the program for the regular meeting of the Newton Community Club, held at the Underwood School on Thursday afternoon, November 9th, a deeply interesting lecture on Current Events was given by Prof. J. Anton de Haas who holds the chair of International Relations in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University. His lectures deal with the economic and financial aspects of world affairs. The president, Mrs. Steven Bayard Wilson, presided at the business meeting.

A delightful and inspiring musical program was given, previous to the lecture, by Mr. Paul Lachouche, Mus. B. H. numbers were Papillon, Schubert; Liebestraum, by Liszt; the eleventh Hungarian Rhapsody, by Liszt; and a Reverie of his own composition. Tea was served under the direction of the Social committee chairman, Mrs. George E. Rawson. The pourers were Mrs. Edward H. Keach, Mrs. Henry P. Curtiss, and two member Club presidents, and Mrs. George Lincoln Parker.

Newton Federation

With an attendance of nearly one hundred women representing clubs in the Newtons, the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held its Fall Conference on Monday morning, November 13th, at the Congregational Church, West Newton. The use of this church, which is so admirably adapted for the purpose, was this year, as in the past, kindly offered to the club women for the first of their series of meetings for the 1933-34 season. The committee chairman from the different clubs met in various conference rooms where round-table discussions were conducted by the Federation officers or chairmen, with the approximate number in attendance as follows: Mrs. J. Earle Parker, Presidents, 6, and vice-presidents, 3; Mrs. Edwin F. Gibbs and Mrs. George J. Murphy, Secretaries, 8; Mrs. Sidney E. Thomas, 8; Mrs. Harry C. Moore, Finance officers, 20; Mrs. Clarence H. Spike, American Home, 9; Mrs. Robert Bonner, Civics or Community Service, 13; Mrs. Edwin H. Dyer, Conservation of Natural Resources, 9; Mrs. Maynard Hutchinson, Educational, 15; Mrs. J. Porter Russell, International Relations, 8; Mrs. Alexander Peckham, Legislative, 10; Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, Literature and Drama, 6; Mrs. Earle Brackett, Motion Pictures, 8; Mrs. Robert S. Bowen, Publicity and Bulletins, 10; and Mrs. Charles A. Riley and Miss Elizabeth P. Bartlett, Public Health and Christmas Seals, 6. There was much of interest for their various groups to discuss, and policies and programs of action for the club year were defined, new committee members benefitting by others' experiences and also contributing new ideas.

The Publicity division had a guest speaker, Miss Emma D. Coolidge, Editor of the Women's Club Department of the Newton Graphic, who was most helpful in answering questions and by advising the group regarding the most acceptable way of writing notices for that paper. The offer made last year by the Graphic of returning seventy-five cents for the subscription price of three dollars to the treasury of the club for each new subscriber continues until January first. This does not apply to renewals however, and subscriptions should be addressed to Miss Coolidge at her home, 4 Pembroke street, Newton, and designate the club of the subscriber.

The Senate for the day was Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg, who was assisted by her Program committee, while the Social committee, under the chair-

At 12:30 o'clock luncheon was announced. Mrs. Lippincott and her committee of thirty-three drawn from the different clubs, served a delicious and gratifying Southern meal to one hundred and thirty-six. The decorations of yellow flowers and candles were appropriate to the fall season, the stage at the rear of the head table showing the bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and fall leaves. The president, Mrs. Charles C. Willson, spoke a few words of greeting and welcomed as guests of the Club, Mrs. George G. Phipps, founder and first president of the Newton Federation, and Mrs. Seldon E. James, Twelfth District director of the Massachusetts State Federation, and she also took occasion to pay tribute to Mrs. Lippincott who has been so painstaking and so successful in her chairmanship. After luncheon the interval necessary to prepare the hall for the afternoon meeting was occupied in inspecting the beautiful church and its appointments.

Many other members came for the afternoon session, and in her opening remarks, Mrs. Willson announced the addition of two new departments,—one of International Relations and one of Motion Pictures. A report of the Annual Meeting held last spring in Newton Centre, was read by Mrs. George J. Murphy.

Miss Ruth Chapin, general secretary, was the first speaker, with the subject "Present Needs of the Welfare Bureau." Miss Chapin called to attention the close association of the Federation and the Welfare Bureau particularly regarding the sale of the Christmas Seals and the work done in dispensing the garments from the clothing chest. She differentiated between public and private welfare, and pointed out the need of each to supplement the other, showing how, in many cases, the aid and interest given by the private bureau prevent the beneficiaries from becoming dependent on the public department, and asking the audience to remember the Community Chest, to which the majority of Newton organizations belong and from which they draw their funds for their philanthropies and other activities.

A delightful interlude was provided by Florence Carter Allen who contributed four very pleasing piano solos.

"Motion Pictures as the Club Woman Would Like to See It" was the topic chosen by Mrs. Oscar H. Blaisdell, chairman of Motion Pictures for the State Federation. Mrs. Blaisdell brought greetings from the Quincy Federation, and cited instances where interested women have greatly influenced the programs of pictures shown in their home towns and spoke of the lists available classifying pictures, and at the end of her talk concluded that in the last analysis the moving picture problem is in the hands of the public, and approval or disapproval may be expressed by the attendance or absence from the theatre, and also by approval or adverse criticism of programs to the managers of the theatres.

Carl E. Milliken, former governor of Maine, and at present a member of the Hay's Organization in New York, gave his views of "Motion Pictures as the Producer Sees It." He gave a brief history of the development of the business, and told how gradual must be changes to remedy faults. He regretted the lack of parental supervision in the attendance of children, and spoke of the care taken by the producers in having pictures viewed by three to four hundred women serving on volunteer committees. He, too, referred to the lists classifying the pictures, and suggested that some means of educating the theatre goers to an appreciation of finer pictures would tend to popularize them, as entertainment is a voluntary choice, and pictures shown must justify themselves by their receipts. He touched upon many considerations from the producers' point of view and replied to several questions. Motion Picture Councils in some of the cities have done much to improve the character of programs. Theatre managers were present from some of the nearby houses and were given an opportunity to speak personally with Mr. Milliken.

A recess was called late in the afternoon to permit the departure of those who found it necessary to leave, but due to the enthusiasm expressed on the subject, many remained to talk further with Mr. Milliken.

This very successful meeting was a fine tribute to the careful planning of Mrs. Ratzburg and her committee.

Wd. 7 Improvement Assn. Is Organized

On Monday evening, November 13th, the first open meeting of the Ward Seven Improvement Association was held at the home of Ellis Sutcliffe, 112 Charlesbank road, Newton. At a recent meeting Mr. John F. O'Brien was elected president; John Cassidy, vice-president; Desmond F. Donnelly, secretary; and Kenneth Barton, treasurer. The executive board is composed of Arthur E. Gunnerson, chairman; Guy Hopwood, Nathan Pearson, Hugh Garrity, Dana J. Foley and Samuel L. Young. The last three named were elected at the November 13th meeting.

Plans were discussed for the holding of a rally under the auspices of the Association in the Underwood School hall on Monday evening, November 27th. It is planned to invite all candidates for offices to be voted on by voters of Ward Seven at the coming municipal election. The Association is a non-partisan organization and was formed for the objective purpose of acquainting the voters with municipal affairs and of creating interest in ward improvements.

Appropriation for Plans of Newton NRA Projects

Alderman Temperley Criticizes Action Taken By Aldermen

Following a discussion as a committee of the whole in private meeting on Monday night the Board of Aldermen voted to appropriate $17,000 for plans and specifications on several projects which are to be financed by the NRA provided this city obtains approval of its applications for financial grants on these projects.

Alderman Temperley objected to the appropriation on the contention that money for it was to be taken from the Excess and Deficiency Fund. He produced a financial statement issued on October 31st to the Aldermen by Comptroller of Accounts White to prove his contention that there is not enough money remaining in this fund to meet the appropriation. According to this statement the Excess and Deficiency Fund had only $1651.66 remaining on October 31. The Water Fund had a balance of $96,472. He commented, "Isn't it unusual to appropriate money when we haven't it?"

Alderman Gordon, chairman of the Finance Committee, replied, "We have $17,000 coming to the city from the State and from Federal grants."

President Collins of the Board said that there is ample money in the Excess and Deficiency Fund to meet the appropriation and if there is not we can take the money from the Water Fund. Alderman Bowen stated that there was $98,000 in the Excess and Deficiency Fund on October 31, as there is no difference, legally between this fund and the Water Fund. He commented that since that date $50,000 additional has become available, although he was not aware, whether, or not it had been assigned to the E and D fund.

Alderman Temperley asserted that the city has no legal right to use money from the Water Fund for other expenses of the city. He said that the surplus in the Water Fund is money taken from users of water by overcharges. Alderman Collins replied that it is improbable that money will be taken from the Water Fund to meet the appropriation for the plans and specifications on the proposed school buildings and incinerator, but that if such action is taken, it will be legal. Collins stated that about 5 years ago money was taken from the Water Fund for other city expenses.

Alderman Cronin asked Alderman Gordon, chairman of the Finance Committee, who is to receive the $17,000 and for what services? Gordon replied that $4500 is for plans and specifications on the proposed incinerator, to be paid to Metcalf & Eddy, engineers; $4500 for claims of the new grade school at Nevada st., Newtonville, to be paid to Ralph C. Henry; for the plans of the addition to the Bigelow School, $3500 to Hubert Ripley and Lee Bontellier; for plans of the addition to the Day School, $2000 to James Ritchie. The Public Buildings Department will receive $1000 for additional employees, $750 for blue prints and $750 for incidental expenses.

Cronin next asked Gordon where the incinerator will be located? Gordon answered that he does not know where the proposed rubbish burner will be erected. Cronin inquired of Gordon if he deems it advisable to spend money for plans for the incinerator before it is known where this (Continued on Page 2)

Aldermen Argue Over New Pumps To Pump Water

At the meeting of the aldermen on Monday night the sum of $11,000 was appropriated for the purchase of two electrically operated pumps to be installed in a small brick building at the Newton water reservation in Needham. This matter was not on the typewritten docket but came before the Board for the first time just prior to the calling of the meeting. Alderman Hawkins asked Alderman Jamieson, chairman of the special committee on water supply for information regarding the pumps. Jamieson explained that the pumps will be installed on the Needham side of the Charles River at the end of the long wooden conduit through which the water is carried to the 24-inch iron pipe that runs under the river to the pumping station. He said the purpose of the pumps is to equalize the pressure within the pipe with that of the pressure of the water in the river, to offset the friction in the pipe, and to provide a higher head of water for the pipe from the Needham side.

Alderman Gallagher amplified Jamieson's explanation by saying that the State Board of Health had been apprehensive that the pressure of the water in the river might cause some of it to leak into the pipe, but that the joint on the pipe had never leaked. He stated that by installing the pumps and providing more pressure within the pipe, the State Board of Health would be satisfied.

Alderman Temperley said he is not in accord with the water program. He said criticisms on Newton water are common all over the city and the aldermen should go slow before spending more money on Newton's water supply. He commented that to bring in an order for an appropriation involving $11,000, and passing this order on the same night "is too fast for me."

Alderman Cronin said, "We don't know anything about these pumps." He asked Alderman Jamieson, "What kind of pumps are to be purchased and who will they be purchased from?" He also inquired as to who had asked for the purchase of the pumps. Jamieson replied that he did not know what the type of pumps will be or who will furnish them. He said the Water Commissioner had requested the installation of the pumps.

A vote was taken on making the appropriation of $11,000 for the purchase of the pumps. All of the aldermen with the exception of Alderman Temperley voted for the appropriation.

Another appropriation for the Water Department was $1000 to pay fees to Weston & Sampson, consulting engineers. Alderman Hawkins inquired what this appropriation was for. Alderman Jamieson answered that every year this firm is retained as consultants on the water supply and that they were consulted about the new pumps and other matters in connection with the recent trouble with the water, and thus had to be paid for these services.

Community Chest Campaign Totals Over $160,000

More Than $160,000 Was Reported at the Final Regular Meeting of Workers on the Community Chest Campaign Held at Campaign Headquarters Last Monday Night

Chest leaders are confident that by the beginning of the new year this total will be substantially increased. A considerable number of contributions have been delayed due to the temporary absence of some people from the city and additional gifts which have been secured but not yet reported will further swell the total. Leon B. Rogers, President of the Chest, in thanking those present Monday night for their work, told them that they had established a record in successful public service through their efforts on the campaign.

The amounts contributed to date in the various villages of Newton are as follows:

Chestnut Hill	12,370
Newton	29,309
Newton Centre	21,600
Newton Highlands	9,327
Newton Lower Falls	321
Newton Upper Falls	954
Newtonville	18,092
Nonantum	741
Oak Hill	2,354
Waban	13,033
West Newton	40,328

Melcher to Run For Hawkins' Seat—Other Politics

James B. Melcher of 16 Garden rd., Newton will be a candidate for Ward Alderman from Ward 7. Mr. Melcher has resided in this city most of his life and has been prominent in civic affairs. He is now serving as a member of the Playground Commission. He is cashier of the Newton National Bank.

Alderman Frank A. Hawkins who has served as Ward Alderman since January 1, 1926, and not believing in too long tenure of office, will not be a candidate for re-election. He will support Mr. Melcher.

Papers were filed on Monday for Francis W. McOwen of 260 Elliot st., Newton Upper Falls, as a candidate for the Newton School Committee from Ward 5. Mr. McOwen, son of Dr. William McOwen, was born in Newton and educated in the Newton public schools. After graduation from the Newton High School, he entered Boston College and graduated with the degree of A.B.

During his college course he distinguished himself as a debater. He also represented his college as chairman of the Greater Boston interscholastic oratorical contest committee.

Since graduation from college he has been engaged in business as an advertising counselor. This is the first time he has aspired to public office. He is pledged to use his influence to keep the public schools of the city free from partisan and factional control.

Bridge Over Charles Is Called Unsafe

The old bridge over the Charles River at Riverside has been declared unsafe by Street Commissioner Stuart and warning signs were placed on it last Saturday advising the public that those traveling over the bridge do so at their own risk. These signs are illuminated at night. The bridge was built about 74 years ago and it is of wood with steel girders. It is 175 feet long and extends from Charles st., Auburndale to Riverside rd., West Newton. Since the athletic field of Boston University was located in West Newton several years ago, there has been a large amount of traffic over the old bridge on days when games were played at this field. A few years ago a firm of bridge experts who made a survey of the bridge declared that it should be replaced. Recently perceptible swaying has been observed at the bridge and the warning precautions were deemed necessary. It is estimated that it will cost about $200,000 to build a new bridge at this location. The cost of such a bridge must be borne by the City of Newton, Town of Weston, County of Middlesex, and the Commonwealth.

First Public Rally Of Local Campaign At Chestnut Hill

Five Mayoralty Candidates, Many Others Speak to Capacity Audience

At the first public rally of the 1933 municipal campaign at the John Ward School, Chestnut Hill, on Monday night all five of the mayoralty candidates spoke to audiences which overflowed the capacity of the auditorium. Many of the aldermanic and school committee candidates also spoke. The rally was held under the auspices of the Newton Civic Society with Mr. A. C. Webber, president, acting as chairman. In addition to Mayor Weeks the Mayoralty candidates who spoke were Walter A. Hodgdon, Thomas W. White, Paul Harris Drake, and Frank H. Sullivan.

Mr. Hodgdon assailed the pre-election pledge card organization work of the Weeks Campaign Committee as un-American and charged that the campaign tactics of Mr. White were an attempt to hoodwink Democrats and Independents while trying to retain Republican friendships in a non-partisan election.

Mr. Hodgdon said in part: "We are all human and make mistakes. I made one four years ago when I supported our present Mayor. I consider his campaign of forcing people to sign pledge cards as the dirtiest deal ever perpetrated in Newton politics. It is evidence of the contempt held for the ordinary man's intelligence by the plutocratic Republican politician. It nullifies the freedom of the ballot box. It must be illegal. It shows conclusively that Weeks realizes he cannot win legitimately on his record or on the issues. You are not bound to vote for Weeks because you signed one of these cards. On the contrary you should vote against the politician that would use such an unfair method of getting votes. We are free people and will remain so despite Weeks and his henchmen with their Un-American pledge cards."

"We have another Hoover Republican candidate the Hon. Thomas W. White. He preceded me as a member of the Board of Aldermen from Ward 5. He calls himself a Non-Partisan candidate. He is no more a non-partisan candidate than was Hoover in 1932 or Nichols this year. He terms himself a non-partisan candidate to get Democratic and Independent votes but is a Republican in Republican to members of that party. He is as much a dyed-in-the-wool black Republican as is Weeks."

"He is an expert political manipulator and knows all the tricks of the trade. To influence Republican voters he published in the Newton papers two letters from well known Republicans. One was from former Governor Allen and the other from Ex-President Hoover, who promised us a chicken in every pot but gave us soup."

"The latter letter was sent to Mr. White a few days before Mr. Hoover turned the White House over to our great leader, President Roosevelt, and with it a country on the verge of ruin. It proves that Mr. White is a personal friend of Mr. Hoover and that he is trying to get votes on the strength of this friendship."

"Now that the reason for the use of this letter has been brought out in the open Mr. White's next move will be to placate the Democrats and others who consider Mr. Hoover a liability. His plan may be to publish letters from well known Democrats, say from Senators and Congressmen, tricked by Mr. White into the belief that this really is a non-partisan election. He might through his connections as a bank Director get a letter from J. P. Morgan, or if he thinks it necessary to publish letters from outsiders, to be elected in Newton why not ask Mr. Morgan or Mr. Hoover to have the King of England write him one."

"White has been making a concerted drive for Democratic votes in Wards 1 and 2 where his Republican workers Heathcote, Childs and Boyd and his running mate Aldermanic candidate Kligman are trying to make the voters believe that White is more a Democrat than a Republican and that he is a friend of the working man and Civil Service job-holder."

"Summing up the Weeks and White plans of campaigning we find that the Weeks campaign is one of coercion. He is not interested in issues. He wants pledged votes regardless of how they are obtained. White's campaign is one of hoodwinking Democrats and Independents into voting for him as a democratic non-partisan candidate while advising Republicans that he is still the same old Republican wheel-horse and friend of Hoover, Allen, Butler and Innis."

"There are plenty of issues. I have included a set forth as well as others which included the appointment and employment of Newton citizens in all city positions and work, the purchasing of supplies by the city from Newton business men and citizens, pure water and the reduction of the minimum and metered charges, organized labor, a two platform system in the fire department, adequate (Continued on page 3)

Newton Receives $161,000 for Civil Works Now Started

Plan Employment for 900 Men Through Coming Winter Months

Of the $12,000,000 allotted to Massachusetts from the Civil Works Fund which is being financed by the Federal Government, Newton will receive $161,000. This money will be used to provide work for hundreds of unemployed Newton men; in fact, it is planned to give work to about 900 men until about the middle of February. Already about 350 men who have been getting aid from the Welfare Department and Soldiers Relief of the city have been assigned to work. Of those put to work, 120 are employed at Edmonds Park at Newton; 120 at Cold Spring Playground at Newton Highlands; 100 at Auburndale Playground near Islington rd., and 25 at the Thompsonville playground. Nearly all the men who have been on the welfare lists welcomed the opportunity to work and obtain money for themselves and their dependents. About a dozen refused to go to work and wanted to continue receiving the food doles, rent and fuel allowances. Unless these men can prove that they are physically unable to work, they will probably be deprived of welfare aid, in accordance with the order issued by the State officials.

The men will work 30 hours each week and will be paid 50 cents per hour. Foremen will receive 60 cents an hour; and should any mechanics be employed on skilled labor they will be paid $1.20 per hour. The work will be supervised by Federal officials and the men will be paid in Federal checks. In addition to the men from the welfare lists who have been put to work, it is planned to employ an equal number of men who have not been receiving aid from the city. Many of these men have been filling applications at the office of the Mayor's Relief Committee at City Hall.

A special meeting of the Board of Aldermen was called last night by Mayor Sinclair Weeks for the purpose of making two appropriations to purchase tools, supplies and material which will be used in the projects to be financed by the Civil Works Commission. For the work to be done under supervision of the Playground Department, $15,000 was appropriated; for the work to be done under supervision of the Street Department, $5000.

NRA Approves School Projects

On Wednesday Secretary Ickes at Washington approved 54 projects in 27 States, including several in Massachusetts. Among the latter were the applications for grants on the construction of a new grade school at Nevada st., Newtonville, $248,000; and an addition to the Day Junior High School at Newtonville, $60,700.

Weeks Papers Have 10,000 Names

Nomination papers for Mayor Sinclair Weeks, bearing more than ten thousand signatures were filed in the office of the City Clerk today, in his behalf, by his Executive Secretary, James Dempsey. The signatures were obtained in every ward and precinct of the entire city.

Financial Status Of Newton Cited By Weeks at Rally

Lowest Tax Rate in State and Sound Credit Accomplishments During Depression

Mayor Sinclair Weeks, citing facts and figures to prove his point, Mayor Sinclair Weeks, at the first public rally of the 1933 Mayoralty Campaign in the Ward School, Chestnut Hill, Monday night, declared that Newton under his administration has the lowest tax rate and the soundest credit of any city in Massachusetts. The success of any administration, he pointed out, is based on its financial standing. His campaign, he pointed out, is based on a record of accomplishment during the worst depression in our history. The campaign of his four opponents, of necessity, he declared, is and must be based solely on promises.

"For the past three years," the Mayor said, "prudent management on the part of city department heads, and extraordinary cooperation on the part of the Board of Aldermen, has enabled my administration to reduce taxes. Without the cooperation of the Aldermen and Department Heads I, or no other mayor, could have accomplished the record of which all Newton is proud and which men and women throughout the state are pointing as a model of city government. It is well to consider that 17 of the 21 Aldermen are supporting me for re-election. To have the men I have labored with overwhelmingly behind me is a tribute that I greatly appreciate."

"There have been no 'pay-less pay-days' in Newton," Mayor Weeks declared. "Why not? Because Newton has been kept in good financial condition. Everett teachers, police, fire, city employees, a little more than a year ago went without pay for eight weeks; Haverhill for 3 weeks; Lowell for nearly four months; Quincy for 3 weeks; Taunton for 3 weeks; Waltham was one week in arrears for a period of four months this year and Revere employees right now haven't been paid for 3 1/2 months."

"We in Newton cut salaries 7 1/2 per cent. You in business, you who pay the taxes, I daresay have been cut much more. I know of private concerns which cut from 25 to 50 per cent. Many cities required their employees to 'contribute' part of their salaries and others took the man-like step and made a cut in wages."

"When good times return, those cuts will be restored. We in Newton took from the pay envelopes of police, firemen, laborers, teachers and clerks, the smallest amount taken by any city in greater Boston. Brookline took 10 per cent; Cambridge 10; Chelsea took 20; Everett took 10; Fall River took 20; Haverhill took 16 2/3; Lowell took 10 to 20; Lynn, Malden, Medford and Melrose took 10; Boston took 10 and Revere 20. I think Newton's 15 city employees, who look at the entire picture, are well satisfied with the way their chosen officials have treated them."

"Don't be misled by 'hit or miss' statements about the tax rate which some of my opponents have been making," advised Mayor Weeks. "Our tax rate in 1929 when I assumed office was $27.20. Today it is $24.80. The results have been obtained primarily because your city departments did not expend all the money given to them each year in the budget. They saved (Continued on Page 2)

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

FLAGGING WALTHAM OFF THE UNBEATEN TRACK BY 6 POINTS

Newton high flagged Waltham off the unbeaten track last Saturday at Dickinson Stadium, Newtonville when Charlie Flagg, Newton quarterback, tallied the only score in the day in the third period for 6 to 0 victory. While Flagg was outstanding in the Newton attack he had the valuable help of his mates to make him the greatest ground gainer of the day. Captain Charley Thompson, a surprise starter handicapped by an injured side, was the defensive hero stopping Larry Harrigan, Waltham back, on a touchdown jump in the nick of time. The run was the most thrilling incident of the day from every angle. Late in the third period Newton had worked its way deep into the Waltham territory when Harrigan leaped into the air to snare a Flagg forward pass on the Waltham 54 yard line. Amid rapidly forming interference Harrigan set sail on his long journey, apparently safe from any Newton tackler. But Thompson seemed inspired as he started his race to overtake the Waltham carrier who had almost a twenty yard lead. Outstepping the Waltham interference the Newton leader gradually reduced the gap and overhauled Harrigan near the sideline. With a sure-fire tackle he tossed the Waltham runner out of bounds at the Newton 27-yard line, 63 yards from the point the pass was intercepted, to save the day. As Thompson drove for the tackle Harrigan tried in vain to side-slip.

Another important factor in Newton's victory was the punting of Sandy Sloane. Continually the lanky Newton youth, who a year ago was a reserve guard candidate, got away beautifully placed punts to keep the visitors on the defensive. Not more than twice did Sloane's punts go over the goal line with several going out of bounds inside the 20-yard stripe or being downed by the Newton ends and tackles almost within the shadow of the Waltham goal. For three periods Waltham was never in Newton territory with the exception of the final three plays of the first half after Harrigan's run. After play had gone into the fourth period with several third string players in the Newton line Waltham's attack functioned better and shorter before the game ended penetrated to the Newton 25 yard line.

building will be located? Gordon replied that Metcalf & Eddy have made plans which can be used on any location. Alderman Sproat commented that the aldermen had been told that Metcalf & Eddy had agreed to make these plans without expense to the city and would depend on the funds received from the NRA for their fees. Cronin's next question was—"Will the $17,000 for these appropriations come from the Excess and Deficiency Fund?" Gordon answered in the affirmative, but Alderman Murray corrected him and said that about $8000 of this amount will come from the School Fund. Gordon said Murray was right; that $8681.80 will come from the School Fund. Alderman Temperley asked Alderman Gordon if he had knowledge of the Excess and Deficiency Fund having been increased in recent weeks? President Collins answered the question by saying that money is available in the fund to pay the appropriations, but he did not know the exact amount of the fund.

Alderman Cronin asked Alderman Gordon when the city will receive the grants from the NRA for the school projects and the incinerator? Gordon answered, "God alone knows."

A separate vote was taken on the appropriation of $4500 for plans of the incinerator. Alderman Sproat and Temperley voted "No" on this matter. On the other appropriations included in the $17,000, Alderman Temperley was the sole member to vote "No." He contended that he had not been shown that there was money in the Excess and Deficiency Fund to meet these appropriations.

out of their accounts and turned back to the Treasury $117,000 in 1930; $162,000 in 1931; $168,000 in 1932. Alderman Sproat said that he expected a like saving to be turned back when this year ends. That's what counts in city affairs, just as it counts in private affairs. You are successful out to the extent of what you can save out of what you have to spend.

"And did we reduce the taxes by 'dipping in' to a fabulous city surplus which was left over from the previous administration? No! For years it has been the practice to take from the surplus some money and apply it to the taxes. It is legal. It is authorized and can only be done with approval of the State Tax Commission. It is right that you taxpayers should get the benefit of the money your public servants saved for you."

"However, there was a good surplus left over at the end of 1929, when I came into office. In fact, it amounted to $384,000. Yet the surplus was $450,000 at the end of 1930; $721,000 at the end of 1931 and at the end of last year it was $404,000. So you can see at a glance that we did not use an 'inherited surplus' to reduce taxes. The surplus in 1929, I repeat, was $384,000 and in 1932 it was $290,000 greater or $404,000."

"And is our credit sound? When we need money in the early part of the year before tax money comes in, can we go to the banks and borrow? For every city has to borrow in anticipation of taxes—we can most definitly. That's why we have never missed or delayed a single city pay day. Moreover, we can borrow at very low rates.

"In 1932 when Boston, Springfield, Worcester and other cities of the state were borrowing money at 6 per cent and when some communities could not borrow at all, Newton was able to obtain all the money it needed or wanted at rates of 5-4 1/2 per cent and lower. When conditions improved, the rates of interest dropped. At that time—again in July and August—most of the others were paying 3-1/2 per cent while Newton, in July, was paying less than 1 1/2 per cent—1.37 per cent to be exact. On September 20, we borrowed at a rate of .67, lowest of any loan made to any city in Massachusetts."

"During this year, the municipalities of the state have borrowed at rates ranging from 6 per cent to .48, or less than 1-2 of one per cent. That low rate—the record for the state—was Newton's."

Mayor Weeks also explained how the city's Police and Fire Departments have been improved; how the city's health has been guarded; how schools and playground facilities have been increased and the vast amount of work that has been done to improve and modernize the city's Water Department.

He pointed to the administration's interest in labor by giving street work to the city forces instead of to contractors and showed that all of his appointments during the past four years have been non-political.

Paul Harris Drake, candidate for Mayor at the coming municipal election challenged Mayor Weeks to meet him in public debate at a series of rallies to be held by Mr. Drake in six school buildings the week before election. The rallies will be held as follows: Monday, Dec. 4th, Bowen School, Thompsonville; Tuesday, Dec. 5th, Stearns School, Nonaantum; Wednesday, Dec. 6th, Underwood School, Newton; Thursday, Dec. 7th, Day Jr. High School, Newtonville; Friday, Dec. 8th, Weeks Jr. High School, Newton Centre, and Saturday, Dec. 9th, Warren Jr. High School, West Newton.

NEWTON FAVORED TO TOP BROOKLINE IN TURKEY DAY TILT

Newton and Brookline will battle it out Thanksgiving Day morning on the Municipal Field at Brookline in their annual tilt in which Newton will be striving to capture, beyond all shadow of doubt, the Suburban league championship for the second successive year. With Newton favored to win it is almost a certainty as even a tie game will bring the orange and black through supreme, while a victory for Brookline will mean a tie for league honors between Newton and Rindge Tech.

Newton has all the better of the season's record to date with six victories and three defeats in its nine games to date while the Wealthy Towners have been defeated in all seven of their games played. Last year, going into the Brookline game, Newton had won five, lost one and tied two, while Brookline had lost five so that the Newton margin this year is not quite as impressive as a year ago. Starting slowly and with a squad weakened by the loss of several veteran players through ineligibility the Brookline team has come along and all the better of the season's record to date with six victories and three defeats in its nine games to date while the Wealthy Towners have been defeated in all seven of their games played. Coach Sanborn has every expectation of having the team at full strength unless unexpected injuries in scrimmage occur. It will be remembered that two years ago Newton lost the services of Warren Huston through such an injury in the last scrimmage of the year. Many of the Newton team will be playing their last game as most of the regulars are seniors. This group includes: Capt. Thompson at centre, Swig at tackle, and Johnson, Finberg and Howe, ends, while in the backfield ten backs will be lost. The starting quartet of Flagg, Masella, Whitney, Frazier and Feola, Louis Miller, and Sandy Sloane in the reserve group along with three other reserves will graduate. The nucleus around whom Coach Sanborn will build his 1934 eleven will be Teannie, Savignano, Myers and Moore in the backfield, and Bryen and Castoldi, ends, Grow, Clavenger, Wilson and Hartley, tackles, and Wisback, Joyce, and Sam Miller, guards.

1931—Newton 0, Brookline 0.

SPORT NOTES

Is Leading Veteran

Brad Dyer of Auburndale is the outstanding veteran on the Bridgton Academy basketball squad which will play several games near Boston this coming season.

Leads Huskies Sextet

Herbert Gallagher of Newton is the captain of the 1933-34 Northeastern University hockey team which began practice recently. Among the candidates working out are Henry Furdon and Bob Buell, former Newton high athletes. Both played on the football eleven which closed its season a few weeks ago along with Francis Tuscher who has turned his attention to track. Tuscher is former state 440-yard schoolboy champion and is a leading candidate for a berth on the N. U. varsity relay team.

Country Day Wins

Country Day school defeated Browne and Nichols of Cambridge last week Friday, 32 to 0, and assured itself of the private day school title for the 1933 season. In the victory Wales was the outstanding star scoring two touchdowns. Perry, Rowbotham, and Muloney tallied the other three touchdowns. The first tally came in the second period after a long advance while the remaining scores all came in the final session.

On Williams Soccer Squad

Elliot Robinson of Newton Highlands, a former Newton high athlete, is on the Williams College soccer squad.

Rotarians Hold Tenth Anniversary Of Charter Night

The tenth anniversary of the Newton Rotary Club was fittingly and auspiciously celebrated on Monday evening at the Brae Burn Club House by a notable gathering of 163, including the wives of the members and men prominent in Rotary. Past Governors Daniel Sullivan of Fall River and Ernest Dunbar of Cambridge, and Present Governor Lester Merritt were among the honored guests and spoke of the progress of the Newton Club and its place of leadership attained during the ten years of its existence. James Crossman, President of the Needham Rotary Club, and Leslie Anderson, President of the Concord Rotary, organizations sponsored by the Newton Club, brought greetings to the local parent club. A letter of congratulation for a decade of community service as achieved in Newton was received from John Nelson, President of Rotary International, of Montreal, and was heard by the President of the local club, Harry Hanson. Other guests included a large delegation from the Boston Rotary Club, some of whom were present when the local club was first inaugurated ten years ago.

The festivities began when President Harry Hansen and Mrs. Hansen, surrounded by the charter members of the club and their wives—Mr. and Mrs. George F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bascom, and the father of the club, William Halliday, formerly of the Newton Trust Company, sat before the beautiful birthday cake with the members and their wives and invited guests. This cake was later cut by the President and distributed by Mrs. Lois Merritt and Mrs. Emily Dunbar. A beautiful floral creation was presented by the Concord Club and individual bouquets by Matty Ruane.

After the repast the president welcomed the invited guests and spoke most appealingly of the significance of the decade of accomplishment of the club.

The program of the evening was then placed in charge of Dr. Cecil Clark. He said in part:

"I am always happy to serve you and the Newton Rotary Club. Rotary has been officially in Newton ten years tonight. It is interesting in that connection to note that Nov. 20th this year occurs on Monday, our regular meeting day. We have never met on any other day. Rotary is not a place to which we bring the affairs of the world for solution, but a place in which we prepare men to accept life's duties and stimulate them to do so."

"We'd like to feel when life is done that we had filled some needed posts; that here and there we'd paid our fare with more than a little talk and boasts; that we had taken gifts divine, the breath of life and manhood fine, and tried to use them now and then in service to our fellow men. There were 25 charter members. Six of the original 25 are still active members in the club, 5 of them and their wives are here this evening. 'Ned' Childs was unable to be present."

"Our membership grew gradually to about 60 in number. It has been as high as 65. It is 59 at present. It has been remarkably stable during the past four years when other organizations have had great difficulty to exist or have passed out of existence entirely. Rotary International encircles the globe with over 3,600 clubs and a membership of over 147,000. Since July 1, 1933, 25 new Rotary Clubs have been added. We like to feel that the influence of Rotary in Newton extends beyond our active membership. There are 42 Rotarians who for various reasons were obliged to give up their membership. They are still Rotarians at heart and we hope they are continuing to carry on."

"The success of Rotary in Newton is measured by the sum of all the efforts of the individual members, not only in behalf of the club, but in their own vocations and in all their daily contacts. I challenge you to name an organization in this city—vocational, religious, educational, community, recreational, or character building in which you will not find Rotarians doing their part. We value most highly the friendly fellowship which exists between Rotarians everywhere."

After a response by Brandt Lowe of the Boston Club, the parental sponsor of the Newton Club, the club was entertained by a group of minstrels from the local club and invited guests, with Dr. Clark as interlocutor. Eddie Ingraham of Milton gave some very original selections at the piano. Mrs. Mary Willey of Boston rendered some whistling solos; Miss Elva Boyden of Brookline sang most effectively, "At the End of the Sunset Trail" and "Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and George Willey, of Boston in a rich bass voice, sang a few selections.

The evening closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and dancing.

District Nursing Work on Increase

Annual Reports Show Decrease in Earned Income

At the annual meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association held at the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, November 19, the reports of Miss Hilda Nelson R. N., Director of work of the Association, and of the Nursing Committee showed that the work and responsibilities carried by the district nurses of the city have increased during the past year and that the income from paid work has decreased. Speakers at the meeting were Dr. Wilson Smith of the Harvard School of Public Health, and Miss Charlotte Raymond, Dr. Smith outlined the ideal Health Department in a mythical city of 100,000 population and Miss Raymond discussed the nutrition work of the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The nine nurses of the Association made 19,697 visits at homes during the year of which 17,645 were for bedside care and the remainder for social work with the needy. A total of 1,679 patients were cared for, an increase of 141 over the previous year. The Well Baby Clinics are showing a healthy growth. Last year 310 new babies were admitted to the clinics and the total attendance at 194 sessions was 3,336. Miss Nelson said in her report that she considers the effort in this field the most important of all, because it is constructive preventive work and is bound to lessen sickness and dependency in the city as the years go by.

Free visits by the nurses more than doubled during the year. This was chiefly due to falling off in the group which partly pays for the service. On the other hand, there was a slight increase in the group which pays the full cost of nursing visits at one dollar each. This, however, was not sufficient to offset the decrease in income from the other class, so that the Association will be obliged to depend to a greater extent than heretofore upon benevolent gifts.

Of the eight nurses employed under Miss Nelson's supervision, four are graduate nurses and four are student nurses from the Newton Hospital who serve for a period of two months each as part of their regular training course.

The following officers and directors were elected: Mrs. George M. Angier, president; Mrs. Harold A. Marvin, first vice president; Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, second vice president; Mrs. Louis W. Arnold, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Paine, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Frank Scofield, secretary; Miss Marion H. Dorr, Assistant Secretary; Miss Margaret H. Aubin, auditor.

Directors: Mrs. Stanwood G. Bradlee, Mrs. Howard P. Converse, Mrs. William T. Glidden, Jr., Mrs. George B. King, Mrs. Fred H. Loveland, Miss Caroline A. Lovett, Mrs. Samuel L. Powers, Miss Mabel L. Riley, Mrs. Horatio Rogers, Mrs. George W. St. Amant, Mrs. Samuel F. Tower, Mrs. Sinclair Weeks, Mrs. J. Mervin Allen, Mrs. E. T. Campbell, Mrs. Cecil W. Clark, Miss Gretchen Clifford, Miss Madeline Cobb, Mrs. William J. Davidson, Mrs. Matt B. Jones, Mrs. Louis W. Marshall, Mrs. Garrett Schneck, Jr., Mrs. Alonzo R. Weed, Mrs. George F. Reinhardt, Mrs. Paul F. Bauder, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Irving J. Fisher, Mrs. A. S. Hutchinson, Mrs. Hanson H. Webster, Mrs. C. J. A. Wilson, Mrs. John T. Croghan, Mrs. E. B. Hanson, M.D.

SOCIALIST CLUB TO MEET

Weldon C. Caie will speak at a meeting under the auspices of the Newton Socialist Club on Tuesday, November 28, at the Y. M. C. A., at 8 p. m., on the subject of "Socialism or Fascism? Which?" This much discussed topic should interest many people who are interested and thoughtful of the trend of the times.

Mr. Caie has been Organizer for the National Leather Workers' Association and is now busily engaged in labor's struggle in the leather industry in Norwood.

Boston College Newton Club Plans Large Organization

The Boston College Club of Newton held its first meeting of the season at the Newton Catholic Clubhouse in West Newton on Monday evening when over 100 of the 250 members of the club were present.

Many applications were received for associate membership, to which anyone is eligible who wishes to aid in furthering the interests of Boston College. It was decided at the meeting to organize an auxiliary of the club in order that the mothers, wives, sisters and friends of the club may have the chance to do their part. It is expected that the club will soon command a strong force for the accomplishment of its purpose.

Among the speakers of the evening were Rev. Charles Murphy of Boyd St., Newton, a graduate of the American College of Rome; Rev. M. Joseph Desmond, of Wildwood ave., West Newton, and Mr. Francis W. McOwen of 260 Elliot st., Newton Upper Falls, candidate for school committee.

Through its executive committee, the club decided that it should remain absolutely non-partisan in regard to the approaching election. The membership of the Executive Committee is as follows: Dr. James F. Gallagher, Robert J. Burns, John A. McGrath, Joseph McKenney and Albert McGrath.

playground and shower bath facilities in all sections and community buildings, co-operation with industries interested in moving into available zones, revision of the building and zoning codes so that apartment houses of a good grade can be built in restricted sections adjacent to business zones.

In concluding he pledged an honest administration and his allegiance to President Roosevelt and his policies.

NEWTON CATHOLIC CLUB TO HAVE TON OF TURKEYS AT PENNY SALE

Mr. Charles Farrell announced today the purchase of one ton of prime Vermont turkeys to be distributed at the annual Turkey Penny Sale to be conducted by the Newton Catholic Club on Tuesday night. Mr. Farrell is chairman of this activity and will be assisted by a corps of young ladies and men from the two Bowling Leagues.

The success of last year's party warranted the sponsoring of a similar affair this year. More than seven hundred people attended the last party.

These turkeys will arrive in Newton Tuesday and will be dressed by a staff of experienced butchers who have been engaged for this purpose.

A number of turkeys will be given away on Wednesday evening at the regular weekly Forty-Five Party.

PARENTS' AFTERNOON AT EMERSON SCHOOL

On Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 21st "Parents' Day" was held at the Emerson School. From two until three o'clock the teachers held private conferences with the parents in the classrooms where the work of the children was displayed. At three o'clock in the kindergarten room Mr. Churchill, principal, presented Mr. John Lund who spoke to the parents explaining the new "No Report Card System." After his very interesting and enlightening talk a delightful tea was served by the teachers. Mr. Sigmund Romaskiewicz, an Emerson boy and a graduate of Harvard, where he specialized in music, entertained with violin selections accompanied by Mrs. Agnes Lacroix an Emerson teacher. It was a very pleasant occasion. Parents' Afternoon will be held from now on the second Tuesday of each month from two until three o'clock.

Digest Editor Tells How The Movies Affect Children

At First of Sunday Lectures at West Newton

The box office is at present the god of the motion picture business according to statements made by representatives of the industry, and it is up to the people to change the gods, declared Henry James Foreman of New York in delivering the opening address of the third lecture series at the Unitarian Church in West Newton on Sunday evening.

Taking for his subject "What the Movies do to Our Children," he based his lecture upon the results of a four year study of motion pictures by some of the leading psychologists of the country under the Payne Fund. The study covered 1,500 motion pictures exhibited over a ten year period, classified them as to the subjects which they treated and then made a careful study of their effect upon the young.

Audiences were also studied. It was found that 77 million average weekly attendance at the motion picture houses of the country, 37 percent were minors and that the entire school population averages one movie a week.

The study of the subjects treated by motion pictures revealed that between 75 and 80 percent dealt with crime, sex and love. The leading criminal is usually the most attractive man in the cast and crime is apt to be presented in such a way as to excite the audience. A study of 110 pictures showed 440 crimes, or an average of four to the picture.

In studying the effects of pictures upon children and adolescents, it was found that children will average to remember three out of five things an adult will remember. It was found that the sleep of both boys and girls was seriously disturbed by viewing crime and horrors and that in many cases the effect extended over a period of five days.

It was also found that the ideas of the young are being powerfully affected and their opinions moulded by the movies. In one instance it was found that large groups of school children became pro-Chinese as a result of a picture which they saw, and in another school they became rabid anti-Negro from seeing "The Birth of a Nation."

The speaker further said that hundreds of case histories compiled in our reformatories and prisons trace their trouble to the movies. In a certain institution last year, 54 percent trace their downfall to the movies, and a somewhat lower percentage of young men said that they started on their crime career because of a desire to be a "big shot" like the fellows in the movies.

He said that the movies actually teach how to commit many different kinds of crime with the greatest safety. One study of case histories in a boys' reformatory showed that 32 different kinds of crime had been learned from the movies.

In answer to the common statement that "The movies show life as it is," Mr. Foreman showed how the crime element in life was exaggerated and how few of the characters were people with useful occupations. He said they were not true to life.

Mr. Foreman believes that an impartial commission should be appointed to censor all motion pictures which might come under interstate commerce. He believes that intelligent people should refuse to patronize pictures which are ranged in a morose mind of 12 years of age. He also denounced the block system of booking. He said that enough good pictures have been produced successfully to show that it can be done.

Following the lecture there was a lively question period participated in by an unusually large number. The next lecture will be given on the evening of December 3 by Selma Ekron on the subject, "Young Turkey Looks Backward."

Want Many Postal Employees to Retire

Postoffice inspectors, including one from Washington, have been interviewing postoffice clerks and letter carriers in the Newton offices this week regarding the retirement of those who have been 30 years or more in the service. Until this year the age of retirement for postoffice employees was 65 years. But, some months ago, in the drive for alleged economy, and to create jobs for younger men, the postoffice department made it optional for any employee who had served 30 years, to retire on a pension. Now, the postoffice department proposes to retire throughout the country some thousands of the older employees. The quota for the Boston district would be around a couple of hundred.

Most of the men do not want to retire, as it will mean a cut of about 50% or more in their incomes. Many of them are in their early 60s, and are quite efficient. Because of their experience, and the fact that they were trained when the postal service was much more efficient than it has been in late years, they may be more valuable to the public than some of their successors would be.

ZONTA CLUB

The second November meeting of Newton Zonta Club was held November 20 at the Iris Garden House. All members, except two, attended. Miss Hope Allen, a teacher from Providence, R. I., who is studying in Boston University this year, was the guest of honor. The Newton delegate, Annis Sturge, at the Newton delegate to the Fall conference held in Cambridge, gave an interesting report of that convention, whose keynote was "Work and Loyalty."

The club voted to give $50 to the Newton Community Chest. At the recent Rummage Sale held in West Newton nearly forty dollars was netted to add to the Service Fund of the club.

Newton Dramatic Organizations

Dramatic Club in Brilliant Opening

A record breaking crowd streamed through the open doors of the Newton Centre Woman's Club House Wednesday evening, Nov. 22nd, to witness the opening play of the year by the Newton Dramatic Club. The production, "Her Great Match," from beginning to end was a triumphal success. The three distinct scenes were so compelling in their professional excellence that a spontaneous burst of applause greeted the raising of each curtain. The second act was a moonlit garden with formal statues and fountain—a fit place for the royal romance which was the centre of the plot. Act III was, to be sure, the stage of a Newton Hall, but so richly set with English furnishings and rare Flemish tapestries by Therese M. Geough that it veritably seemed to be indeed the interior of a wealthy English manor.

Though these settings swept the play scene after scene, as the plot unfolded, the actors were each one admirably selected for type and experience. The responsibility for the success of the evening depended upon Mrs. Everett Varney as producer and Mrs. Arthur B. Hitchcock as coach. Miss Lillian Reifenstein shared honors with Mr. Henry Engel as the leads. Many difficult scenes were spoken with professional excellence. Mrs. Arthur Hitchcock deservedly received spontaneous applause because of the beautiful interpretation of the part of the Valerian Duchess. Mrs. Spencer Crossley gave a clear-cut and outstanding portrayal of the character of the villainous Mrs. Sheldon.

Miss Margaret Stewart was a natural and lovely ingenue. Mr. Charles Pierce was one of the best actors of the evening. Mrs. Melville Liming was a lovely Countess Casavetti and Gardner Reynolds and Arthur Shute did excellently. Wm. Langenheim and Wendell Holt carried the parts of butlers well.

GARRICK PLAYERS IN "HEDDA GABLER"

Before a rather skeptical audience the Garrick Players on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday last presented a most creditable performance of the classic "Hedda Gabler" by Henrik Ibsen. The play with its classical features, its beautifully written lines, and its always interesting theme, has a play well chosen to display the talents of this group. The players themselves worked with a keen enthusiasm and a co-operation which seems to be lacking in most other organizations of this kind. This sense of co-operation was also very noticeable in their first production, "Tweddles."

Robert R. Reed, in his restrained performance of the nervous, child-minding professor, George Tesman, was outstanding. He never left his character or allowed the smoothness and tempo of the play to drag in the least. Miss Miriam Catherine as Hedda, the almost imperceptible vampire, did surprisingly well with this tremendously difficult role. Miss Muriel Pearce as Mrs. Elvsted, as usual, turned in an excellent performance. The little players range from five to eleven years of age, and the Radio Robins chorus singers are from six to eleven, and number thirty in all.

Faculty Presents "Three Musketeers"

On Friday and Saturday evenings last the Newton High School faculty presented its annual play to large audiences in the high school auditorium. The many members of the cast, thirty two in number, carried their roles in excellent style with Raymond A. Green as Raoul d'Artagnan, and John Lund, Paul E. Ellicker, and Carl Swan, in the title roles particularly outstanding in the male parts. Mrs. Edith E. Newcomb, as Miladi the villainess, was very impressive particularly in the suicide scene where she took poison following a sentence of death pronounced by the Musketeers. Roxanna Holden as the Queen, Roberta Miller as the Queen's maid of honour and Lucille Burnham as a page to the Queen also carried important roles.

Music between the acts was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Mr. C. R. Spaulding and an excellent program was offered. The production was staged under the following staff of faculty members:

Committee on Production—A. Hortense Church, chairman; Samuel Thurber, Raymond A. Green, Ethel Ham, Charles Mergendahl; Coach—Blanche L. Bemis; Business—Hazel White, Chairman; Helen Cotton, Andrew Steinhope; Tickets—Arthur C. Johnson, chairman, Ruth Twiss, Emily P. Burdon, Anne Leathers; Stage—Charles W. Peterson, chairman, Raymond A. Green, Richard P. Boyer; Costume—Mary C. Owens, chairman, Helen Johnston, Gladys Davis, Maude Shippee, Sterling S. Williams, Thomas G. Walters; Properties—Cora E. Riley, chairman, Alma Thomas, Frederick O. Holmes, Louise Wetherbee, Margarita Ellis, Charles B. Harrington, Irene Haworth; Publicity—Gertrude Robinson, chairman, Forrest F. Paige, Marlon McGuire, George Robinson, Katherine Curtis, Ethel M. McGregory, Edith Rideout, Ethel Ham; Music—Charles R. Spaulding, Conductor; E. Louise Richardson, Alice Alden; House Manager—Donald G. Enoch; Ushers—Caroline Doonan, chairman, Helen White, Maynard Maxwell, Andrew W. Steinhope, Gladys Cunningham, Oscar Martin, Herbert Ridger, Samuel Thurber, Cora W. Rogers, Jessie Southard, Louise E. Richardson, Daniel Willard, Maida Flanders, Elizabeth L. Mayo.

RADIO ROBINS

The Radio Robins will present in Trinity Parish House, on the evening of Wednesday, November 29th, an interesting programme under direction of Mrs. Florence Wood Russell. The program includes a violin solo by Norma Daniels, a vocal solo by Marian Cappadonna, a reading by Ruth Nordstrom, a vocal solo by Marguerite Burke, and solos by Sadie MacIsaac, Gloria Florin, Walter Horace, and Parker Wheeler. There will be a one-act play entitled "The Sentimental Scarecrow" with a cast including Dora Hetherstone, Martha Hodges and Mary Mandile, Marian Cappadonna, Ronald Pfister, John Cappadonna, Anita Florin, Louise DeVos. The little players range from five to eleven years of age, and the Radio Robins chorus singers are from six to eleven, and number thirty in all.

NEWTON SHOW OF THE AIR

The eleventh broadcast of the Newton Show of the Air comes on Thanksgiving evening, Thursday, November 30, from 7:15 to 9:00 p. m. over Station WLEY Lexington.

The evening will be devoted to a special program of Thanksgiving music, that everyone who has gathered together for the holiday feast, may pause before retiring in their easy chairs before the fireside and join in the beauties of music and song. Soloists of the evening include Sylvia Church Pettys, soprano; Dorothy Holmes Clark, contralto; Harry R. Rogers, tenor, and Albert Jackson, baritone. The quartette will have as their accompanist R. Lawrence Canon. Mary Barr Snyder will give a group of piano solos, and will also accompany the soloists.

In the midst of the program there will be a pause for a few moments, when the Reverend Horace W. Briggs will bring a Thanksgiving message. Mr. Briggs has recently moved to Newtonville and is the new pastor of the Swedeborgian Church on Highland ave.

HIGHLAND YOUNG PEOPLE TO PRESENT "THE TINKER"

On next Wednesday evening, November 29 the Young People's Fellowship of St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, will present their first play of a two-play series in the Parish Hall at 8:15 p. m. The play "The Tinker" is a new 3-act story which was uncovered by Rev. Charles O. Farrar and put into production by Ethel M. Odell. It has all the fine elements that make for an enjoyable evening and sets a usual high standard for this noteworthy group.

Included in the cast are Kemp Lambert as "The Tinker," Laura Hathaway, Martha Silveria, Barbara Carlick, Clifford Dow, Jr., Dan Haughey, and Harold Hockridge. The business management has been handled by the young people, who have also contributed to the staging of the play.

THE COMING ELECTION

With the time of filing nomination papers for the coming municipal election expiring the political situation is clearing up. The voters will soon know the names of the candidates to be on the ballots of the respective Wards. The mayoralty situation is unchanged with five candidates in the field. The aldermanic and school committee contests have witnessed some changes from what at first seemed likely. The multiplicity of candidates for all offices has brought some confusion to many of the voters. The campaign has reached the stages where the issues are more clearly defined. We realize that while thousands of voters have already made their choice in their own minds that there are many others who are yet uncertain as to which candidates will fill the offices to which they aspire for the best interests of the city. In the remaining issues before election it is our intention to try to clarify the problem in the minds of these voters. We know of no better way in which a newspaper can serve the community than to take an active interest in local government, with a decision based upon facts without fear or favor of any individual candidate.

BECLUDING THE ISSUE

We trust that the Massachusetts Legislature will not be stampeded into approval of the "tavern" by the argument that such a method of handling the liquor problem will result in the elimination of the "speakeasy." The proponents of the tavern are becludging the issue with the attempt to make it a choice between accepting the tavern and getting rid of the speakeasy. We have yet to be convinced that the speakeasy will be driven out by such means. The existence of this evil which replaced the old-time saloon is due to two main factors. First the inability to enforce the 18th Amendment plus the desire of people to satisfy their longing for prohibited beverages. We contend that public support of a properly regulated liquor traffic will reduce the evil of the speakeasy regardless of the tavern question.

Have you joined the Red Cross—if not DO IT NOW.

Predicts Weeks' Re-Election Will Be Overwhelming

All Massachusetts marvels at the standing of Newton under the administration of Mayor Sinclair Weeks, and "There can be no doubt" of his "overwhelming success on Election Day", according to John C. Madden, well known attorney and former Vice-President of the Newton Board of Aldermen, who addressed the following letter to Newton's chief executive, as an expression of the sentiments of many men and women, who are proud of our city.

November 15, 1933.

Hon. Sinclair Weeks
Executive Dept. City Hall
Newton, Massachusetts.

Dear Mayor:

When one considers the record you have made in bringing the city through the crisis of the past four years, he might be pardoned for some slight indifference as to the necessity of your seeking endorsement for another term. You have fulfilled all the expectations and even the dreams of the Finance Committee of the past, and I know of no other group better qualified to pass upon the merits of an administration.

Ask the man in the neighboring cities and towns suffering from the ills which Municipalities are heir to, and he will have no hesitation in endorsing your re-election; there is no difference of opinion there, and why? Because all Massachusetts marvels at the standing of the city with the lowest tax rate, lowest cut in salaries, lowest demand upon the City Treasury for relief, all schools and banks open and all departments functioning and the growth of the city unretarded. Some there are in this city who conjure up such issues as kitchen cabinets and the like. In any event your opponents will be characterized as straining at a gnat in your record, and swallowing a camel in others.

If the electorate adopts a standard in voting as high as the standard you have maintained and adhered to as Mayor, there can be no doubt as to your overwhelming success on election day, and I trust that we will pyramid that vote not only to express approval of your record, but to reflect the character of the city and our ability to recognize and reward a tried and true public servant.

With best wishes for your success, I am
Very truly yours,

JOHN C. MADDEN, Counsellor at Law,

REPORTS TO THE HOME IN THE NEW DEAL

In abandoning the traditional marking system, Newton teachers have not ceased to judge the pupil's work, nor have reports to the home been eliminated. At stated intervals during the year, parents will receive reports about the progress and achievement of their children. In the case of a pupil who needs special attention the report may go at any time when it seems necessary. The following report card might be typical of that which the parent would have received under the former plan:

Mathematics	B
English	C
Latin	D
Citizenship	Satisfactory

How much does this tell the parent of the actual situation? The picture which he gets of the way the child meets his daily task is hazy at best.

Compare now the following report which would be sent under the new plan:

"Dear Mrs. Jones:
May I report to you on John's progress in the eighth grade? His Mathematics teacher has informed me that his achievement in Mathematics is up to the standard we are requiring of him, having thus far completed the requirement for work in his Mathematics section.

His lack of attention to the details of penmanship and sentence construction handicap his written English. Concentration upon this weakness should bring his English work up to the standard set for him. We are now emphasizing this particular difficulty. He enjoys the literature read in the class and is developing an appreciation of poetry.

Latin is proving to be a stumbling block in spite of valiant effort on his part to overcome the difficulties. I feel after a half year's work which has not resulted in real progress the situation is such that we should seriously consider a change in John's program of studies. John's counsellor is planning to take this matter up with you.

There is one aspect in which we feel your co-operation would mean much in John's development. He needs to be guided in the giving of attention to details. He should be encouraged in habits of thoroughness in everything he attempts.

John's attitude in school is most commendable; he co-operates most willingly in all school enterprises and particularly the safety patrol.

This makes the matter entirely a personal one. The parent learns the exact nature of the child's success or difficulty. After conference with the teacher, proper steps may be taken to correct the child's course and to lead him to a happy and successful school career.

Pen Pictures Of Five Candidates for Mayor by P. W. C.

"Vas you dere, Sharlie?"

In other words you are present at the truly remarkable rally staged by the Newton Civic Society in the John Ward School, Newton Centre, Monday evening. If not, you missed out badly for I never saw anything like it in Newton.

A jam-packed hall—more people outside than in, necessitating an overflow meeting—all five candidates for Mayor on the platform (though never more than two at one time)—at least sixteen candidates for the Board and School for the making (what a Jense good-natured banter—ill-considered thrusts which smacked of poor breeding—funny stories 1933 model (G. O. P. kittens turn Democratic as their eyes open) charges, counter-charges—free publicity for some people suit to Arthur H. Crane's "soup and fish" (hardly recognized you, Arthur after seeing you at the Nonantum rally)—tall men and short—big men and little—modest virolets who tiptoed to the platform, bowed pleasantly and (about 11:00 p. m.) retired at once amid deafening applause—candidates with loud speakers who proclaim vociferously their overwhelming superiority to their opponents (remember the audience chanting "Vote for me")—one candidate innocently asserting that he was the only legitimate candidate for the job—candidate Guzzi, the self-styled 22nd Alderman explaining for the 342nd time how he got an electric light pole erected in three days (or was it two and a half days, Alfred?) while the sitting Alderman was fast asleep—tirades on the water system, the rates—the iniquitous closed sessions of the Board—the suggestion, apparently serious, that the Aldermen should be paid—the less serious suggestion that the present Board might die of the Mayor's hands—insinuations that Republican candidates were making a big play for Democratic votes and vice versa—praise for Roosevelt and slams for Hoover (obviously an important issue in our local campaign)—Harvard English mixed with Bill Cunningham's jargon—overstated seating capacity of hall—some air including the hot—much noise—considerable light and still more heat in some of the addresses—laughter, more laughter and applause.

Having sketched a background, may I now offer a brief thumbnail sketch of the five candidates for mayor. First to speak was Paul H. Drake, big, amiable and pleasing in appearance, obviously a fighter with a sense of humor and a knack for repartee. Chairman Webster, however, held his own. Drake is different and by that I do not mean queer. He just comes out of a mold of his own. Radical, yes, but not hopelessly so. Has a real program but he will be tagged out by the catcher before he gets halfway to first base.

Next came Thomas W. White, A different White from the man we heard at Nonantum November 15th "while in Rome, etc." Very big and powerful, a seasoned performer with an uncanny knowledge of which stops to pull out on the organ. Somewhat repressed, it seemed to me, but very confident and capable, though leaning heavily on his State and National record and obviously grateful that numerous governors of Massachusetts had the stamp of approval on him by appointing him to positions of trust. Affirmative and constructive in the main, but bludgeoning the administration just before he wound up. The usual line—will be a full-time Mayor—no deputy Mayors—Mayor to all the people plus a little unconscious humor when he assured the audience that he was equally at home on West Newton Hill and in Nonantum. Tut tut Sir Thomas, I heard your Nonantum broadside with the "Maynard-Leon-Phillip" thrust, all three bad, bad men up on the Hill.

In passing over White (as many will on December 12th) let us observe that the applause at the end of his address was very flattering.

The next speaker was Mayor Weeks—quiet, courteous and business-like. Looked rather tired and strained, quite boyish as he sat there listening to the robust powerful White, called by one of his opponents a political manipulator rather than a politician. The Mayor answered White's argument regarding the City's net debt as compared to its valuation, the tax rate, etc. It seemed to me that he scored substantially and cut away considerable ground beneath White's feet. He read testimonials from high State officials proving that the City's credit is A-1. He reminded us that our tax rate is the lowest of any city in the State. The audience seemed impressed but I could not be sure whether it was because he met White's attack and beat it down or because of more personal reasons. At any rate, the Mayor graciously welcomed his task and when he left the hall to address the overflow meeting, he got a great hand.

Then came Walter A. Hodgdon, another big and burly candidate. This dark-complexioned scrapper calls a spade a spade and would like to be a grave-digger (for both Weeks and White) with 5000 men under him! All burned-up because the posters announcing the rally listed Weeks and White as the main speakers and then in small type off at one side said "other candidates for Mayor will speak." Well you had a point at that, old man. It was a tough break but I certainly hope you can prove that crack about a member of the Weeks Campaign Committee being responsible for it. Not a bad platform, strong in some spots, makes good reading and seems to be quite sincere and well-intentioned. However, I'm afraid you're up against it. The Democrats don't seem too impressed with your 100% Democracy and a lot of Republicans think you are a Democrat, so where do we go from here?

Last but not least, except in stature and I am afraid in votes on December 12th, our good friend Frank H. Sullivan, the public utility expert. You really stole the show, Mr. Sullivan. When I saw you perched on the platform so peaceful looking and dignified I was resigned to a solemn dissertation on gas and light rates. To my amazement and joy you put more pep and humor and happiness into really stole the show, Mr. Sullivan. You have some material to play with, too—some real issues—some cogent facts which many of us have been unaware of. You remind me a little of your worthy namesake in the Boston Mayoralty Campaign. He too, had facts, knowledge, experience, character. Yes, he had nearly everything except the necessary votes on election day. Why? I'll tell you on December 12th when I predict that you will share that excellent gentleman's fate. However, I salute you now. You were the most

By L. D. G. Bentley

Some people have the family budget at their fingers' end while others are at their wits' end.

Oddments

It strikes me there is little difference in the mental state of the youngster who rushes past you on his scooter and the driver who shoots through a crowded section at top speed. If you can spare the time you will see a perfect illustration of this on Centre street in front of the main public library. No regulation as to rate of speed is posted and women and men operators apparently take it for granted that the sky is the limit. It's the pedestrian who is more likely to reach the skies first. What possesses drivers to rush through the main streets of a busy village as if fleeing from kidnappers? No thought is evident of parked cars, which may back out at any moment, and as for people crossing the street—well, they are completely ignored. To go back to the child with the scooter—his parents can spank him. Such would be too light punishment for reckless drivers.

Everything that is good for us will be told us in a proper way and in due time, I presume. Nevertheless, I should like to learn as early as possible if Santa Claus is going on the code or whether he is going to arrange one for us. It may be that the whole thing will be waived and Santa and the rest of us will be exempted this year. I hardly think so as nothing is being overlooked as far as I am able to observe. Unless something happens in the immediate future I shall go right ahead—until otherwise ordered—and wish I had a lot of money with which to buy a lot of presents for a lot of people.

Did You Know This?

Discussion was started in this column by one "Larry" as to the proper pronunciation of "Mayoralty." From Mr. Edgar S. Brightman of Newton Centre has come the following:

"My dear Mr. Bentley—Your interesting column in the GRAPHIC has aroused my curiosity on one point. What edition of Webster does 'Larry' use? I have two, the New International and the Collegiate, both of which allow 'mayor' to be one syllable (as second choice), but neither of which allows the same thing in 'mayorality.' Webster, Winston and the British Oxford all agree that, that 'mayor' part of 'mayorality' is two syllables, two sounds, although all agree that the 'o' in the 'or' is obscure; it sounds more like a regular 'o.' Perhaps some candidates will be saying both 'uh' and 'o' after election."

It is a pleasure to say to Mr. Brightman, "Right you are." Having learned the identity of "Larry," I "contacted" him. (How about that for a word. Mr. Brightman?) "Larry" said, "Kindly tell Mr. Brightman I offer my humble apologies. I meant to say four syllables for 'mayorality' and was directing my thrust against those who pronounce it 'may-or-al-ity' and certainly not against anyone whose erudition is reinforced by four dictionaries. Do you think he will excuse me?"

It would be reassuring to learn how Mr. Brightman receives "Larry's" message and also if he abominates "contacted" as I do.

Collaring Facts

It is a peculiarity of human nature to find oneself seized with an impulse, which, if not promptly thwarted, might lead to unpleasant if not disastrous results. Gazing at the many heavy overcoats that have appeared with the more severe weather, I find myself eager to learn something which really is no concern of mine but which has aroused an almost overwhelming interest. I should like to know how many men are going about with the loop of braid on the inside of the collar, torn partly off.

It is no reproach to the women of the household—that is, I don't think it is—that husbands, fathers, brothers and even boy friends neglect to keep these loops in repair. No doubt if he should call Her attention to the fact she would gladly provide needle and thread and even the labor. But men have a way of hanging up their coats on a nail and letting it go at that. They usually want their coats in a hurry and then yank them off the hook with no thought of consequence.

entertaining speaker at the finest rally I ever attended in Newton.

In conclusion let me say that in my next article on December 8th, I shall amplify both my initials and my views regarding the candidates.

P. W. C.

THANKFUL

ELECT WHITE MAYOR

The late SENATOR JOHN W. WEEKS wrote in 1913 the following:
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES U. S.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Thomas W. White, Esq.,
State House,
Boston, Mass.

My dear Tom:
I have a feeling that you like to be thanked about as well as I do which is almost a negative quantity but, in any case, I do not intend to let another day pass without making a record of my great appreciation of all the assistance you have been to me in the Senatorial Campaign.
No other person has put in as much time in my behalf as you have and your work has been so intelligent and useful to me that I feel that I quite likely would not have succeeded had it not been for you. This may not be strictly true but, in any case, I shall never forget your cordial co-operation or the admirable management which you have given my cause in the caucus and I hope it has brought some pleasure and much credit to you personally.

Sincerely yours,
Sig: JOHN W. WEEKS.

Military Speakers at Men's Club Meeting

At their regular November meeting in celebration of the Armistice held Tuesday evening, Nov. 21st, the Men's Club of Auburndale, at the Church of the Messiah, had a notable assembly of military speakers and honored guests.

Captain Edward Fowler, a Marine of many campaigns, dating from the Philippine Insurrection, through the World War, and holder of about all the decorations that could be bestowed on him by this country, gave a very thrilling episode on the Boxer Uprising and of storming the walls of Tien-Tsin as a member of that valiant band led by Major Waller of the Marines.

Mr. Harold A. Batten, a D. S. C. veteran of the Yankee Division, gave a very interesting talk on the decorations bestowed by this country for valor, and also told the assembly, upon request, how he won the D. S. C. Major Edwin H. Cooper, Past National Commander of The Legion of Valor, due to severe injuries, was not able to speak but surely lent color to the meeting by his presence.

As additional guest speakers were Mrs. Walter Kuhring and Mr. A. Geiges, both veterans of the Imperial German Forces, also holders of the Iron Cross and other citations, who thrilled the assembly with their episodes of the war on the enemy side.

Electric Program At Newtonville

Tickets for the General Electric evening to be given by the Woman's Association of the Newtonville Methodist Church, Dec. 1, are 20 cents. Advertisement

CHESTNUT HILL FOOD SALE

The annual Thanksgiving Food Sale will be held on the day before Thanksgiving at the First Church in Chestnut Hill under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Edwin S. Webster. The sale, the proceeds of which go to Brookline and Newton Social Service work, and other charities, is fast becoming an institution in the Chestnut Hill district of Brookline and Newton, where residents are beginning to look forward to the day to serve on the Thanksgiving tables.

The sale takes place this year in the parish rooms of the First Church on Suffolk rd., opening at nine in the morning of November 23, and lasting till one o'clock. Fruits, vegetables, cider and turkeys from the farms of various Chestnut Hill residents, will be found for sale; cakes, jellies, candy, bread and mince meat from their kitchens, as well as flowers and potted plants from their greenhouses. Fresh candy will be made on the spot by a corps of young Chestnut Hill matrons and debutantes under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas H. Lannan.

Assisting Mrs. Webster in her preparations for the sale are Mrs. Horace S. Frazer, who acts as Chairman of the Pie table; Mrs. Bryan S. Pernar, Chairman of the Flower table; Mrs. Herman T. Baldwin, Chairman of the Poultry and Produce table; Mrs. Walter G. Resor, Chairman of the Cake table; Mrs. Francis T. Hunter, Chairman of the Jelly and Preserves table; Miss Grace Edmonds, Chairman of the Cider table; Mrs. Thomas H. Lannan, Chairman of the Candy table and Mrs. Francis W. Lee, Chairman of Publicity.

LYDIA PARTRIDGE WHITING CHAPTER, D. A. R.

The home of Mrs. Albion Brown on Saxon ter., Newton Highlands was opened to the members and friends of the Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, D. A. R. on Nov. 15th for a silver tea. Being the birthday of the President, General Mrs. Russell C. Whiting, it was decided that the different chapters all over the country would honor her by holding either a regular or special meeting in which plans would be made to clear the debt on Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Brown's home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and a trio of ladies Lillian B. Mudgett, Lillian M. McMullen and Judith Hyams rendered delightful music through the afternoon.

Delicious refreshments of coffee, sandwiches and cake were served and the many who were there thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

NEWTON FREE LIBRARY

Books Needed for C. C. C. Camps Have you any fiction,—good Western, detective and adventure stories,—which you would like to donate for the use of the C. C. C. men at Fort Devens? The hospital for C. C. C. men is located there, and men are also sent there until they are assigned to other camps. The secretary of the Division of Public Libraries of Massachusetts reports that the men are very much in need of good stories such as men would like, for their leisure hours. The Newton Free Library truck will call for donations for this purpose if word is left with the assistants at the main library, or at any branch.

SERIOUS FIRE AT WABAN

The residence of Samuel Douglas at 91 Avalon rd., Waban was seriously damaged by fire last Friday night. None of the family was in the house when the fire started and it had gained such headway before it was discovered. It is supposed to have been caused by a defective electric fixture. The interior of the house was badly gutted and much of the furnishings ruined. The damage is estimated at several thousands of dollars. A shepherd dog which was in the cellar of the house was rescued by firemen.

FINED $150 IN LIQUOR CASE—FINES SUSPENDED

Amasa V. Jonah of 353 Linwood ave., Newtonville was fined $150 in the Newton court last Friday for violating the liquor laws, but the fines were suspended by Judge Bacon on condition that Jonah reimburse the Newton police department to the amount of $10 for expenses caused by the prosecution of his case. He was fined $50 for making an illegal sale of liquor and $100 for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Following the alleged sale of liquor by Jonah on November 10, his house was raided and a squad of police under Captain Good.

WRECK CAR STOLEN AT NEWTON CENTRE

Joseph Carroll, 19, of Newton pl., Somerville was arrested in city court 2 a. m. Sunday when he was in which he was riding hit a pole during a pursuit by a police car. The automobile was the property of Gael Coakley of 26 Glen rd., Newton Centre and was stolen from in front of that address on Saturday afternoon. The car was badly damaged.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

The Junior Red Cross Club of the Bigelow Junior High School furnished the assembly program on Friday, November 24. A series of tableaux depicting the growth of the Red Cross spirit up through the ages were presented. These included the Juniors of the Red Cross in trying to do to help mankind at the present time. The entire club took part in the program with Thelma Cutter, the Club President, interpreting each tableau to the audience. Anne Sanguinetti played accompaniments. The program was under the general direction of Miss Janet Spencer, Advisor of the Club.

Two plays will be presented by Room 2 as the Thanksgiving program at the assembly on Wednesday, November 29. Those participating in a short play, "Grandma's Thanksgiving Story," to be performed before the curtain rises, are as follows: Pauline Kirby, Jack Perkins, Kenneth Woods, Paul St. George, Rita Mallinson, Ruth Brown, Anita Howe.

Sarah Orme Jewett's story, "The Night Before Thanksgiving," has been arranged in play form by Anne Sanguinetti and John Sullivan.

The cast includes the following pupils: Lucille Willmarth, John Sullivan, Frank Wing, Frederick Roach, Anne Sanguinetti, Gloria Schroeder.

These plays are both coached by Mrs. Jessie S. Gillespie.

The following girls have been elected squad captains by a vote of their respective physical education classes: Divisions 1 and 2, Josephine Biancardi, Helen Holmes, Gertrude Speirs, Rita Mallinson, Elaine Coyer, Helen Goodale, Irene Sampson, Divisions 3 and 4, Thelma Pingree, Gladys Smith, Anna Appleton, Alice Dunn; Divisions 5 and 6, Elizabeth Engel, Elizabeth De Lorenzo, Francis Carroll, Beverly Beard; Divisions 7 and 8, Genevieve Hansen, Margaret Dwight, Jeanette Baker, Barbara Dunmore.

AUTO HITS AGED WEST NEWTON MAN

A car driven by Elinor Elms, 20, of West Medford, a student at Elms Seminary, Auburndale, hit Arthur W. Corrigan, 71, of 930 Watertown st., West Newton as he was crossing Watertown st. near his home on Wednesday morning about 9:15. Mr. Corrigan was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance. He received bad gashes on his head and a probable fracture of the skull. His condition was regarded as critical and his name was placed on the danger list.

COMING EVENTS

Newton Federation

The president of the Newton Federation asks that all chairmen who conducted conferences at the Fall Meeting be ready to give reports at the meeting of the Executive Board on November 27th, at 10 a. m., at the Newton Library.

Newtonville Woman's Club

The Literature Class of the Newtonville Woman's Club will hold the second of its round-table talks at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Richardson, 17 Clafin place, at 2:30 o'clock, on November 27th. So much interest was shown in the review of the books which the members had read during the summer that the discussion will be a continuation of the topic of the last meeting.

The next in the series of the Short Story Lecture course, conducted by Richard Hill Wilkinson and sponsored by the Education committee, will take place on December 1st, at 10:30 a. m., with Mrs. Fred L. Edmonds, of 89 Madison avenue, as hostess.

Newton Highlands C. L. S. C.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. William E. Leonard, 25 Canterbury road, on November 27th. "The Lady of Godiva" will be reviewed by Mrs. Sarah Pomeroy Rugg. Current Events will be discussed by Mrs. Helen Ward and Miss Thalia Clark.

Auburndale Review Club

Mrs. Amos R. Wells, of 40 Williston road, will be the hostess for the Auburndale Review Club on Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, November 28th. Following the business meeting, the program will be papers read by the members as follows: "Our Genial Enemy, France," by Mrs. Joseph A. Otis; "Two Canoe Gypsies," (by M. Chater), by Mrs. Arthur C. Farley; and "Effects of Invention on Modern Life," by Mrs. Eugene U. Ufford.

Waban Woman's Club

The second lecture in the Current Events course by Dr. Samuel M. Lindsay will be given at the Union Church at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, November 28th. These lectures, which are sponsored by the Civics and Volunteer Service committee, of which Mrs. E. Ward Bartram is chairman, are free to Club members on presentation of their membership tickets and the evening meetings are open to guests upon payment of the guest fee.

Shakespeare Club

Miss Ethel L. Hall of 139 Winchester street, will be the hostess for the Shakespeare Club on Saturday, December 2nd, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Allan McIntosh, the president, will have charge of the program dealing with the first half of the tragedy "Othello" which is known as one of the most noteworthy productions of Shakespeare's genius.

State Federation

RADIO. On Saturday, the 25th, the program for the radio broadcast continues the general theme for directors for the year, "Where Do You Fit in the Game of Life," in a talk by the director of the Eleventh District, Mrs. William R. Taylor, on the specific branch "Other Walks in Life." Mrs. Herbert Stephens, State chairman of Art, will talk on "Art in Environment"; and music will be given by Ralph C. Neil, Baritone. The time of broadcast is from 11:15 to 11:45 a. m., and the station WBZ.

PRESS TALK. For Monday, the 27th, in the series of Press Talks of the month, it is planned that clubwomen interested in this feature are to meet at the Boston Herald Building at 1:30 p. m., for a tour of the building, conducted by Mrs. Frances Blanchard, Women's Clubs Editor. The party will return to State Headquarters at 3:45, where tea will be served by the State Press committee, Mrs. Reuben Gleason, Jr., chairman.

RECENT EVENTS

Community Service Club of West Newton

The members of the Community Service Club of West Newton and their friends enjoyed a rare treat on Wednesday, November 15th, at the Parish House of the Unitarian Church, when they were privileged to hear a lecture by David Seabury, eminent psychologist. Mr. Seabury is a forceful and magnetic speaker and his subject "Why Are We All So Queer?" was presented in a most enlightening and helpful way. He told his audience, quite frankly, that unfortunately almost every one is queer—that centuries ago people were put in gaol for their queerness when, oftentimes, it was merely the delirium of illness.

Mr. Seabury explained that psychology is the study of normal and abnormal lives and is supposed to give people some means of understanding their own natures and the natures of others. He referred to the constrictions of the past when, for instance, as late as 1870, there was a statute which made it a crime for a householder in the city of Boston to have a bathroom in his home, and said that there must be a constructive reconditioning, not restrictive. The individual cannot be made to fit the environment; the environment must be made to fit the individual before he can function normally. He said a person is queer only when he departs from the natural and normal, and he declared that all should dare to be themselves, that there would not be a normal society until all got down to the business of self-reliant living which was the most important thing in life.

At the conclusion of the lecture, there was a short question period when Mr. Seabury very kindly answered questions put to him by his audience.

A most successful Food Sale was held under the direction of Mrs. H. Nelson Glover and her assistants. Tea was served by Mrs. Louie A. Bacon as hostess, the pourers being Mrs. William P. Helms and Mrs. Ernest C. Reed.

Shakespeare Club

The Shakespeare Club had an enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Moore, on Saturday, November 18th. Mrs. James F. Cooper sent roses and chrysanthemums for the occasion which all the members greatly enjoyed.

The afternoon was alive with interest as Mrs. B. R. Gilbert vividly portrayed the fairies of "Midsummer Night's Dream" have been denominated the favorite children of Shakespeare's romantic fancy, expressing humor on a revel. She made this play with its setting of spring in woods and dell very real and appealing to her audience.

Auburndale Woman's Club

Arrangement of Christmas Greens was demonstrated last Monday afternoon by Mrs. Hollis Webster, of Lexington, for the members of the Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Arthur Lane.

Mrs. Webster, who was formerly a resident of Auburndale, prefaced her talk by reminiscences of the days before the town was built up.

Under her skillful fingers a wreath of unusual beauty was made, Mrs. Webster explaining that nearly all of the herbs which were woven into the pine and ground hemlock had their own meanings, such as southernwood for sincerity, hain for sympathy, hyssop for sacrifice, horehound for health, thyme for courage, sweet marjoram for happiness, and rosemary for remembrance. To a person who recognized the various leaves and berries, the gift of such a wreath would carry delightful messages.

At the close of the afternoon tea was served by the hostess, Miss Anne Bunker presiding at the Tea table.

Four original dramatic sketches were given by Miss Francis Homer, a highly talented Philadelphia author and reader, before the Auburndale Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon. Her first selection was "The Wedding," a delightfully humorous one followed by "The Madonna," one of deep pathos. In the third, "A Parisian Night Club," Miss Homer depicted a school teacher and a college professor who visited the club out of curiosity; while in her last sketch, "Mayflower," she took the parts in turn of a woman of 1849 on her way to California in a covered wagon; the woman of 1899 to whom an automobile was a novelty; and the woman of 1929 who had received her license to pilot a plane.

Miss Homer was introduced to her audience by the chairman of the Day Mrs. E. L. Johnson.

At the Business Meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Ernest P. Drew, pleas were made for goods for the Hospital Aid Benefit Shop; for gifts of money to be used by the Emergency Relief Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joseph McCarroll; and for beads, to be restrung by members of the Business and Professional Group of the Club and sent with other gifts to the Canton Home for Crippled Children.

The afternoon closed with a social hour, the refreshments being in charge of Mrs. George W. St. Amant, chairman of Hospitality.

Business and Professional Group of Auburndale Woman's Club

"Vacation Reminiscences" was the topic for the evening's entertainment of the Business and Professional Group of the Auburndale Woman's Club at their meeting last Monday evening. Miss Anne Bunker, an advisor of the group, told of two weeks spent at the World's Fair, illustrating her talk by colored postcards thrown on the screen.

Preceding the program, the chairman, Miss Lillian Gerold, told of the plans which are under way for their usual Christmas gifts to the Canton Home for Crippled Children. This group of less than twenty-five young women each year does an outstanding piece of work in this way, over two hundred gifts being sent each holiday season.

A social hour with refreshments was enjoyed after the program. Among those present were Mrs. Rufus Estabrook, an advisor and Mrs. Ernest Drew, president of the Auburndale Woman's Club.

Woman's Club of Newton Highlands

In the absence of the president the first vice-president, Mrs. Edward H. Weeks, opened the regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, on Tuesday at 2 p. m., in the Congregational Parish House. Miss Ruth Chapin of the Newton Welfare Bureau gave a ten-minute talk on the use of funds raised by the sale of the Christmas seals.

Mrs. Harold W. Drew, Moving Picture representative of the Club, gave a report of the moving picture round-table at the Newton Federation meeting on November 13th, and Mrs. Ward I. Cornell gave interesting details of the Arts and Crafts Sale held November 24th and 25th.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Albert S. Hutchinson, representing the Women's Advisory Committee of the Newton Trust Company, who was the host of the Club for the remainder of the afternoon. Mrs. Hutchinson introduced Mr. Frank L. Richardson, executive vice-president of the Newton Trust Company, who spoke briefly, giving Mr. Seward W. Jones credit for the A-1 standing of the Newton Trust Company, and explaining that confidence consists of Integrity of Management, Financial Soundness, Liquidity, and Public Service.

Professor J. Anton de Haas followed Mr. Richardson, giving an intensely interesting and instructive lecture on "World Affairs."

Dr. de Haas said one of the most significant things happening at the present time is the very rapid growth of more intense nationalistic feeling, and unless in this physical drawing together there is also spiritual drawing together, danger is ahead. He referred to the League of Nations, the Kellogg Pact, and the World Court as effective machinery which we have built, but lacked the will to make use of. We did not quite understand what we were doing when we were building it. We have built political machinery for World co-operation on the basis of World conflict. Instead of facing the readjustment of every nation for a policy of every nation for itself, and no nation can put its own house in order without taking the brick and mortar from other nations. He felt that doubtful experiments were driving money away from America and leading to more economic warfare, but he was very much in favor of spending money to rebuild the slums of our big cities, as one dollar spent in this way gives twenty times as much employment as twenty dollars spent in road building, in addition to the improved sanitary, moral, and social conditions.

We should have a planned economic National life but this does not mean that we can do it all by ourselves. We cannot do it effectively and safely except in co-operation with other nations.

A very delightful tea was served in the Crypt after the program.

Newtonville Woman's Club

On November 15th and 16th the Newtonville Woman's Club held an unusually successful bazaar. Since the acquisition of its clubhouse, the Club has offered increased variety in its program of activities, appealing to all tastes, and being richly rewarded by the enthusiastic attendance and financial recompense, as well as contributing in service to the community. The Social Hour, the main foyer of the bazaar, was artistically decorated by the committee. The "Terrace," where afternoon tea was served, had as a footlights scene the flower and rare plants exhibit. The dining room, modernistically decorated by the Art Committee, Mrs. Carl G. Cullen, chairman, was the scene of an exhibit of valuable water colors and stained glass medallions, lent by Charles J. Connick from his Boston studio. About 800 guests were served at the two excellent luncheons and dinners. These were supervised by Mrs. Clarence A. Wentworth. Many out of town visitors were welcomed, among whom was Mrs. Seldon E. James, the Twelfth district director.

Mayor Weeks opened the first evening's entertainment. This was in the form of a Style Show. Mrs. Howard C. Thomas substituted as the Outdoor Woman model and Mrs. Donald O. Cornish as the Club Woman.

There was great enjoyment of the concert dedicated to "Our Presidents" on the second evening, because of the program so carefully arranged by Mrs. Louis J. Steitz, Jr. Mrs. Edwin P. Crawe, the president, issued greetings to past presidents and audience, saying that the Club is trying to carry on the fine spirit and build upon the foundation laid by the Club on its work up to the present. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer responded for the Past Presidents and told of the satisfaction which comes to those who contribute endless thought and work in the rewards of happy memories and friendships.

Under the leadership of Mrs. George H. Tracy and her Ways and Means committee, this two-day bazaar, for the success of which the Club mem-

Violin and 'Cello
To Feature ServiceAlex Thiede, violinist, and Louis Dalbeck, cellist, noted artists will give a program at the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church, corner of Centre and Wesley sts., Rev. Harry Belmont Hill, minister, this coming Sunday evening at seven-thirty (7:30) o'clock.ALEX THIEDE
Violinist

Mr. Thiede was for ten years principal violinist of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, leaving that organization to become assistant conductor and concert master of the St. Louis Symphony, in which capacity he served for five years. At present he is the conductor of the Boston Philharmonic Symphony. He is one of the finest violinists in the country and in his playing we find mastery technique, accuracy of intonation, smoothness and beauty of tone, intelligent and discerning interpretation.

Mr. Dalbeck gave a promise as a 'cellist at an early age. At eighteen he was appointed solo 'cellist of the Boston Municipal Orchestra and became successively a member of the Boston Opera Orchestra and solo 'cellist of the Boston Festival Orchestra. At the present he is with the Boston Trio and Philharmonic String Quartet. He is an artist of outstanding popularity, equipped with beautiful tone quality, masterly interpretation, and keen musical insight.

Rev. Mr. Hill will preach on the theme: "What Do You Do?" You are invited to these ever-growing services.

Newton Merchants'
Blue Eagle Parade

On Wednesday night a parade was held to advertise the Blue Eagle Day held by business men of the Newton Corner section yesterday. The parade started on Washington st. near Channing and proceeded through a number of Newton streets. It was headed by Mayor Weeks and President Chagnon of the Newton Business Associates. The band of Newton Post, American Legion, followed. A large number of automobiles were in line. The trucks and cars made a tour of a large part of the city.

West Newton

—Mrs. Frederic A. Frost has been spending a few days in New York and Brooklyn.

—Mr. Charles Lindsay was chosen as a member of The Student Committee of the Vesper George School, Boston, at their last meeting.

—Miss Siedoff, Mrs. Wilmet Adams and Mrs. Carl Baesler are giving a recital at Miss Lucy Allen's, this evening for the young ladies and a few parents and friends.

PARAMOUNT THEATRE, NEWTON

Those in Newton who were fortunate enough in seeing "State Fair" a few weeks ago will be glad to know Will Rogers will be seen in "Dr. Bull" at the Paramount Theatre, Newton next week starting Sunday. There will be a slight interruption with no performance on Monday or Tuesday evenings on account of the Newton Players putting on their first fall play at the theatre. All other performances will be given including matinees on Monday and Tuesday. In "Dr. Bull," Will Rogers is cast as a country doctor, who is not only the town's doctor but also the town's confessor as the local folks take every trouble to him. It is a check full of good clean, Rogers fun and humor and a picture the whole family can enjoy. For the last half of the week Randolph Scott in "To the Last Man" will be the feature. On the same program will be Jean Harlow and Lee Tracy in "Bombshell." The performance on Thanksgiving day will be continuous with a vaudeville performance on Saturday evening at 7:45.

Mrs. Crawe, the president, presented Mrs. Charles Carter Willson, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, who complimented the Club on its new Club House and the success recently attained in the two-day bazaar.

"Music" of the "Spheres" was the listed subject for the afternoon, well interpreted to a capacity audience by two skilled artists, Mrs. Margaret Richardson, Concert Pianist, and Dr. Loring B. Andrews of Harvard University. Mrs. Richardson, prominent in music circles throughout New England, with technical skill and artistic interpretation, played two groups of selections, one group containing a selection from her own concert list, a modern composition representing a dance around a sacred fire. Dr. Andrews is executive secretary of Harvard Observatory and instructor in Astronomy at Harvard University. He has the distinction of being one of the four in the group who used the Arcturus Ray to illuminate "The Century of Progress" in Chicago. He hinted that astronomers are trying to find the words and music to the song of space, but as yet only a few chords are known.

Mrs. Carl G. Cutler and her Art committee presented an excellent Exhibit of early American glass, pieces lent by Club members, Mrs. Charles J. Connick, president of the Early American Glass Association, and whose paintings and Sandwich glass medallions were exhibited at the recent bazaar, spoke on the history of glass.

The Hospitality committee, Mrs. Henry M. Weldner, chairman, served tea and pastries. Mrs. William T. Rich, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, and Mrs. Fred M. Blanchard, poured. Tea hostesses were Mrs. George A. Savage, Mrs. Ernest R. Wing, and Mrs. Frederick W. Harding.

On November 20th Mrs. Edward O. Woodward, American Home chairman, had charge of the group which made an interesting trip to the First National Stores Plant in Somerville.

Aldermen Meet

The regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen scheduled to start at 7:45 Monday night commenced at 8:35; only 50 minutes late. All members of the Board were present, in addition to about 25 citizens. The reason for the meeting being even later than usual in starting was the desire of some of the members to attend the political meeting which was held in the Ward School at Waban Hill. It was understood that the customary recess session would not be held so that the meeting would be completed early.

The first matter on the docket was a hearing on the petition of Ada Yandell for a permit to keep 350 gallons of gasoline for private use at 100 Pine Ridge rd., Waban. No one appeared to oppose this petition. A hearing was then announced on the petition of Antonio Antonucci for a permit to erect and maintain a gasoline filling station at 333 Boylston st., Newton Centre, on the new Worcester turnpike. M. L. Fahey, attorney for Antonucci, explained that there had been a previous hearing on this petition and the Board had given it favorable consideration, but through error some of the shutters had not been properly notified, so it was deemed necessary to call another hearing. No opposition developed and the Aldermen, later in the meeting, voted to grant the petition.

The Licenses Committee split on the matter of recommending a permit for a one-car garage to Agnes Johnson at 153 Charlesbank rd., Newton. Alderman Hawkins, chairman of the committee, in whose Ward the locus is, dissented. In former years the Licenses Committee deferred to the judgment of the member in whose Ward the matter under discussion was located. But, the Licenses Committee during the past two years has on a number of occasions spurned precedent and practice. Hawkins explained that he opposed the petition because the proposed garage would be of metal construction and located on a small lot. He said the policy of former Boards has been to refuse such permits to prevent the depreciation of surrounding properties. His objection was not sustained by the Board and the permit was granted.

On recommendation of the Licenses Committee a common victualer license was granted to Charles Robert Newton at 11 Prospect place, West Newton. Appropriations made by the Aldermen included—Welfare Department for poor outside of city infirmary, $10,000; temporary clerical assistance, $533.50; Soldiers' Relief, $10,000; Treasury Department, interest on temporary loans, $5000; Water Department, main in Westfield rd., $1500.

Communications received by the Board included the following—a request from Langdon Coffin that the city sell him a parcel of land on East-side Parkway, Newton; a claim from Mary P. Sloan for damages of $50 to clothing due to alleged defects on Channing st., which cause puddles of water to gather; a claim from Margaret Fellows for damage to property due to drainage conditions on Magnolia ave.; a claim from Marie Parkhurst for injuries received by falling on a curbstone on Centre st.; a claim from Estelle Aiken for alleged damages to property at 29 Bennington st., caused by blasting; a petition from Francis Gorman for a traffic signal at Boylston st. and Circuit ave.; a petition from Gertrude Cohen for a permit to use a radio at the lunch room, 882 Walnut st.; a petition from Salvatore Dinitte for a permit for four bowling alleys at 1155 Walnut st.

Mr. F. W. Gilbreas, District Commissioner for the Sackheim District which is Newton Centre, reports that the five Troops in his section are planning to cover Newton Centre in a house to house canvass to pick up all sorts of old toys. These toys will be taken to the various Troop headquarters where they will be repaired and painted. The Girl Scouts in the village under Mrs. Brainerd Thorogood, the village chairman of the Girl Scout Council, will dress the dolls and do any other work in connection with the toys which they can. When the toys and the dolls have been put in fit condition for contribution, the Scouts will deliver them to the Newton Welfare Bureau and to the New England Peabody Home and any other worthy agencies which request them. The Troops in the Sackheim District, Newton Centre are Troop 5, Scoutmaster Ralph Emery; Troop 18, Scoutmaster Richard Peirce; Troop 19, Scoutmaster Harold Carver; Troop 20, Scoutmaster James Harriner; Troop 21, acting Scoutmaster Joseph Murphy.

Sixty men of Wellesley are renewing their youth in a Back-to-Boyhood Scout Training Troop which is being operated by Norumbega Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America which includes Wellesley and Newton. The men are divided into Patrols exactly as in a Scout Troop and meet regularly once each week, Monday evening, at 7:45 at the Alice Phillips Junior High School in Wellesley. The Scoutmaster of the Troop is Mr. John M. Bierer, President of the Council; the Assistant Scoutmaster is Mr. W. R. Spiers, Assistant Scout Executive of the Council; the Troop Scribe is Mr. W. B. Gove 11, Scoutmaster of Troop 6 Newtonville; the Senior Patrol Leader is Mr. L. A. Bruce, Jr., Scout Executive of Norumbega Council.

The men in the course at present include Scoutmasters, Troop Committees and others who are interested in or are active in the Wellesley District of Norumbega Council. The purpose of the course is to teach the men who are active in Scout Troops more about their jobs and to enroll men for Scout work in Wellesley.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

In other columns of this week's GRAPHIC are accounts of the action of the Newton Board of Aldermen in making appropriations at the meeting Monday night. Three of the twenty-one members of the Board voted against appropriating $4500 for preliminary plans and specifications for the proposed incinerator; a project which has not received the approval as yet from the NRA which is supposed to provide the funds for this structure, and the location of which has not been decided. One alderman (Temperley) voted against the other appropriations and against $11,000 for pumps at the water reservation at Needham. Read about these matters and decide for yourself if the Aldermen who voted for these appropriations used business like methods, or if the attitude taken by Alderman Temperley, and by the other two Aldermen in the matter of the incinerator, was correct.

For years business men at Newton Corner have been complaining that they have been handicapped by lack of parking space at the business section there. A few years ago Mayor Weeks had a study made of this matter at a cost of $500, so serious had this problem become. Parking at Newton Corner, as at other business sections is limited to one hour. Business men and citizens, therefore, made justifiable criticisms. Last week when an itinerant salesman from outside this city was permitted to park an automobile demonstrating a gadget for three days (including Saturday) at the busiest corner in Nonantum Square, this automobile occupied two parking spaces. If such a violation of the city ordinances is permitted to one vendor, other outsiders can be expected to seek a similar privilege. The city official who permitted this infringement on the rights of Newton merchants and citizens exceeded his authority and used poor judgment.

The hundreds of men in this city who will get a couple of months work through the grants from the Federal government are grateful. For those who have been deprived of the possession of any money the past few months, since the commissary method was adopted by the city, it is a welcome relief.

Talking about the proposed incinerator (the location of which is still unknown); why wouldn't it be a good idea to install in this building, if and when it will be erected, a huge machine to break up and press abandoned automobiles into a mass of metal which can be sold for junk. Such a device has already been installed in one city and eventually will be installed in many. The problem of dumping old automobiles is becoming more vexatious each year. The old cars in dumps and along roadsides are eyesores.
